EXPLAINS HOW TO FILL DRAFT WITHOUT DADS

Wheeler Lists 3½ Million Others.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] declared tonight that demands of the army and navy for a military force of 10,700,000 fighting men by Jan. 1 can and should be met without drafting a single pre-Pearl Harbor father.

Using figures publicly revealed by military chiefs this week, the Montana senator said in a radio address that upward of 3½ million draft age men and childless husbands eligible for military service are still in deferred groups, including government pay rolls. Man power officials, however, he added, are planning to draft 446,000 fathers in the next three months.

"So long as these millions of men are available, why should fathers be taken?" Wheeler asked.

Bill Delays Fathers' Draft.

Sen. Wheeler spoke in support of his bill, pending in the senate, which would forbid the drafting of fathers before Jan. 1, in order, he said, to afford a chance "to solve the man power muddle."

He emphasized that the army and navy should have all the men they require for victory, but added:

"It would be a hollow victory, indeed, if in order to wage war against totalitarianism we destroy that which these foreign ideologies have deliberately destroyed—the home and family life."

Contrary to some impressions, Wheeler said, army and navy chiefs have not requested that fathers be drafted. On the other hand, he added, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testified this week that the army much prefers single and childless married men because they make better soldiers.

Suggests Available Groups.

Therefore, Wheeler declared, "before we break up 446,000 American homes," the following draft deferred groups should be tapped:

1. Government employes "who, like swarms of locusts, infest Washington and every city in the land where government bureaus have been established." There are 657,000 workers of draft age on government pay rolls, Wheeler said.

2. The 4-F classification of men with physical defects, which includes 3,412,000 of whom 2 million could be obtained by lowering physical standards. This would not impair the army's fighting efficiency, Wheeler said, because these men would simply replace nearly 2 million physically fit men now "doing housekeeping duty" instead of front-line fighting.

3. Childless men, totaling 1,508,000 who now hold occupational deferments in industry.

4. A total of 275,000 men between 38 and 45 released from the army by Presidential order since last February who have met army physical tests and had up to one year's training.

Cites Man Power Waste.

Wheeler also pointed out that the Truman committee of the senate has found that there is a "great wastage" of man power in war industries, and that under cost-plus contracts thousands of men are being hoarded in war plants at taxpayers' expense. This waste forces fathers into the army and slows down war production, the senator said.

He also asserted that the army already has in service millions more men than it can ship to fighting fronts in the next 15 months.

"We have in the army at the present time 7,300,000, according to the army's own figures, he said. "Of these, at the end of this year, 1943, they will have transported abroad not more than 2,500,000, At the end of next year, 1944—if they ship all the men possible—there will still be left in the United States approximately 3,000,000 men—and this if not another man is drafted. Yet Gen. Marshall has previously testified that 500,000 men is adequate for the defense of the United States in time of war."

The United States, Wheeler said,

Charges Brain Trust Plan to Fire Generals

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Rep. Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] tonight reported he had been advised on high military authority that at least five ranking army officers are slated to go if Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell replaced Gen. George C. Marshall as chief of staff.

The White House palace guard—Felix Frankfurter, justice of the Supreme court; Harry Hopkins, White House intimate; Samuel I. Rosenman, White House adviser, and David K. Niles, White House executive assistant—plan to replace veteran, conservative generals with braintrusters, Shafer said.

Amplifies Farmer Charge.

Shafer disclosed the army shakeup plans in amplifying the charge he made yesterday that the New Deal high command is plotting to remove Gen. Marshall as chief of staff in order to win a fourth term thru a global WPA program.

The Michigan congressman revealed that at least one other member of congress was present when he received a blue print of the White House palace guard plans to streamline the war department into a global political organization. He said he could not reveal the identity of his informant, but wanted congress to know that his charges are authoritatively grounded.

Lists "Doomed" Officers.

Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell Jr., chief of ordnance.

Maj. Gen. E. B. Gregory, quartermaster general.

Maj. Gen. W. N. Porter, chief of the chemical warfare service.

Maj. Gen. C. P. Gross, chief of transportation.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of army engineers.

Shafer charged that the White House palace guard plans to replace these experienced soldiers with braintrusters, who will advance New Deal ideologies. Among those being considered to replace the generals are Dr. Eli Ginsberg and James P. Mitchell.

The congressman said he understood that both of the civilians are graduates of the Harvard law school during Frankfurter's days as a professor. He added he understood both are now braintrusting in the war department.

Calls It "Damnable Plan."

"It is a damnable plan," Shafer said. "I reiterate what I stated Thursday, it is nothing short of treason. But I have faith that congress will see that the carefully made plans of the 'palace guard' will not materialize. As I have stated before, the lives of millions of our boys now in service are more important than perpetuating the bureaucracy that has been built up by the New Deal."

Shafer said the reason he spread his charges on the Congressional Record yesterday was because he believes this movement must be stopped before it gets started. He

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 25 [Saturday]—(AP).—The airdrome at Finschhafen, New Guinea, has been captured by Australian veterans of desert warfare, Gen. MacArthur announced today. The troops now are within three-quarters of a mile of investing the Japanese coastal base itself.

The Australians, who overran the third air base to fall into Gen. MacArthur's hands since Sept. 11—the Salamaua airdrome was seized on that date, Lae five days later—now are exchanging fire with the Japanese across the Bumi river just north of Finschhafen.

Wipe Out Opposition.

These Australians landed Wednesday, under warship and bomber cover, six miles north of their objective. MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today that they ran into Japanese mortar and machine gun fire. A half hour later they had wiped out the opposition and held a strong beachhead.

Then they moved south and put Finschhafen, which is 60 miles north of Lae, under artillery fire.

While pressure was being increased on Finschhafen's garrison, Mitchell medium bombers flew low in a sector some 70 miles to the west to hammer the rear door of the Markham valley, where enemy remnants may be trying to retreat after the fall of Lae and Salamaua.

Start Fires in Villages.

Many tons of bombs and 41,000 rounds of ammunition started fires in enemy villages, exploded ammunition dumps, and silenced anti-aircraft positions. Much of this damage occurred at Ragitsuma, about 80 miles northwest of Lae.

Patroling Catalinas attacked a Japanese destroyer in the Bismarck sea near New Britain Sept. 23 and cargo vessels south of Cape St. George, New Ireland. Results were not given.

Fire Supply Dumps.

On Kimbe bay, midway along the north shore of New Britain toward the enemy stronghold of Rabaul, Beauforts fired supply dumps and exploded ammunition at the Cape Hoskins airdrome.

ONE-MAN SHOP SERVES PICKET A FREE LUNCH

Hospitable Hyman Friedman wants nobody to think he bears any ill will against the picket for the Rubber Plastic Workers' union who is parading in front of Friedman's tire recapping shop at 7245 Grand avenue, Elmwood Park.

Friedman has refused to join the union because, he says, it can't get him a raise or shorter hours because he is not only the employer involved but the sole employe.

After brooding over the picket's dreary task yesterday, Friedman put a table and chair in front of his shop. On the table he put food. On the chair he put a sign, "Reserved for Picket." In the window of his shop, near the table, he put a sign, "Free Lunch Courtesy of Friedman."

Exchange Rate Shrivels $144,215,000 Gift to $2.65

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 24 (AP).—The state of Utah has received $144,215,000 [face value] in German, Russian, Polish, Austrian, and Hungarian notes from Dan Tomich, a naturalized citizen. But the state wasn't much richer. The United States value of the money was $2.65.

HIS FAVORITE ROLE

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

New in the role of "platform men" at the freight terminal of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad, Canal street and Roosevelt road, are 45 women replacing men in service. They are employees of the American Railway Express and work on shifts around the clock.

When the big trucks back up to the ramps, women unload the cargo, express packages containing anything from toy bicycles to live chickens, as well as trunks, other baggage, and merchandise of many types.

The freight is checked in, weighed, and billed thru to its destination by the women. Some of it goes by rail and the remainder by plane. For the air freight the woman handlers perform all the "land based operations" preparatory to dispatching the crates and packages by plane.

The women freight handlers range in age from the teens to the sixties. Most of them are husky, altho the work is not strenuous or dangerous to the health. Theirs is outdoor work, and they are clad for it in slacks or dungarees, denim aprons, saddle shoes, sweaters, and, when the weather is cool, additional sweaters or jackets.

Typical of the women working at the terminal is Mrs. Marie Brown, whose husband, Walter, is a private in the airborne engineers, stationed at Bradley field in Connecticut. Mrs. Brown joined the ranks of freight handlers last July 9 and likes the work because it keeps her outdoors and is constantly interesting, she says. She assisted her parents in the operation of their grocery before she went to work for the Railway Express.

Brother, an Army Censor, Dispels Soldier's Worries

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 24 (AP).—Corp. David Peterson of the Lincoln air base received a letter from his brother in South America, Staff Sgt. Gerald Peterson, in which Gerald expressed anxiety over the whereabouts of a third brother, John, a captain. At the bottom the censor added: "I am feeling fine and have been wondering where Gerald was stationed. I'll write to him tonight." The censor was John.

Hear Corsica Battle Stirs De Gaulle Ire

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Don Hollenbeck, radio correspondent in Algiers, tonight quoted "reliable sources" as saying that a dispute had flared between Generals Henri Giraud and Charles de Gaulle over the Corsican campaign and that De Gaulle cried, "You stole my Corsica!" and tried to have Giraud ousted as French commander in chief.

Hollenbeck said De Gaulle was said to have been "particularly incensed at what he feels is Giraud's unfair attitude toward the Italians on Corsica."

Accused of Slighting Italians.

The correspondent quoted "reliable informants" as saying, "Giraud is accused of slighting the real contribution made by the Italians toward the success of the present drive against the German forces, and has given credit to them only as labor troops."

Hollenbeck reported his informants indicated that the Corsican campaign began entirely as a "home grown affair, staged by Corsican patriots who had no particular interest in either general. . . . The moment the uprising became known in Algiers, Giraud rushed a battalion of soldiers to the island, and was immediately accused by De Gaulle of trying to engineer a coup."

Called Decisive Factors.

The NBC correspondent said that in the opinion of impartial Frenchmen the Italians on Corsica were the really decisive factor in the uprising's success. He added that those of the garrison of 40,000 Italians who did not fight actively turned their equipment over to patriots who did, and that the Nazis promptly recognized the uselessness of attempting to defend the island and began to withdraw at once behind rear guards.

Hollenbeck said the reappearance of the "old row" between the two generals meant that hoped for unity in the committee "has taken a bad kick in its first real test in Corsica."

YANK DOCTOR TAKES TIME OUT IN ITALY TO DELIVER A BABY

WITH AMERICAN 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 23 [delayed] (AP).—In an American field hospital where doughboys were getting treatment for battle wounds, a baby's wail sounded today.

Her name is Teresa Maria Russo, but the American nurses already have nicknamed her "K-Ration Tessie." The reason is that an empty ration box is serving as Tessie's bassinet.

Tessie's mother was brought to the field hospital wounded by shrapnel. Caught between the American and German lines, she had lain helpless for several days before an ambulance collection party found her. While she was being prepared for an operation, it was discovered she was about to give birth to a child.

There was a peace time pediatrician present, Maj. Charles B. Better of Memphis, Tenn. With the assistance of three nurses the major delivered the baby. Operation for removal of the shrapnel then was performed.

LADY MACBETH TURNS RED IN VANDALS' RAID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24. — Baconian sympathizers working stealthily in a blackout are believed to have vented their dislike of Shakespeare in red paint at the bard's birthplace, Stratford-on-Avon, last night. The vandals left a flimsy bit of women's underwear fluttering from the town hall flagpole to top off the occasion.

The statue of Lady Macbeth in front of the Shakespeare Memorial theater appeared to early passers-by to be blushing violently. Her face was a deep crimson. Hamlet, they then noticed, was equally rosy, and was wearing red shoes and holding a red skull. The front steps of the theater bore the words "Bacon Memorial theater." On the Shakespeare statue the word "Bacon" was painted front and back. The three faces of the American memorial clock were disfigured and a "V for victory" sign was painted around its base.

Store windows, the local movie, and business offices had been splashed with paint and the sidewalks on the main street bore various inscriptions. Boats had been released and floated down the river. A canoe had been carried a fourth of a mile and dumped into a pond. The flagstaff in the local gardens was found planted in the river.

Action Aimed to Combat Jap Propaganda

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Plans for immediate recognition of the independence of the Philippines were begun in congress today.

Rep. C. Jasper Bell.

Altho Philippine independence has already been granted, effective July 4, 1946, sponsors of immediate independence explained that a declaration assuring it would spike Japanese propaganda that the United States plans to delay recognition.

A resolution to grant independence was introduced in the senate by Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], chairman of the senate territories and insular affairs committee. Rep. C. Jasper Bell [D., Mo.], chairman of the house insular affairs committee, said he would propose an identical resolution in the house.

Japs Promise Freedom.

Sen. Tydings told the senate that the Japanese are trying to mislead the Philippine Islands residents by telling them American promises of independence are not genuine. The Japanese, he said, are holding out the promise that they will give the Philippines independence, thru a puppet government, if the Filipinos will join their side.

The senator ridiculed the thought that the Philippine residents would be deceived. But said nevertheless that the Japanese hope to have the Filipinos fighting by their side when the Americans land to retake the islands.

There should be no question, he told the senators, in any one's mind as to American intentions. For that reason he called for an immediate stand by congress.

Both Presidents Favorable.

Sen. Tydings said he had talked with President Roosevelt and the President of the Philippine commonwealth, Manuel L. Quezon, and found that they both favor immediate independence. President Roosevelt recently broadcast assurance to the people of the Philippines that American promises would be kept.

Sen. Tydings' resolution would authorize President Roosevelt to enter negotiations with President Quezon within 30 days after enactment of the resolution, for arranging independence.

Would Arrange War Plans.

The President would then negotiate with representatives of the Philippine government on the prosecution of the war in the islands and the adjustment of property rights pending final defeat of the Japanese invaders.

The resolution calls for an immediate conference between the United States and the Philippines to plan future trade relations and consider post-war economy, defense, and relationships. The United States delegation would be three senators appointed by the President of the senate, three representatives appointed by the speaker of the house, and three members appointed by President Roosevelt. The Philippines would have a representation of nine, appointed by President Quezon.

GERMANS QUIT PRIZE CENTRAL FRONT CITADEL

Yield Roslavl Also, Berlin Says.

LONDON, Sept. 25 [Saturday]—(AP).—A DNB [official German news agency] statement broadcast from Berlin today said that Smolensk, important Nazi central front bastion, had been evacuated in the face of advancing Russian forces.

The broadcast, recorded by Reuters [British] news agency, said that Roslavl, southeast of Smolensk, also was abandoned by its Nazi garrison. The news agency statement said:

"After completing the most important and necessary measures and demolition of all important military installations the towns of Smolensk and Roslavl were evacuated last night by German rear guards."

Fight for Dnieper.

The statement was without immediate confirmation from Moscow, which earlier today had announced that Russian troops had surged forward along a 300 mile front on the eastern bank of the Dnieper river and knocked at the gates of Smolensk and at Kiev on the south.

The soviet radio monitor, incorrectly transcribing a Moscow broadcast of the announcement, first said the Dnieper had been crossed in the Gomel sector but later changed its version of the report to tell of a crossing of the Iput river, some 70 miles east of the Dnieper.

Reach River at Many Points.

Nevertheless, the Russians, according to Moscow reports, were already at the river in many places and the Germans mentioned an attempted soviet crossing below Gomel, at a point where the Pripet river enters the Dnieper.

The first Russian announcement that Red forces had reached the Dnieper came from the army newspaper Red Star, which said soviet columns drove to its banks northwest of Dnepropetrovsk, at the top of the mighty river's great bend. The Moscow war report told of advances which put the Red forces only 17 miles from Dnepropetrovsk.

At the north end of the flaming front, in the fight for Smolensk, the Russians captured a town seven miles northeast of Hitler's former headquarters and on the northwest tightened another tentacle on the big rail center. On the southeast they seized a high road leading to Smolensk. Of the 466 populated places captured by the soviet armies yesterday, 70 were taken on the Smolensk front.

Pincers Close on Kiev.

Along the middle Dnieper line, Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, was menaced by approaching soviet guns 17 miles away on the southeast and 18 miles to the northeast. On this front several German counter-attacks were beaten off. A British radio report said the Russians have blasted thru the outer defenses of Kiev to within 10 miles of the Nazi citadel.

Other Red army gains saw the Germans pushed back to the Kerch strait in the Caucasus as the last town on the southern coast of the Taman peninsula fell to the Russians. A Berlin broadcast hinted the Germans are evacuating their feeble foothold on the Kuban Caucasus.

MOUNTBATTEN BOASTS HE CAN TALK AMERICAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Adm. Louis Mountbatten, a cousin of King George who recently was appointed supreme allied commander in southeast Asia, has "passed as an interpreter" for the American forces. He made this claim today at a Royal Naval Film corporation luncheon in London at which he disclosed he had learned American from Hollywood.

"It is an allied command I am going to," he told the luncheon guests, "and it is a great help to have learned the language in my experience with American film executives. We all know the simple words like gasoline instead of petrol and trucks for lorries, but there are other words coming into use all the time."

OPA PREPARING NEW GAS SLASH, SEARCY CHARGES

Ads to Soften Midwest Placed, He Asserts.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Charges that the Roosevelt administration has whipped the oil industry into spending thousands on a campaign of advertising to soften up the midwestern public for another slash in gasoline rations, were made yesterday by State Sen. Earle B. Searcy [R., Springfield], chairman of the Illinois joint legislative petroleum commission.

Values of A, B, and C coupons were cut in the middle west from four to three gallons Aug. 15. Searcy said he is informed that the aim of the petroleum administration for war and the office of price administration now is to cut the ration down to two gallons a coupon. He asserted he was informed the advertising campaign will start tomorrow with a three-quarter page display in 103 midwestern newspapers.

Original Slash Softened.

"I am told the ad purports to give the low down on gasoline rationing in this area," Searcy said. "I get it from other unimpeachable sources, however, that its real purpose is to soften up the public for another cut in the value of gasoline coupons. My informants say the Aug. 15 slash originally was to have cut midwestern coupons to two gallons, but strong protests stopped the plan then. Now the burocrats are resorting to what they consider to be strategy."

Inquiry developed that the advertisment to which Searcy referred will appear tomorrow and Monday in newspapers in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Wisconsin.

Searcy said he understood it is sponsored by the petroleum industry committee for district 2 [comprising 15 middle western states], appointed by Petroleum Administrator for War Harold L. Ickes.

Paid by Oil Companies.

"According to my information," the Springfield state senator continued, "it is being paid for by some 60 oil companies. What with renegotiation of government contracts and other strangle holds the burocrats have on the oil industry, it is not difficult to believe it was inspired by federal coercion.

"Why should the industry advertise to curtail use of its own products? I understand that's what the ad is—a plea for voluntary rationing and curtailment in the use of gasoline. I learned of this prospective campaign five weeks ago, when I was told $30,000 was to be spent to 'educate the public' about rationing. Carter Jenkins, state director of OPA, started the ball rolling at that time with a radio address."

Searcy, in Chicago, said he was working to get sworn testimony concerning burocratic coercion before his commission to investigate the rationing of petroleum and petroleum products.

TRIBUNE SHOW WAR BOND SALES TOTAL $153,830

War bond and stamp sales at four special booths at the Tribune-Treasury-Navy show in Tribune Square amounted to $51,825 at 4 p. m. yesterday, making a total of $153,830 for the first two days of the show. The total sale Thursday was $102,025, including a purchase of $50,000 in bonds by the Bond clothing stores. A special drive is being conducted by the treasury department in connection with the Navy show as part of the third war loan campaign. Bond buyers in the tent are permitted to receive some primary flying instructions while seated in the Link trainer, used by aviation cadets in the army and navy to learn blind flying.

Exhibition of the destroyer escort, U. S. S. Spangler, in the navy "Back the Attack" show sponsored by the treasury department in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was made possible only by the 3,500 employes of the Defoe Shipbuilding company in Bay City, Mich.

Neglecting the farms on which a majority of them live and working long hours of overtime, the Defoe workers turned out the warship three days ahead of schedule to permit the ship to be shown in Chicago and at the same time be delivered to the United States navy on time. The destroyer escort which arrived at the Tribune display dock Thursday afternoon will be on view until noon tomorrow.

Attendance for the first two days of the show totaled 21,604, after 9,237 viewed exhibits yesterday.

The U. S. S. Spangler, fully equipped with guns and depth charge gear, is among hundreds of items of navy material on display in five exhibit spaces in and around Tribune Tower.

The destroyer escort ships built by Defoe are the largest warships ever constructed on the Great Lakes. More than 300 feet long, they are rated at 750 tons. A specially constructed bow permits them to ram and sink submarines, their principal prey.

The ship on display in the Treasury-Navy Tribune show was named after Lt. [j. g.] Donald Hayes Spangler, who was killed in action in the battle of the Solomons while stationed aboard the U. S. S. Atlanta, Nov. 13, 1942.

OPA PLACES O. K. ON SALES TAX AS AN ADDED ITEM

May Reject Sale Without It, Dealers Advised.

Alex Elson, office of price administration regional attorney, yesterday ruled that under Tuesday's Supreme court decision "there is nothing which prohibits a seller from stating the retailers' occupation tax, commonly called sales tax, separately or passing it on to the consumer, provided the latter either expressly or by implication agrees to pay it."

Elson thus agreed with retail merchants, their attorneys and representatives that they may add the tax to sales slips and invoices as a separate item. Some experts, after studying the high court's ruling, had taken the view that a retailer must include the tax in prices.

The Supreme court's ruling upheld the refusal of Leslie Moysey, Berwyn real estate man, represented by Atty. Arnold Lund, to pay $8.56 billed him by a drug store as a sales tax.

Answers Ceiling Inquiries.

The OPA issued its own interpretation of the ruling because of questions concerning the effect on the ceiling price structure governing retailers' sales. Elson officially said:

"OPA regulations provide that retailers may add to selling prices the amount of any tax upon or incident to a sale if the tax is stated separately and if the tax statute does not prohibit the seller from stating and collecting the tax separately from the price.

"The Illinois retailers' occupation tax is such a tax. Under the Supreme court ruling there is nothing which prohibits a seller from stating the tax separately and passing it on to the consumer, provided the latter either expressly or by implication agrees to pay it.

Both Parties May Refuse.

"Any customer is, of course, free to refuse to buy unless the additional charge is omitted, and any seller may refuse to sell under such conditions."

Elson said earlier decisions of the high court held the tax is not a tax upon the consumer but upon the retailer, just as the present ruling did. "This," he added, "would not, however, prevent the retailer from including the tax as an expense of doing business."

J. T. Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, told of Elson's official ruling, said: "That is our fundamental basis. I don't see any conflict between our stand and his."

RAID L'AIGLON; SEIZE LIQUOR ON TAX CHARGE

Federal alcohol tax unit agents raided the fashionable L'Aiglon restaurant, 22 East Ontario street, on Thursday and seized 200 cases of assorted liquors, it was learned yesterday at the office of E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor for the unit. Theodore Majerus, operator of the restaurant, was cited to appear at Yellowley's office on charges of failure to pay the tax imposed on liquor stocks in the hands of dealers.

F. D. R. ORDERS REPLANNING OF ARMS OUTPUT

Overproduction Charges Prompt Survey.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24—Taking cognizance of mounting congressional protests against inefficient and unbalanced munitions production, President Roosevelt today announced the creation of an army-navy production survey committee charged with replanning arms output to conform to actual needs.

"With critical shortages in material and man power," the President's statement said, "we must see that we produce only what we need and that waste, unavoidably present in war, is kept to a minimum."

The announcement followed a deluge of complaints to members of congress that bungling of production planning on the home front has hampered military operations overseas and cost the lives of American soldiers.

Not Enough Planes and Ships.

According to information from various war agencies charged with production programs there has been wasteful overproduction of many items, including tanks, artillery, ammunition, anti-aircraft guns, small arms, combat vehicles, and various miscellaneous items, but a serious underproduction of army transports and other ships and aircraft.

The matter has come to the attention of the Truman committee of the senate, which is conducting a preliminary investigation prior to holding hearings on the entire production program. Congressmen have expressed particular concern over reports, confirmed by Prime Minister Churchill in his speech Tuesday, that the 40 days' delay in the invasion of Italy was caused by difficulties in assembling enough ships and landing barges.

Includes Civilian Needs.

Announcement of the new production review body was released at a press conference today by James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director.

Byrnes said that the army, navy, and maritime commission are getting away from cost-plus contracts, which he said make holders of such contracts indifferent as to how many workers they employ, and are substituting what he called incentive or man-hour contracts under which the government shares with the contractor any savings made under a "target price" fixed in the beginning.

He told a questioner that procurement reviews already going on should result in more of some little things for civilian use. For example, he said barbed wire is now available for civilian use from allotments which a year or two ago had been set aside for possible military use in this country.

Includes Four Officers.

The President's announcement said the committee has been set up by the joint chiefs of staff and will consist of two high ranking officers of the army and two from the navy. The committee, it was explained, will consult with both the military chiefs and Byrnes' office on over-all production, including civilian as well as war goods.

"Constant attention is required," the statement said, "to insure that our military programs are kept in step with altered military objectives, and that production programs are changed in accordance with lessons from the battlefields and the assembly lines."

WPB Power Declining.

Today's action was regarded in capital circles as a further indication that the war production board, headed by Donald M. Nelson, has been stripped of most of its authority over broad production planning and that this power now rests with the military chiefs and White House advisers such as Byrnes and Harry Hopkins, the President's confidant. WPB has been increasingly overshadowed and relegated to purely administrative functions since the OWM was set up under Byrnes last spring.

PLANTS' GUARDS GAIN SEPARATE BARGAINING UNIT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—In a decision regarded as establishing a policy where war plant guards are concerned, the war labor board today ordered a separate bargaining unit established for guards at Brewster Aeronautical corporation plants. The unanimous decision also ruled that their agreement with the management be subordinate to directives of the navy department.

The guards are company employes and members of the CIO United Auto Workers and also are temporary members of the coast guard reserve. The issue of civil versus military rights provoked a strike last month at Brewster's Johnsville, Pa., plant when four guards were placed under military arrest for refusing to take posts assigned them by a navy officer. The guards insisted their seniority rights gave them the privilege of choosing preferred posts.

The decision makes seniority privileges subject to navy discipline, but Chairman William H. Davis told newsmen "it is to be assumed, of course, the navy in issuing its orders will have regard to these fellows' general rights under the contract."

MOVE TO SHELVE POST-WAR BILL GAINS IN SENATE

Connally Asks Delay to Sound Out Allies.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—With the backing of Chairman Tom Connally [D., Tex.], a strong move developed within the senate foreign relations committee today to delay action on pending declarations of post-war foreign policy until the views of America's chief allies have been sounded out.

Without mentioning either the tripartite meeting of allied foreign ministers or the possibility that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, and Premier Josef Stalin may get together before the end of the year, Connally declared the committee has no desire at this time to "afford an opportunity for intemperate and trouble-making debate on the floor of the senate."

"Ill-considered debate," he said in a statement, "might produce irritations or vexations at a critical period in the prosecution of the war."

George Approves Stand.

"It is known to all well informed men that the utmost freedom of debate is permitted under the senate rules," Connally said. "It is further known that senators do not hesitate to avail themselves of that unlimited freedom."

Connally's view that the committee ought to proceed cautiously, despite the approval given by the house to the Fulbright resolution, was shared by Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.] who preceded Connally in the chairmanship.

In addition, Sen. Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], a stanch administration supporter, said that if the committee is to draw a more detailed statement of foreign policy than that expressed in the Fulbright proposal, it ought to await developments at the Moscow conference of foreign ministers.

Bill Faces the Shelf.

The Fulbright resolution would put congress on record as favoring American participation, by constitutional processes, in "appropriate international machinery" to preserve the peace. It has been marked for a pigeonhole in the senate committee, which expects to bring out its own version.

Connally's reluctance to act at this time found support in the stand of Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], who told reporters he did not believe any statement of American intentions ought to be made until after Britain and Russia have made their post-war aims clearer. Sen. Robert LaFollette [P., Wis.] also has argued against consideration of any declaration now.

Gillette Favors Vote.

On the other hand, Sen. Guy Gillette [D., Ia.] has said he believes it extremely important for congress to act, so that the view of the senate might be known before the Moscow meeting.

Sen. Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.], one of the authors of a pending resolution to pledge this country's participation in international machinery to maintain the peace by force, if necessary, said he and others of like views would fight to bring the issue before the senate promptly.

"How can our representatives say to Stalin 'we are in favor of collective security to maintain future peace' if the senate has not acted?" Ball demanded. "He will say to them 'what about the senate?'

"What we need," he continued, "is a clear declaration of American foreign policy that will help the Moscow conference accomplish some results."

AMG NOW READYING TO HANDLE RELEASED AXIS OCCUPIED LANDS

Allied military governments, now in the process of organization, will be ready to take over immediately after each axis occupied country has been liberated by allied soldiers, Maj. Gen. John H. Hilldring, chief of the army's civil affairs committee, said here yesterday.

Maj. Gen. Hilldring.

Experts familiar with the problems of each country, Gen. Hilldring said, are now working out details of "tailor made" governments, each designed to fit the individual needs of that country, so that there will not be the slightest delay in establishing government, the moment axis soldiers have been driven out.

Gen. Hilldring addressed members of the Military Training Camps association of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin at a dinner last night in the Chicago club, outlining some of the problems of the army's military government program in occupied territories. The first such government, he said, was established in Sicily and since has been extended to the lower part of Italy thru which the British 8th army has passed.

5TH ARMY DRIVES TO RING NAPLES; BATTLES IN HILLS

Planes Blast Germans in Port Area.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 24 (AP).—The American 5th army, in full offensive, lunged toward Naples tonight behind a violent artillery and air barrage which reduced German mountain positions and blocked enemy roads.

The American and British troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army exerted so much pressure before Naples that the British 8th army was able to mop up virtually all Italy south of a line east of Salerno to the Adriatic sea above Bari. Impeded only by demolitions, the 8th army captured Altamura, 42 miles northwest of Taranto, and Matera, 10 miles south of Altamura. An arm of the 5th army scooped up the mountain town of Oliveto-Citra, 24 miles east of Salerno.

The main body of the 5th army made slow progress in the mountains north of Salerno, but there was evidence of ground gained within sight of Mount Vesuvius.

Blast Bases Near Naples.

An air force statement said American Mitchell bombers "blocked roads and hit targets just behind the enemy lines near San Severino and Sarno." Sarno is 19 miles east and slightly south of Naples on the east side of Vesuvius. San Servino is seven miles north of Salerno.

The air force bulletin also announced that fighter bombers had pummeled gun positions west of Avellino, a road junction 16 miles north of Salerno and 25 miles east of Naples. Other bomb targets were around Benevento, Cancello, and Capua, all in the Naples area.

[This suggested that Clark was hurling his main weight toward Avellino in a wide flanking movement to the east of Naples and Vesuvius. The volcano compresses the main highway from Salerno to Naples into a narrow coastal defile.]

Threaten Roads to Port.

The heavy pressure of the 5th army threatened the roads leading into Naples, second largest Italian port of 925,000. German demolitions have wrecked the waterfront and blocked the docks with the hulks of at least 30 Italian ships. Industrial and rail centers also have been put to the torch.

Clark's men encountered heavy artillery and mortar fire and extensive mine fields in their forward drive.

A military spokesman said:

"The enemy obviously intends to hold on as long as possible. Progress is slow north of Salerno, and the fighting is bitter and severe. The enemy has reconstructed his whole line and put strength where it is needed. The 8th army has been able to advance 30 miles northward because of Gen. Clark's operations."

Dive Bombers Repel Nazis.

Night bombers flew north beyond Leghorn to attack rail yards and an airport at Pisa. Mosquitos hit the Vitero air base north of Rome.

The vulnerability of the German held Balkans to allied attack across the Adriatic was demonstrated by a bold raid of motor torpedo boats which sank a loaded ammunition ship and another vessel in the Albanian Bay of Valona. They damaged two more and escaped without damage or casualty before coastal guns could find their range.

DOWN 7 BIG NAZI TROOP PLANES FLEEING CORSICA

Allies Seize 2 Cities in South of Isle.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Germans are continuing their northward withdrawal on Corsica, a French war bulletin said today. Allied forces have occupied Bonifacio and Porto Vecchio, on the southern end of the island, while allied planes intercepted German attempts at an aerial evacuation.

Bastia, on the northern tip of the 112 mile long island, has been rendered almost useless to the enemy thru continued air raids, the French high command said. Several ammunition dumps and numerous tanks on a quayside, awaiting embarkation, were destroyed. French air force units are participating in the operations.

An allied announcement earlier told of intensification of the aerial blockade of the island, 52 miles off the Italian boot. R. A. F. Beaufighters shot down seven of the German transports evacuating troops toward Leghorn, in Italy.

See Many Ships at Sea.

Allied naval forces also were on the watch for shipping attempting to escape from Bastia. Flyers reported sighting many small boats attempting to run the blockade. The French disclosed that two cruisers, six destroyers, and three submarines of the French fleet had aided operations. One cruiser was from Martinique.

Besides Bonifacio and Porto Vecchio, Corsican patriots, French and United States troops also seized Murato and Santo Stefano.

Nazis Claim Island Seized.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—The German news agency DNB broadcast today that German troops had captured the island of Cephalonia, in the Ionian sea off the west coast of Greece.

The Nazi war bulletin said:

"After the treason of the Badoglio government the bulk of the Italian division, Acqui, stationed on the Island of Cephalonia [one of the Greek Ionian islands] refused to lay down arms and opened hostilities. After preparation by the German air force, German troops launched an attack, broke the resistance of the rebels, and captured the port of Argostolion. Apart from 4,000 men who laid down their arms in time, the bulk of the rebellious division, including its staff, was annihilated."

Chicagoan on Tug Navajo Is Placed on Missing List

Robert W. Loeber, 25 years old, a second class quartermaster aboard the tug U. S. S. Navajo, reported sunk Sept. 12 in the southwest Pacific after an undersea explosion, has been reported by the navy as missing in action, his wife, Mrs. Frances Loeber, and his mother, Mrs. Gussie Loeber, 7614 Carpenter street, said last night. Loeber, who enlisted in December, 1941, had served in four major sea battles, his wife said. He was a graduate of Calumet High school.

SANDER STOLEN FROM SHOP.

EARPHONE LINES SAVE SERGEANT'S LIFE OVER ROME

Experiences encountered in 35 allied air raids over the middle east and numerous photographic expeditions over the African desert were recounted yesterday by Tech. Sgt. Jerry J. Yoswick, 23 years old, recipient of the distinguished flying cross, the air medal, and an oak leaf cluster, who is spending a furlough with his mother, Mrs. Theresa Joswick, 4255 West Cullerton street.

The sergeant's narrowest escape occurred during the first large scale raid over Rome. Strapping his heavy motion picture camera around his waist, he lay across the tunnel door. The earphone wires of the waist gunner were around his neck. Some propaganda pamphlets had been released from another plane.

"I thought it was a new kind of anti-aircraft shell," Sgt. Joswick said. "The pamphlets looked like stars coming up at me and I leaned out to look at them. A combination of interest, surprise, and lack of oxygen threw me off balance. As I slipped, the wire around my neck pulled at the gunner's earphones. He pulled me back in. If it hadn't been for that I might be somewhere in Rome today."

Two Glenview Air Station Navy Flyers Hurt in Crash

Lt. [j. g.] Joseph C. Burgy, 30 years old, of Hagerman, Idaho, was critically injured Thursday evening in the crash of a naval primary training plane near Eagle River, Wis., the navy announced yesterday. The pilot of the plane, Ensign J. J. O'Mahoney of Great Falls, Mont., was slightly hurt.

HOW TO HANDLE BADOGLIO LOOMS AS BIG PROBLEM

Believe He Acts as Voice for 'Free Italy.'

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 24.—More and more the question of how to handle Marshal Pietro Badoglio is plainly concerning those whose job it is to find the answer. The immediate situation seems to be that an answer in principle has been found—but the allies are not quite sure when and who will announce it to the public.

Marshal Badoglio has made his second speech over Radio Italiana. He assailed Mussolini and the Germans, reiterating that the Nazis have to be ejected from Italy, declaring that the Italian people and the army had sworn allegiance to the king and were thru with Fascism.

Thus the impression grows that Marshal Badoglio is being permitted to function as the "mouthpiece" for "free Italy."

However, it is apparent that the problem of defeated Italy tends to split up into all sorts of subsidiary problems, adding up to a perplexing political headache.

Army Using Kid Gloves.

From the 5th army front, for instance, one officer reports that American army authorities are "handling with kid gloves the problems of Italians volunteering for service under allied leadership."

Whether they should be regarded as prisoners, demobilized troops, interned, semi-enemies, neutrals, or active allies is not yet a matter of record.

The French announcement that 80,000 Italians in Corsica—this figure is regarded as high by many observers—probably would be permitted to return to Sardinia or Sicily but not to function as active allies, may provide a clew as to how the Italians are to be treated.

There is also the matter of allied military government [AMG] which is in Italy, but is operating privately so far as the outside world is concerned.

Reaction Feared.

Every so often an AMG announcement tells of the organization's accomplishments in Sicily, the latest revealing that steps have been taken toward establishment of a free labor movement in Sicily. But there has been no word from the AMG in Italy. AMG's role is not likely to expand much in Italy, it is indicated, and may not even continue along the lines laid down when the organization was first announced during the occupation of Sicily.

The problem facing allied military and diplomatic experts on the Italian question is complicated by the reaction feared at home and among the allied nations, and by the intricacies of Italian politics.

The northern Italian cities are important from a military point of view, and it is in them that the labor parties have the greatest strength. They may prefer Badoglio to Mussolini, but it is pointed out that he left northern Italy in the lurch, and managed to get behind the allied lines.

The same applies to the missing King Victor Emmanuel, who is believed preferred either to Mussolini or Badoglio. However, he never has had the grip on his subjects that other likable rulers have had.

WHY MacARTHUR SEES AUSTRALIA AS ATTACK BASE!

Advantages Weighed for Full Scale Assault.

BY C. YATES McDANIEL.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 25 [Saturday]—(AP).—The vital issue brought into the open by Gen. MacArthur's statement last Wednesday implying that his role in the war might be curtailed is not who is to direct the major assault on Japan, but from what base or basic area such an offensive is to be mounted. MacArthur favors an attack from Australia, instead of Burma, Hawaii or Alaska.

When the general said he was willing to accept a subordinate role, discussion arose as to whether the assault would be made by the forces of Adm. Louis Mountbatten in India or those under the Southwest Pacific command. Mountbatten is the supreme allied commander in southeast Asia.

Favors Massive Strokes.

In his statement MacArthur said he favored "massive strokes against only main strategic objectives" instead of "island hopping, with extravagant losses and slow progress."

There are four available base areas from which the allies could pivot striking forces against Japan's empire. These are Alaska-Aleutians; Hawaii-Midway; Australia-New Guinea-Solomons; and India-Ceylon.

The Aleutians are more distant from the centers of American production and supply than Hawaii, but Kiska and even Dutch Harbor in Alaska, are much nearer than other bases to the heart of Japan. However, the difficulties of bad weather for military operations in that area have not yet been overcome.

It would be a daring commander who would venture to lead an invasion fleet across 2,250 statute miles of open seas from Midway to the main island of Japan. Over two-thirds of the distance the fleet would not only be dependent upon carriers for airplane cover but would be within range of enemy planes based on islands.

Offers Land Bridgehead.

The Australian and Indian base areas are both distant from Japan proper and about equidistant from the enemy's newly won sources of vital war materials. Both areas are about the same distance from British and American sources of supply.

India, as a base for large scale operations, has an apparent advantage over Australia in that it offers a land bridgehead into Japanese held east Asia and that it possesses a vast reservoir of native fighting and labor power.

India's land connection with Burma threatened to prove a weakness last year but now the British have made India reasonably secure from invasion. India still represents weaknesses. Chief of these is its native population of subject peoples among whom discontent is prevented from open eruption by stern repressive measures.

India Lacks Food.

Adding to this discontent, and weakening India's potential usefulness as an operating base, is the country's chronic lack of food sufficient even for the native populace.

All leaders seem to agree that we must, to achieve a victory over the Japanese, make the fullest use of China's bases, her man power, and her unbreakable will to fight to victory.

Heroic exertions might succeed in pushing the allied armies across northern Burma to the Chinese border. That would mean the reopening of the Burma road. But the Burma road is not an efficient supply route.

Existing and well established bases at Ceylon, only 1,000 miles from the tip of Sumatra and a little farther from the narrow waist of the Malayan peninsula, would suggest the possibility of at least a strong feint toward the northwestern end of Sumatra and a stronger thrust designed to cut Japanese communications between Thailand [Siam] and Singapore.

Move May Be Costly.

Such a move would strike at the heart of the enemy's military and economic hold in southeast Asia but it likely would prove costly. Even if successful it would still leave the allies with the necessity of undertaking equally ambitious overland and amphibious campaigns to become firmly established in the Hongkong area.

Australians now see their country as a base from which the allies could commence the task of rolling back the Japanese tide.

There is much to support this view. Its 7,000,000 people are almost wholly British or of long-absorbed European stock among whom no fifth column movement has or is likely to make headway.

This population, tho unable to provide a combat army large enough to launch a major offensive, is well mobilized for war.

Australia can feed a much larger civilian and military population than she now supports. Furthermore her weakness in heavy industry and lack of certain essential war materials can be overcome by shipments from abroad over air and sea routes.

Then, too, American and Australian divisions already in the Southwest Pacific form the core of a reconquest army.

A Team of Experts.

The Southwest Pacific command moreover is comprised of a team of land, air and amphibious experts who aggregate more practical experience with our enemy in the Pacific than probably all other commands together could muster.

Some critics have written off the achievements in the Solomons and New Guinea as "island hopping." But the Guadalcanal, New Georgia and New Guinea moves were essential preliminaries to the main assault.

Even the reconquest of New Britain and the web of bases hinged on Rabaul would be a preliminary move designed to remove Rabaul, the fortress which now prevents any deep penetration of the Japanese empire from the east.

The strategy of MacArthur envisions one or a series of massive strokes, which would carry a powerful allied force over and around many islands as far as the southern Philippines.

Reoccupation of Mindanao in the Philippines might prove costly but probably no more than seaborne invasion of southern Burma or Malaya.

Suggests Bigger Sea Raids.

Naval raids, on a larger scale than attempted so far, against Truk and other of the enemy's flanking bases would facilitate allied development of the southern Philippines as a base against the enemy's supply lines between the Indies, Malaya, and Japan. Strong pressure also could be exerted against Japan's bases around the South China sea.

Such a strategy if matched by formidable exertions from India and Ceylon against the west coast of the south Asian mainland could result not only in complete isolation of Japan from its sources of raw materials, but also enable the allies to gain a foothold along the seaboard of China.

Such an achievement wouldn't cause the collapse of Japan overnight, but would be the most decisive stride in that direction yet undertaken.

Jap Air Field in New Guinea Falls

CHICAGO MAJOR TELLS OF BIG AIR FIGHT IN GUINEA

Leaves Office Job for Seat in Plane.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 24 (AP).—Maj. Charles Gallup of Chicago, who holds down an office job with the 5th air force, wanted a "little excitement." Well, he got it.

Gallup hopped into a P-38 Lockheed Lightning when word came that 20 to 30 Japanese bombers, with an escort of 30 to 40 fighters, were attempting to disrupt landings of Australian troops on the beach north of Finschhafen, New Guinea, two days ago.

Major Has Front Seat.

He had a front seat to the flaming spectacle that followed as American Lightnings, Marauders, and P-40s [Curtiss Warhawks] shot down 40 enemy planes and placed five more in the "probable" class.

"Our fighters," said Gallup, "hit those Nips like a ton of brick—only a lot faster and harder."

Gallup flew along with one fighter element in a plane dubbed "Tail End Charlie." The pilots first sighted the enemy at about 12,000 feet, and then, Gallup said, "Planes from all over the sky poured down in hot dives to get into them.

Planes Tear Into Japs.

"We saw Thunderbolts and P-40s tearing into the Japs, sending bombers and fighters flaming into the sea."

After dropping bombs from low altitude the Japanese atempted to get away, but Gallup said our flyers saw five or six enemy fighters heading for home and took after them.

"The first part of our flight knocked them down. One Jap decided to tear around the other side of a huge cloud to try and get away. A Thunderbolt coming from the opposite direction met him and his .50 calibers demolished that guy."

DOWNED SIX PLANES.

Maj. Gallup is credited with shooting down six Japanese planes. He has been decorated three times. He enlisted in the air force nearly three years ago after serving in the marines for three years. He is a graduate of Hirsch High school and formerly lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gallup, 2703 East 76th place. Maj. Gallup is 25 years old.

STOP POLITICAL STRIKES, BRITISH LABOR IS WARNED

Bevin Rips Tieups That Hurt War Production.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin in winding up the two day man power debate in the house of commons today bluntly declared he would not tolerate strikes organized for political reasons in order to embarrass the government or check war production.

The minister indicated he was seeking extended powers to deal with this type of politico-labor trouble.

Strikes are banned in war time and the government has the power to prosecute strikers with severe fines and imprisonment. Because enforcement of such penalties against thousands of individual workers is difficult, political circles suggested Bevin may be empowered to proceed directly against strike leaders and agitators, even tho not employed in the strike bound plant.

Both Sides Blamed.

Replying to a suggestion that the wave of unofficial strikes may be due to Communist activities and are undermining the trade union movement in this country, Bevin said the troublemakers are not limited to one side. There are several organizations which are opposed to the war and intended to impede it, he added.

Bevin as a former trade union boss, assured parliament that he will do nothing while a member of the cabinet to weaken legitimate trade unions. "But I do feel," he added, "that steps must be taken to see that the war effort is not impeded by these activities."

In addition to political strikes, Bevin said some were provoked by employers for ulterior reasons, such as a desire to alter contracts, while others arise from protracted irritation on the part of the workers. He said existing legislation can deal with these.

Draft of Women Opposed.

The debate centered on Bevin's proposal to call up women from 45 to 50 years of age for aircraft factories. Most members of parliament opposed this plan despite the assurances from the labor ministry that the greatest care would be taken to avoid hardships or unbearable burdens to older women.

Demands that the labor minister comb the civil service and the fighting and civil defense services for redundant man power came from all sides.

Citing wastage of man power in the army and navy, one member said that in a London hotel recently he saw "a full sized guardsman cleaning the buttons on a junior officer's tunic," while on another occasion he saw a sailor carrying golf clubs for an admiral whom he drove home for lunch every day. At another hotel, the member complained, a whole floor was reserved for junior army officers, many of whose batmen served them breakfast in bed.

The ministry of information and other government departments, he also protested, are wastefully overstaffed.

SURVIVORS OF ROMA REPORT 1,400 KILLED AS BOMB HITS STACK

MAHON, Balearic Islands, Sept. 23 [Delayed]—(AP).—Survivors of the Italian battleship Roma said today that 1,400 crewmen were killed and some 500 others were burned seriously when a German plane scored a hit squarely in the vessel's stack.

Italy's newest and largest warship "exploded like a bomb," one sailor said, as she sped southward toward Algiers shortly after the Italian capitulation. Escorting cruisers and gunboats rescued about 700 of the survivors, some of whom were landed here. A few others were picked up by launches.

Rommel Chooses Verona for Field Headquarters

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Swiss radio said today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, German commander of northern Italy, has chosen Verona as his headquarters.

UNION NOW FOLK LEAD IN SHAPING OF PROPAGANDA

Foes of Nationalism Are Linked to Drive.

[This is the second of a series of articles describing activities of local groups of internationalists.]

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Organizations which strike at the Constitution of the United States are closely linked to the twin drives which the office of civilian defense and the League of Women Voters are making in Chicago to promote discussion of internationalism.

The OCD, which has set up more than 600 discussion groups in the metropolitan area and aims at 15,800, announced that the discussion leaders will hear a lecture on the rights of man Oct. 12 by Dr. Louis Wirth, associate dean of the division of social sciences, University of Chicago.

Dr. Wirth is a member of Federal Union, the organization dedicated to Union Now of the United States and Great Britain. This would be the nucleus for a world super-government. Dr. Horace J. Bridges, sponsor of the OCD block-discussion plan, also is a member of Federal Union.

Plan New Constitution.

Under the Union Now-ers' platform, there would be no American fleet, only a Union fleet. Citizens would pledge allegiance to the union, not to the United States of America. There would be common citizenship, common currency, no tariffs, and a new constitution.

Here is a statement from "Federal Union Official Policy" published in London:

"Military service can only be in the forces of the federation, and the soldier' allegiance is to the federal, not to the national, army. The latter will no longer exist. Therefore any individual or group seeking to take up arms against the federation would be a traitor."

Material received from the Federal Union office in London is much more specific and detailed than that released in the United States. It discloses a determination to put the project over before the war ends.

Calls for World Confederation.

Following is an excerpt:

"During the war the united nations will, it has been proposed, draft a treaty setting up a world confederation including a Democratic union. Some of the united nations [namely, the democracies in control of their own territories] will have drafted the constitution of the union.

"Some sort of practical start will have been made with applying the provisions of the draft treaty and the draft federal constitution. During the armistice period, which will certainly last for months and possibly for two or three years, further steps should be taken to prepare the way for ratifying and bringing into effect both instruments at the peace conference.

"A good deal of this work will no doubt be done thru the reconstruction commission, on which the governments concerned will be represented and which they will have to provide with far-reaching authority and powers if it is to perform its functions and avoid the danger of isolationist planning."

Common Teaching Proposed.

In addition to describing a common army, navy, and air force, an international bank, a common colonial policy, and common social security planning, the super-government would require its states to teach history, ethnology, and internal relations along similar lines.

Nowhere in the voluminous literature of the cult is any mention made of the fact that the United States is the richest country involved in the scheme.

Mrs. Quincy Wright, a sponsor of the OCD block discussion project, will address representatives of 185 civic, business, and professional organizations at a luncheon Monday. She will talk about citizen participation in post-war affairs.

Besides being the executive director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, Mrs. Wright is a national director of the League of Women Voters, which is carrying on the other main discussion drive here.

Her husband, Prof. Quincy Wright whose subject at the University of Chicago is international law, is director of the Foreign Bondholders Protective council. He also is a member of the Commission to Study the Organization of Peace, financed by the Twentieth Century Fund.

Points in Program.

Also a member of Federal Union is Herbert Agar, a leading interventionist and internationalist. One of Agar's speeches about the group discussion plan in the British army is reproduced in the mimeographed progress report on the OCD project.

The Commission to Study the Organization of Peace seems to have its collective mind pretty well made up on the subject. This early decision follows the line of Federal Union rather closely. Following is an excerpt from the program:

"Nations must build international institutions—

"1—International police forces, world-wide or regional.

"2—International economic commissions.

"3—International law-making bodies.

"4—International courts.

"5—International agencies for social welfare.

FIND NO GRAVES OF JAP TROOPS ON KISKA OR ATTU

Locate Only 2 Bodies on One Island.

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADAK, Aleutians, Sept. 15 [By Air Mail].—No Japanese graves were found on Kiska and Attu Islands, which again are in American hands.

On Kiska, abandoned by the foe just before the United States-Canadian landing last Aug. 15, only two bodies have been found thus far. One was turned up by a bulldozer working in the ruins of the main camp area at Kiska harbor. The other was discovered at the foot of a cliff in the Gertrude Cove area, from which the soldier apparently had plunged. But there was no sign of the hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Japanese troops who died in action.

Find Several Arms.

Only on Attu Island was there a clew to the Japs' treatment of their war dead. A heap of bodies from each of which an arm had been removed was discovered. The arms, each bearing the soldier's identification tag, were found nearby. Under the fury of the allied attack the enemy fled before completing the grim post-battle routine he had started.

Troops who had spent some time among the Japanese before Pearl Harbor furnished an explanation for the severed limbs.

The body of a Japanese warrior usually is cremated. The ashes are taken to the man's family by a comrade, there to await the arrival of a government owned Shinto shrine.

When this shrine arrives, relatives and friends of the slain man gather for a ceremony over the ashes. The soldier is deified, his spirit commended to the realm of ancestry that is the focal idea of Shintoism.

Since the opening of the Chinese-Japanese war in 1932, the Japanese government has deëmphasized the increasing numbers of war dead by delaying the sending of the official shrine, in some cases for two years or more, it is reported.

Enemy Dead Honored.

Two widely separated spots on Kiska Island bear mute testimony to the respect two enemy peoples hold for each other's customs.

On the slope of Ranger hill, north of main camp, there is a Jap made grave of an American pilot, within sight of the wreckage of his fighter plane. On a rough wooden panel roofed by a tiny gable is this inscription in a large penciled scrawl:

"Sleeping here a brave hero who lost youth and happiness for his mother land. July 25. Nippon army."

Far to the south, where our men were tearing out heavy Jap gun positions and installing our own weapons, a Japanese shrine is the only enemy installation that remains intact. Our soldiers had roped it off and a placard bore orders of the military authority that the shrine must not be molested.

JAPS FLEE AS U. S. SEIZES ANOTHER ISLE IN SOLOMONS

WITH U. S. GROUND FORCES ON SAGE KARASA ISLAND, Solomons, Sept. 20 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Japanese gave up another important strategic spot today, their infantry fleeing in the early morning darkness from this tiny island during a heavy artillery exchange.

The capture of the island, which the Japanese once apparently intended to defend to the last man, gives the United States positions 1,200 yards south of Kolombangara Island across Blackett strait. The Japanese have an air base and a garrison, ringed with guns, at Vila on Kolombangara.

The Japanese flight occurred while American mortars pounded their positions. Barges from Kolombangara evacuated them but not every Japanese boat got back.

[A war bulletin on Thursday from headquarters of Gen. MacArthur announced that remnants of Japanese on the north shore of Arundel Island, west of New Georgia, and on Sage Karasa Island, 200 yards off Arundel, had been wiped out.]

JAPAN SEEKING BASES TO FOIL ALLIED AIR RAIDS

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Japanese are seeking sites in the south China coastal provinces of Kwantung and Fukien for large air fields to counter possible allied bases in east China from which Japan could be bombed, Maj. Gen. Pao Kai, Chinese army spokesman, said today.

He ascribed a recent Jap attack on Santao Island, 40 miles north of Foochow, to fear that the harbor there was being used as an allied submarine base. He declared the Japanese were driven out the same day they landed.

He added that 13 engagements had occurred on Chinese fronts in the last week, with the Japanese taking the initiative in five and the Chinese in eight.

YANKEE RAIDERS BATTER NAZI AIR BASES IN FRANCE

R.A.F. Hits Other Fields, Rail Key of Amiens.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—American Marauder bombers today carried the latest allied aerial assault into its third day with another raid on the Evreux-Fauville air base, 45 miles west of Paris, and the airdrome at Beauvais-Tille. American Thunderbolts made supporting sweeps over France and Belgium.

In other day raids R. A. F. bombers attacked air fields in northern France and Brittany and the railway center at Amiens. They were escorted by R. A. F., dominion, and allied fighters. At least 20 enemy fighters were destroyed. Nine allied fighters were lost.

The day assaults followed a heavy night blow by a big fleet of R. A. F. bombers at four big German industrial centers: The important twin cities of Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, historic Aachen [Aix-la-Chapelle], near Cologne, and Darmstadt, near Mannheim.

Four Blows Cost 32 Planes.

The R. A. F. lost 32 bombers, two less than when it hurled 1,750 tons of explosives in 45 minutes on the twin Rhineland cities less than three weeks ago.

Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, on the western German border at the junction of the Rhine and Neckar rivers, is an important trans-shipment point for supplies to Italy. Darmstadt is on the key supply line to Hitler's Belgian-French "Atlantic wall."

The quadruple night assault was another blow in the R. A. F.'s new drive against Nazi consumer goods and finished product factories. Mannheim-Ludwigshafen is a typical final stage manufacturing center turning out tanks, trucks, diesel engines, and armor plate. At Darmstadt are the Merck Chemical works, one of Germany's leading drug and medicine producers. Aachen's factories have been converted to important small war implements.

Paris Raid Reported.

Intruder aircraft, joining the R. A. F.'s big bombers in last night's raiding, swept northern France and Germany and shot down four enemy planes.

The Vichy radio, in a report not confirmed by any allied source, said that "American planes" attacked Paris last night. It said one raider was shot down.

The British air ministry reported slight enemy activity over Britain last night, mainly over the coastal eastern districts.

The Marauders' new foray was their third in two days. Yesterday they hit both the Conches and the Beauvais-Tille air fields in France. Today's blow brought the total of Nazi air bases hit this month to more than 40, some of which have been hit six times.

EGYPTIAN KING FLIES U. S. SHIP AS ROYCE GUEST

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 25 (AP)—King Farouk of Egypt personally piloted the plane which took Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce and United States Minister Alexander Kirk on a recent sightseeing trip, an American spokesman disclosed today. The trip, in a transport plane, was the outgrowth of an audience granted by King Farouk to the American general.

Royce, who commands American army forces in the middle east, invited the young king to fly the American craft. The king drove Royce and Kirk to the airport in a jeep recently given to him, and once in the air Royce turned over the controls to the king.

4 IN HOSPITAL, 1 IN JAIL AFTER WINDOW DISPUTE

Four men were patients in the South Chicago hospital last night, victims, police said, of an open window. The scene of the action was the South Chicago Y. M. C. A., 3039 East 91st street.

Police said the trouble started when William F. Schouweiler, 26 years old, a tavern owner, and his wife, Gloria, 25, who live in the married couple section of the "Y," quarreled over the window. Mrs. Schouweiler wanted it down; her husband wanted it up.

Other residents complained. William Dodds, 66, of 7418 Coles avenue, the night clerk, intervened. Schouweiler hit him, cutting his face. Three residents went to his aid, and a free-for-all fight developed, in which the Schouwellers, forgetting their spat about the open window, teamed up and battled them all.

The battle over, it was found that Sterling Pierce, 55, had suffered serious internal and head injuries; Joseph Pelletier, 44, had face scratches, and Harvey Fonda, 50, had a dislocated shoulder. Police held Schouweiler.

DISTRICT OFFICE OF COAST GUARD TO QUIT CHICAGO

The Chicago district headquarters of the United States coast guard is to be absorbed by the Cleveland headquarters, effective Jan. 1, 1944, it was learned last night. As a result, Cleveland will become headquarters for the entire Great Lakes area.

Approximately 200 men will be transferred. However, the coast guard will maintain marine inspection, recruiting, and certain of the port staffs in Chicago, said Ensign James Kenny, public relations officer. Capt. T. A. Shanley is commander of the Chicago district.

Reports from Cleveland indicated that Capt. Ralph Dempwolf, coast guard commander there, would head the combined headquarters. The merger was planned to conserve manpower and to effect monetary savings, it was said.

RUSSIANS MUST GIVE GUARANTEE OF PEACE—FINNS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 24 (AP).—Vaino Tanner, Finland's finance minister and Social Democratic party head, said tonight if Finland "could get a guarantee that we will not be threatened by permanent danger" from Russia, "we would be ready to establish normal relations."

In a speech at the Helsingfors community hall, Tanner said, "Our opponent, the Soviet union, is much stronger than the world had thought," and continued:

"It [Russia] cannot be conquered militarily. As realists, we must take that into consideration in our foreign policy. "We must start from fact in the future and will have to live as neighbors to strong Russia. We should try to establish as good relations as possible with the Soviet union."

SABOTEURS TIE UP MILAN-PADUA RAIL SERVICES

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 24.—All cross-country railroad traffic in northern Italy between Padua and Milan was brought to a standstill early today by a wave of "successful sabotage" which was too widespread for the Germans to cope with. An official German statement tonight listed 23 specific attacks against tunnels, bridges, and tracks along main lines as well as considerable damage to telegraph and telephone lines. Cost of repairs "will be paid by the inhabitants in the regions affected," the statement said.

The attacks, according to frontier information, took place between midnight last night and 5 o'clock this afternoon and apparently did not include the destruction of an ammunition train in the Milan area, the explosions of which were heard on the frontier. It cost the lives of at least 200 German soldiers. There were also serious incidents from the Verona area, where, after a pitched battle between partisan saboteurs and German troops, more than 100 Italians were executed.

A possible explanation of these widespread attacks may lie in a report that Benito Mussolini left Munich yesterday to join his government in Bologna, where it took office today.

40,000 EMPLOYES OF NEWSPAPERS NOW IN UNIFORM

New York, Sept. 24 (AP). — More than 40,000 employes of United States daily newspapers now are serving in military service, a survey by Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade publication, disclosed today.

The survey showed that 20,267 employes of 766 daily newspapers had gone to war, with an additional 1,075 contributed by the three major wire services. The article added that "it is reasonable to assume the remaining 900 dailies have contributed an equal number of men."

Of the total, 132 casualties have been recorded and 16 war correspondents have been killed.

The magazine made the first compilation a year ago, when it was estimated that 21,000 newspaper men and women were in uniform.

"In a year this figure has been doubled and some newspapers report they now employ less than 30 per cent of their original staff as of October, 1940 [start of the draft]," the article said.

Mechanical departments were hardest hit, contributing about one-third of the total. Editorial departments were next, with a fifth, and advertising and circulation gave one seventh each. One fifteenth came from business offices.

THREATENED BY PURSE SNATCHER.

A Negro snatched the purse of Mrs. Henry McWilliams, 1851 West 118th street, and threatened her with a knife while she was walking in 118th street between Honore street and Vincennes avenue early yesterday.

20,000,000 SMOKES FOR YANKS YIELD OF STADIUM BILL

Stage, Screen, Radio Assist Benefit.

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Several thousand persons contributed well over 20 million cigarets last night at the Smokes for Service Men show in the Chicago stadium. Cartons and packages of cigarets were used in lieu of money for the purchase of tickets.

A colorful spectacle, including many well known figures of stage, screen, radio, and café, started at 8 o'clock and continued for four hours. Margo, Mexican motion picture and stage star, provided one of the show's highlights.

Drama in Monolog.

Wearing a chartreuse evening gown, Margo sang several Latin American songs against a background of music from a 100 piece Mexican orchestra. Her dramatic contribution to the event was a monolog which depicted historical happenings from the ride of Paul Revere thru the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Anne Shirley, youthful screen star, made a brief speech, thanking the audience for its contributions of cigarets. She is en route to New York to participate in a series of bond rallies and then will take part in several shows at eastern army and navy bases.

In an athletic event to test the power of American boxing as compared with Japanese judo, Gus Lesnevitch, so-called world light heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Rudy Hoffman, another wrestler, who fought judo style.

Hand's Band Assists.

Lulu Belle of the radio station WLS Lulu Belle and Scotty team, was presented in a program of mountain music with the Hoosier Hot Shots, also radio stars. Les Brown and his orchestra, the Boyd Raeburn band, and Col. Armin Hand and his band were among the musical notables on the program.

Billy Carr, well known master of ceremonies, appeared with Jessie Roselle and Jean and Wally Brown, of cafe entertainers. Skeets Gallagher and Stuart Erwin, from the cast of "Good Night, Ladies."

Maj. Barney Oldfield of Camp Makall, N. C., demonstrated the purpose of full combat paratroopers' equipment. Piece by piece he removed his equipment, which weighs more than 90 pounds. His parachute was opened for the audience's inspection, and he exhibited his carbine rifle, his 48 hour rations, and the 120 rounds of ammunition which he carried.

RHODES SCHOLAR TELLS POST-WAR GOAL FOR NAZIS

Severe treatment of Germany after the allied victory was urged yesterday by Bernadotte E. Schmitt, Andrew MacLeish fund professor of modern history at the University of Chicago and a former Rhodes scholar at Oxford university in England. His address opened the fall season of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House.

Prof. Schmitt advocated:

1. Complete occupation of Germany "until the allies are convinced that the Germans have had a change of heart."

2. Complete disarmament and dismantling of all factories which might make war materials, these factories to be transferred to Poland and Italy.

3. Control of German trade to make sure that she does not import weapons or materials for making them.

4. Transferring works of art, books, and household utensils from Germany to replace what has been destroyed in other countries.

Prof. Schmitt disagreed with proposals for breaking Germany into small states, imposing a democratic form of government, and dictating a new system of education.

"The Germans are not democratically minded, and I doubt if we can make them so," he said. "We must let them choose their own government."

M'KEOUGH BARS REPORT ON OPA BUDGET DETAILS

Asserts Data Is 'None of Public's Business.'

Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA administrator, yesterday refused to make public a detailed report of his annual budget, saying it is "none of the public's business" and that "there is no law that could compel me to make public such a report."

When it was suggested that the public might be interested, as taxpayers, in learning to what extent under his reduced 1943 budget he planned on decreasing the personnel of his various departments, he replied: "I'm not telling."

He was reminded that city, county and state governmental units always issue complete reports on their budgets.

"They're required by law to do so," retorted McKeough. "I'm not."

Reveals Attorneys Shifted.

Earlier McKeough had inadvertently disclosed that instead of firing some of his large staff of lawyers, after recent wholesale criticism of the large number of attorneys in OPA, he merely had shifted them from his legal department into his price and rationing departments. His comment on that was: "That is none of the public's business."

Since congress passed the OPA appropriation bill in June numerous attempts have been made to obtain the desired detailed budget report. McKeough has handed out several brief reports.

In one, last Wednesday, he placed the over-all regional budget for the fiscal year at $13,133,080, and said this was due to a pay roll reduction of $1,132,980. In the same report he said personnel was reduced only 136.

Issues Substitute Report.

When it was pointed out that this implied the average salary for each of the 136 fired had been between $9,000 and $10,000 a year he issued a substitute report yesterday. This report cited the same budget reduction and designated it an over-all budget reduction, but disclosed no further details.

In the report yesterday he said "the budget reduction, imposed by congress, eliminated 636 job authorizations." In the same report he said, "If the scheduled budget remains in effect, only 366 persons may be added to board pay rolls during the year."

When asked for explanation McKeough replied that "the report is explanation enough."

The regional office administers OPA thru 851 local ration boards in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

NAZIS' RETREAT FORCED BY REDS, SAYS COL. LANZA

Only Partly as Planned by Germans, He Holds.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

The Russian armies are advancing steadily, not as rapidly as the daily war reports might indicate, but they are moving on.

During the last month, in the north sector around Smolensk and Bryansk, the advance has been not over 45 miles, an average of one and one-half miles a day. Greater gains were made in the center, opposite Kiev, where the advance approximates 150 miles in the month, or five miles a day. In the south the drive has surpassed this slightly. All these are substantial gains.

The Russian figures for German losses in guns, tanks, and planes are moderate for the great battle, which has continued since July 5. The number of prisoners taken is small. However, the number of Germans reported killed is very large, exceeding 200,000 a month. Previous Russian claims as to Germans killed have been at wide variance with German reports and never have been fully confirmed. This is an important factor of the war, but there are no reliable casualty reports on either side.

Nazis Forced to Flee.

The Germans are going backward in Russia because they can not help it. They may have planned the withdrawal, and it may be proceeding somewhat as they expected, but the plan was forced upon them by the strength of the Russian armies, the allied invasion of Italy, and the threatened invasions in the Bankans and France.

The German retreat is almost back to the Dneiper river. It is not known whether it will stop there. Rivers are not particularly good lines to defend. When the Germans, two years ago, were going east, the Russians were unable to hold the Dneiper line more than a few days. The Germans may not even try to hold it.

Reports that the German armies in Russia have been weakened due to withdrawal of troops to meet the impending dangers in west and south Europe have not been confirmed. German troops from the Leningrad area have been reported in north Italy, while other troops from south Russia are said to be in the Balkans.

Nazi Divisions Replaced.

The Russian intelligence service, which has been quite accurate, identifies 212 German divisions in Russia in this month, as against 211 in June. New German divisions frequently have taken part in counter-attacks. It appears that some German divisions have left Russia and others have taken their place. The total German strength remains about the same.

The German line in Russia is not yet substantially shorter than it was, but because less hostile territory is being occupied and due to shorter lines of communication, some release of troops has been possible to reënforce the fighting line.

The German retreat has reached the stage where it has been necessary to abandon the Kuban area on the east side of the Sea of Azov, held for a year. The Germans here are on the way out. Assuming they succeed in withdrawing their troops, this will release about a dozen divisions to strengthen the remainder of the line.

Crimea May Be Held.

A German line on the Dneiper will be back of the Crimea. It will not necessarily follow that the Crimea will be evacuated. The Russians held this peninsula for nearly eight months after their land connection was lost. The Germans may do likewise.

The Germans have not yet withdrawn from around Leningrad, but if the retreat around Smolensk goes much farther, the Leningrad area will be given up. The Germans then may retire as far south as the Gulf of Riga. This would shorten the front some 150 miles and release several divisions. Such a withdrawal would not affect the situation in Finland to a pronounced degree. Finland in this war never has had a land connection with Germany. As long as the German navy rules the Baltic sea, a connection with Finland can be maintained.

Signs of what the Germans propose to do will appear soon. The Nazis cannot conceal their intentions on the Russian front much longer.

ADM. STANDLEY, ENVOY TO RUSS, ARRIVES IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Ambassador William H. Standley arrived by plane today from his post in Moscow amid persistent reports that he will not return to the soviet capital which is soon to be the scene of important Anglo-American-soviet conferences.

Adm. Standley came home for consultation, the state department said, "in connection with discussions which are being carried on with the British and soviet governments."

Standley has an appointment to report tomorrow to Secretary of State Hull. Presumably he will report on the situation American and British diplomats will face when they go to Moscow to confer with Foreign Commissar Molotov on war and post-war objectives.

Prime Minister Churchill said the conference would be held soon to seek an agreement among the three powers, with any lingering points of difference to be left for a contemplated meeting of President Roosevelt, Churchill, and Premier Stalin.

LET STALIN GRAB GERMANY, URGES CHURCH JOURNAL

Asserts He'll Eventually Get It, Anyway.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"Let Stalin have Germany. The chances are overwhelming that he is going to have her anyhow! Why should we spill more blood to gain a prize which we do not want and which, when we grasp it, will be seized by another hand? Let Stalin gain our post-war aims for us!"

This paragraph forms the core of an editorial in the current issue of the Christian Century, general Protestant journal. The appeal was based on the view that there are two wars on Hitler, Marshal Stalin's and the Anglo-American, each for different reasons. The editorial said Germany will be won by the side that gets to Berlin first, and that Germany has the power to determine this.

Realities of Victory.

"The consequences which will follow a British-American attempt to dictate the peace from Berlin will be substantially the same as if Russia took over from the outset," the journal said. "And so much of our post-war aims as is possible of achievement would thus be realized if Russia is both allowed and helped to get to Berlin first."

The Christian Century said Stalin is holding back from an Anglo-American conference because the realities of the moment of victory are not yet determined, and because he stands to win whatever those realities may prove to be.

"Stalin does not intend to be bothered with any nonsense about collective policing of Germany," the editorial said. "He can handle a defeated Germany without resort to any such cumbrous and exhausting entanglement as the western allies would run into."

The journal described as incredible a German preference to surrender to the western allies, and called Germany's choice to fall to Russia its final card.

Glad to Accept.

"She [Germany] will not play her final card in favor of the British-Americans, because Stalin can offer her a peace which the German people, defeated, will be only too glad to accept," the editorial asserted. "Surrender to Stalin would insure not only the overthrow of Hitler, but, in all probability, a communist revolution."

The editorial recalled the pre-Hitler Communist party with 6 million votes in Germany, and added that to become a state in the soviet union or achieve an economic integration with it would be more desirable to many persons in Germany than a complete surrender to the allies.

2 Carriers, 2 Transports Join Fleet at Gibraltar

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 24 (AP).—Unusual naval activity at Gibraltar, in which 50 merchant ships anchored in the bay were joined by two aircraft carriers and two large transports, were observed from the neighboring town of La Linea, dispatches said today. The carriers arrived from the Mediterranean and the transports from the Atlantic. Twelve warships also held anti-aircraft practice.

HUNGARY SEEKS PEACE, RADIO IN RUMANIA SAYS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 23 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Rumanian radio told listeners yesterday that the Hungarian government was preparing to resign, and quoted Swiss dispatches as saying that the Hungarians were seeking a separate peace.

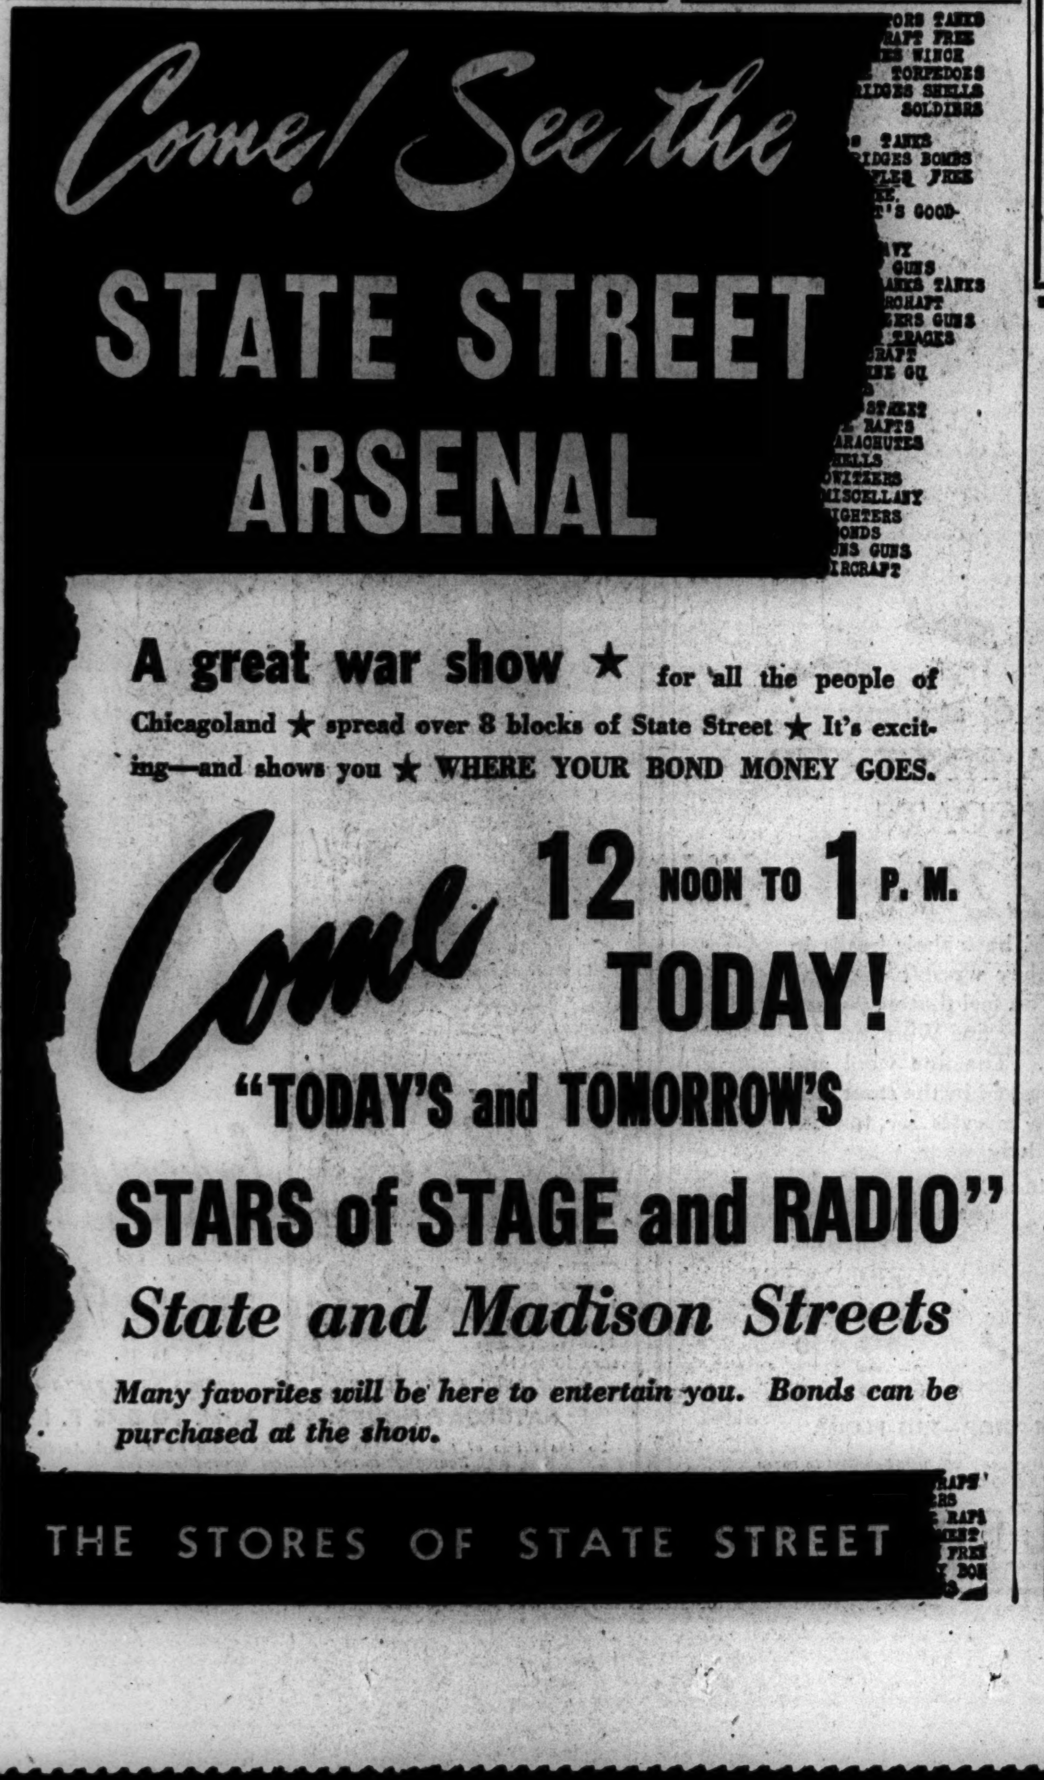
The broadcast, which included vigorous comment on the suffering of Rumanians under Hungarian rule in Transylvania, gave the impression Rumania was trying to convince Germany that Hungary was ready to quit the war and that Transylvania consequently should be returned to Rumania.

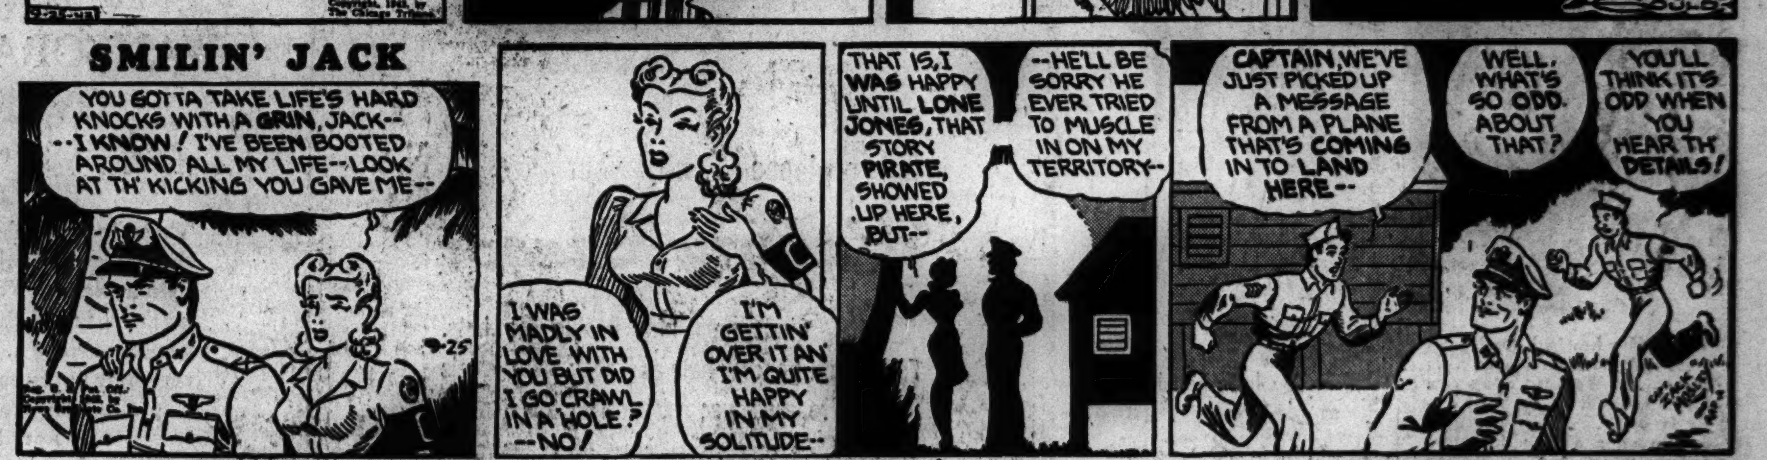
A British broadcast, recorded by CBS in New York, reported that "a cabinet crisis in Budapest, brought about by the people's wish to follow Italy out of the war, is taking place.

"A new ultimatum from Hitler is expected any moment," the British broadcast said, adding that Hungary's chief of staff, Gen. Ferenc Szombathelyi, had returned to Budapest from a two day visit at Hitler's headquarters. The visit followed Adolf Hitler's demand last week for 15 Hungarian divisions to be sent to Dalmatia and Croatia.

Treason Case Transferred from Campbell to Barnes

Federal Judge William J. Campbell yesterday relinquished control of the treason case involving Mr. and Mrs. Hans Max Haupt, parents of an executed Nazi spy, and four others, all of whom were found guilty of treason by a jury in Campbell's court. The decision was later reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, who remanded the case to the federal courts for retrial. The case was reassigned to Judge John P. Barnes. Further action on the charges now rests with Paul A. F. Warnholtz, attorney for the defendants, or with the government.

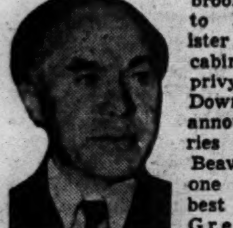




BEAVERBROOK GOES BACK TO BRITISH CABINET

Anderson Succeeds Late Chancellor Wood.

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—W. Maxwell Aitken, a British peer known as Lord Beaverbrook, returned to Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet as lord privy seal as 10 Downing street announced a series of changes. Beaverbrook is one of Russia's best friends in Great Britain and an outspoken advocate of a "second front."



Beaverbrook.

He is the owner of the London Daily Express and held the ministries of aircraft production, state, and supply in 1940 and 1941. On February, 1942, he was named minister of war production, but declined to enter the cabinet because of ill health. Oliver Lyttelton then took the war production post.

The new changes apparently were caused by the death this week of Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer. Downing street announced the appointment of John Anderson to succeed Wood and R. K. Law was named minister of state.

Not in War Cabinet.

The return to the cabinet of the 64 year old Beaverbrook as lord privy seal makes him available for any special assignment. It was said, however, he would not be a member of the war cabinet.

The reshuffling, which 10 Downing street said would be followed by "certain consequential appointments," saw no major changes in the leaders of the fighting branches but it was a general strengthening of Churchill's team in the over-all war making machine.

Cranborne, another British peer, whom Beaverbrook succeeded as lord privy seal, was named secretary of state for dominion affairs, the announcement said, adding that he would retain his post as leader of the house of lords.

Anderson in War Cabinet.

The announcement said that Maj. Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor party, who has been secretary of state for dominion affairs, will continue as deputy prime minister and assume the office of lord president of the council, a post formerly held by Anderson.

The new chancellor of the exchequer, Anderson, will be a member of the war cabinet, the announcement said. Kingsley Wood had not been a member of that group.

The new minister of state, Law, who has been serving as under secretary of state for the foreign office, will assist the secretary of state for foreign affairs.

R. G. Casey, who has been serving as minister of state, now becomes minister of state "resident in the middle east," the announcement said.

CATROUX JAILS ARAB LEADERS; VOIDS MEETING

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, Sept. 24.—The French committee of national liberation ran into Moslem trouble today when Gen. Georges Catroux, minister of coördination of Moslem affairs, chose to dissolve an Arab delegation to the Algerian financial council and to intern two leaders, Ferhat Abbas and Sayah Abdel-Kader.

These troubles are more potential than actual, at least for the present, and French officials expressed confidence that the general public would back Gen. Catroux.

It is difficult to get the "other side" of a story like this and it may be true, as the French say, that the two internees acted more for personal reasons than as indicative of large political followings. The fact remains that Gen. Catroux chose to hold a formal press conference at which the government stated its case. The trouble concerns financial reforms sought by the Moslem delegation which Gen. Catroux felt could not be granted during war time.

DIE IN STREETS OF CALCUTTA AS HUNGER STALKS

Here's a Graphic Picture of Indian Tragedy.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, India, Sept. 13 [Delayed].—This city and to some extent the whole province of Bengal is suffering from a condition which is called, euphemistically, a food shortage. It has been growing for a year, but only within the last month has it caused alarm.

I am not hinting there is a famine in Bengal. There is no such thing if famine means great masses of wanderers looking for crusts of bread. Most of the people in Calcutta look as if they ate too much and a certain amount of famine wouldn't do any harm.

The word "famine" has a special meaning in India, the official meaning, which is that point of scarcity in a district or province at which the famine code begins to operate. It is operating in Bengal already, which means the government and private organizations are carrying on relief.

50 to 100 Die in City Daily.

In Calcutta's restaurants and hotels there is no apparent scarcity of meat, eggs, vegetables, fruits, bread, even rice if you want it. The fact remains, however, that 50 to 100 people die of starvation every day in Calcutta and, if distressed rural areas are reckoned in, some hundreds are so dying daily in Bengal.

[More than 1,000,000 destitute persons are being fed one meal daily in Bengal, the provincial minister estimated yesterday, an Associated Press dispatch said. Not all of Bengal is suffering from famine, but the shortage of rice is so great all sections are seriously affected, he said.]

Calcutta always has been full of beggars, many marked by deprivation and decay. In the absence of official figures, I have had to take the word of a British business man, who has been here 20 years, that the present situation is decidedly worse than anything he has known.

Children Also Starve.

Thousands of homeless, he told me, ordinarily sleep in Calcutta's streets and many of them get just enough food to keep them alive. Nevertheless, a corpse in the streets was rare before the present crisis. My own observation seems to show that it is not the professional beggars who are starving today. It is another class, people who are unaccustomed to begging.

Differences are clearly marked among the children. Regular beggars have enough flesh on their bones as they slap alternately their foreheads and belly, jigging from one foot to another as if they had cramps, telling you in pidgin English they have no mamma or papa and just want a little money.

Really destitute children, many of them abandoned by their parents who are probably dead, are lying quietly on the streets. Children able to stand look with incredulous wonder at passersby who get what they want to eat when they want it. Many, if not most of the starving don't know how to beg. They are not city folks. They are peasants who fled into the city after hearing that relief kitchens had been set up there.

Around the big railway station at Howrah, a sort of Brooklyn lying on the eastern bank of the River Hoogly, I saw hundreds of homeless stretched out on the pavement to pass the night as they had passed the day. Then I went down to South Calcutta to the district called Kalighat. Here for blocks the curbs are lined with the homeless. Some were sleeping and might have been dead, some were just staring vacantly ahead at nothing.

All were very thin, but the worst affected appeared to be the two extreme age groups. I saw old men and women who didn't seem to have flesh left between skin and bone. Babies and small kids were just little skeletons. Some had swollen bellies of starvation. In others those large, feverish eyes were more than half of an emaciated face.

One group, especially, I noticed a young woman with two children. Never have I seen a face so completely despairing. All fight had left her long ago. The older child might have been 3, tho it is hard to tell with these skeletons in skin. The mother hugged the baby to her dry breasts. The infant was absolutely still and, I am sure, was dead.

Up a side street I came into a sort of courtyard near the temple of the goddess Kali, an especially venerated shrine. Here some of the more enterprising and vigorous of these exiled countrymen were cooking a meal. They had gathered some twigs and dried cow chips, the common fuel, and had made a fire under an iron pot in which water was bubbling. From a heap of scraps beside them they kept tossing food into their stew. It was potato peelings, carrot stumps, cabbage runts, and some unidentifiable bits of filth, in other words, garbage.

But in the fellowship of misery, those gathered there, those swilleaters, seemed the best off.

One Meal of Rice.

Nearby, inside the temple enclosure, rows of gaunt, haggard people sat in lines waiting for their daily dole. When a man finally appeared with a big caldron of boiled rice there was a struggle to get near him and be first served, for it was certain he had not enough for all. The handful they had there, which they were greedily wolfing up, was their sole meal for the day.

Officials of the relief organization of the temple told me they were forced to buy rice in the open market where it is now more than eight times the pre-war price. They were not allowed to buy at the lower, government controled price. Their funds enabled them to feed 300 persons a day, but 700 at least asked help.

This handout was a subsistence ration, that is, what had been calculated as minimum which would barely keep a grown person alive, provided, of course, he lived quietly and attempted no work. It was enough rice to fill one of those tin boxes which hold 50 cigarets.

NITTI PAL HELD FOR PERJURY IN RACKET INQUIRY

Charges Threats by Bioff on Movie Testimony.

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Harry Hochstein, who started his public career as a morals inspector in Chicago and threaded a zig-zag path thru fields of patronage, indictments, and gang politics, was held in $10,000 bail today by United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter on a charge of perjury in connection with a special federal grand jury investigation of racketeering in the movie industry.

Hochstein appeared before the grand jury today to tell what he knew about the actions of Paul de Lucia, Louis Compagna, and Charles Fischetti at a house in Riverside, Ill., rented and maintained by Hochstein during 1934 and 1935. All three of the men are notorious underworld characters.

The complaint against Hochstein charges that after he had been sworn in before the grand jury he testified that none of the three had been present at the Riverside rendezvous. This testimony apparently was at variance with what the investigators thought he should have told.

When arraigned on the perjury charge, Hochstein told Commissioner Cotter that before he testified to the grand jury he had been threatened by Willie Bioff, convicted labor racketeer, in the presence of Boris Kostelanetz, special assistant United States attorney general.

According to Kostelanetz, Hochstein was the chauffeur from 1932 to 1935 for Frank Rio, Chicago hoodlum who died in 1935, and from that time until early this year was the companion, chauffeur, and masseur for Frank Nitti, who succeeded Al Capone as head of the Chicago mob.

is building the largest military force in the world, and at the same time producing the most munitions, not only for this country but for our allies. Then, too, he said, we are going to feed the Italians and civilians of other nations as they are freed. Yet no South American country has furnished a single combat division, he added.

"I am not speaking for the fathers of America," Wheeler concluded. "They are just as patriotic as any other class of our citizens. I am speaking for the children of America. If the administration succeeds in defeating this bill they are not defeating me but they are defeating these children of America, and adopting a policy which runs counter to long term national interests."

Wheeler's bill to defer the fathers' draft is scheduled for debate in the senate next week. Hearings on the measure were concluded yesterday by the senate military affairs committee.

AIMS AT U. S. ROLLS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Sen. Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] is drafting a bill aimed at stripping the federal pay roll of able bodied bachelors and childless married men of draft age and steering them into the fighting services.

The veteran North Carolina legislator said tonight that his proposal would be offered next week as a substitute for the Wheeler bill to postpone induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until Jan. 1.

Aimed at Deferments.

While details of his substitute bill are yet to be worked out, Bailey said it would forbid deferment, on occupational grounds, of bachelors and married men without children in the government, and cancel deferments now in effect except in cases where superior officers can offer "proof of indispensability."

"Provisions also will be included to force the transfer to combat service of uniformed men in the war department capable of bearing arms and whose services in their present desk jobs are not absolutely indispensable," Bailey declared.

He opposes the Wheeler bill as "class legislation" and said that if fathers are needed "they must be taken," but that "single men in the service first in the line of battle" is his objective.

House Drops Fight.

Earlier, Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] of the house military committee disclosed the abandonment of efforts in the house to forbid the drafting of fathers. He came out instead for a plan to cushion the impact on family life by driving what he called "an army" of federal employes into the service.

May disclosed that Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey would be called next week to explain why childless men of draft age [18-38] are still on the government pay roll when their departments have not requested their deferment. A subcommittee has reported there are some 300,000 such men.

Reported Targets of Ouster

said he expects his charges to be denied, but he is certain he speaks the truth.

"For the information of those who may be skeptical regarding my remarks to the effect that the New Deal 'palace guard' plans to make over the war department and convert it into a global political organization, let me say that I am not the only member of congress in possession of their blueprint," he said.

Another Has Information.

"At least one other member of congress was present in the office of a high government official when I was given the information on which my charges are based. Obviously, I cannot reveal the identity of the person with whom I conferred, but I am confident that he is in a position to know what he is talking about."

Meanwhile the Army and Navy Register, authoritative but unofficial service weekly, said that the new assignment for Gen. Marshall has already been decided and predicted plans for the shift will not be changed by protests from congressional and military circles.

The Register, in an editorial for its issue appearing tomorrow, said the exact nature of Gen. Marshall's new role remains to be divulged, and added that instead of being a global command, the new assignment might include all allied forces except Russian employed against Germany.

Tells of Doubts.

"In some military circles there is the opinion that restriction of his jurisdiction to the European command," the editorial said, "would not be a promotion from his place as chief of staff of our army, but only removal from Washington, where it is said that some concerned with strategy do not want him."

The publication took the view, however, that the new assignment for the chief of staff will be "the greatest compliment that could be bestowed on any soldier, up to this time, in any period of war." It interpreted the forthcoming shift as indicating President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have agreed Gen. Marshall is best equipped to carry out the Anglo-American grand strategy for offensive operations.

The Register said Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is the most likely successor to Marshall as chief of staff. It confirmed fears of congressmen that the shakeup is political, however, in saying it is understood that Presidential Adviser Harry Hopkins prefers Gen. Somervell, a New Deal favorite, as Marshall's successor.

Shafer declared that congress must prevent the appointment of a political general to succeed Marshall if the latter is to get supreme command of British-American forces.

"It must prevent the sabotage of the machine built by Gen. Marshall under the guise of streamlining and economy," he said. "Generals Gregory, Campbell, Porter, Reybold, and Gross, who have had so much to do in assisting Gen. Marshall in building an unquestionable organization are slated, under the 'palace guard's' plan, to be assigned to the field and are to be replaced by inexperienced and unqualified men."

Shafer cited the release by the state department of a so-called united nations relief and rehabilitation administration plan, as related to the "Hopkins-Niles-Frankfurter-Rosenman plan to take over the war department" for political purposes.

JAPANESE WAR IS NOT A SIDESHOW, BRITISH CAUTIONED BY KNOX

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox asked the British press today to educate the English public "to the necessity of fighting this Japanese war."

"Nothing would more disturb the growing American confidence in British coöperation than to believe the British feel that when Hitler is disposed of it all will be over," he said. Asked if Prime Minister Churchill's recent statement had not dispelled all such feeling, the secretary replied: "No, it hasn't been dispelled in America." He added that during his current visit the attitude he found here "is the real war is in Germany and the other a sideshow."

Knox reiterated that altho fully one-third of Japan's merchant fleet, including additions since Pearl Harbor, have been sunk, the war in the Pacific would be costly to the allies and fiercely fought by the enemy to the very end.

"You are a naval people," Knox said, "and the war in the Pacific is the greatest naval war that ever has been fought by either of us in the most difficult circumstances and against the best armed foe."

BANDITS GET CASH AND CAR.

Charles F. Beeler, manager of the Wisnick Accurate Match company at 1847 Carroll avenue, reported to police yesterday that three men held him up in his office, robbed him of $50 and then drove away in his car which was loaded with merchandise valued at $1,000.

TRANSIT STRIKE IN LOS ANGELES PUT UP TO U. S.

Pay Hike O. K. Demanded; Traffic Paralyzed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 24 (AP).—The big red cars of the Pacific Electric railway stood silent and empty today while spokesmen for more than 2,000 striking operating employes voiced determination to stay off the job until the government proposed a satisfactory solution to their wage demands.

Elwyn R. Shaw.

There is no dispute between the union and the company. The company agreed some months ago to increase wages 13 cents, from 87 cents to $1 an hour. Following a review of the case by several Washington agencies it was disapproved by Stabilization Director Fred L. Vinson, who trimmed the wage increase to 3 cents an hour. The strike, which began this morning, resulted.

In Washington the White House stated that a three man special emergency board had been named to investigate the wage dispute but would not consider the case as long as the strike continues. Members are: Elwyn R. Shaw, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court; Richard F. Mitchell, former chief of the Iowa Supreme court, and W. C. Clephane, a Washington, D. C., attorney.

Serves 400,000 Daily.

The company operates rail and bus lines which serve an estimated 400,000 persons daily, its routes radiating from Los Angeles to 55 southern California communities, including Pasadena, San Bernardino, Riverside, Corona, Long Beach, Venice, Santa Monica, and Redondo. Several of these areas contain vital war industries or military installations.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and of the Pacific Electric company agreed that the strike, insofar as it involves passenger traffic, is effective virtually 100 per cent. Some freight was moving—company officials estimated it as high as 70 per cent of normal—and the vast and diversified war industries of the area reported they had not yet suffered inconvenience.

The union represents about 2,500 operating employes, said E. L. Smith, secretary of the grievance committee. Of these, 2,100 are passenger crews, he said, and all are off the job. The remaining 400 are freight crew members, and these, Smith declared, are "almost all" on strike.

"Passenger traffic is at a standstill," said O. A. Smith, company president. "Some freight is moving—some non-striking crews showed up, and they were put to work. There is a small amount of military traffic, and mail."

Official Delay Blamed.

In Washington, Los Angeles congressmen placed partial responsibility for the strike on the government, which they said had delayed settlement of the issues too long, and had failed to take into account living cost increases in west coast war centers.

Rep. Jerry Voorhis [D.] said that, while he did not believe strikes should be employed during the war, "I believe on the whole the workers had a good case. It was significant that the company was willing to give them the increase they asked."

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

Sept. 24, 1943.

GIANT oak trees usually are described with such glowing adjectives as "sturdy," "strong," and "aged." They deserve such praise, because they are among the most reliable of our hardwoods, but in one respect they're temperamental.

This tendency is shown by their refusal to stand too much adulation. Let them grow with other oaks, hickories, and ash trees in a farm woodlot and they'll live forever. But put an oak in a yard where it has to withstand too much traffic and it will require periodic attention.

For example, we often have noticed single oak trees in the center of farm pastures which were gradually dying because grazing cattle were packing the ground beneath their arches. The soil is so completely packed by such grazing activity that the tree roots get very little moisture and almost no circulation of air.

Leaves Reveal Condition.

The gardeners on the Wheaton farm have been doctoring a white oak tree in the yard of a farm home this week. It had been damaged by farm trucks delivering coal to the house each fall, and after a few such deliveries the ground is thoroly packed—just as the ground beneath pasture oaks is packed by cattle.

The tree's illness was shown this summer by lighter colored leaves, and the men were afraid that the most recent coal delivery would threaten its life. So this week they reworked the lawn under the tree, added considerable manure to several loads of black dirt used for top-dressing the packed ground, and reseeded the surrounding lawn. By this sort of treatment, the soil is aerated and fertilized, and next summer the oak should develop many new feeder roots to guarantee its health.

Forming New Roots.

Another white oak, one of the most beautiful trees on the farm, was treated similarly last summer. This giant tree, which one botanist estimated to be about 150 years old, stands near the northeast corner of the large farm garden. The gardeners believe it was affected with chlorosis, caused by an alkaline condition in the soil. Last summer the ground was reworked and fertilized.

We noticed this week that some of the terminal branches of this giant tree were coloring prematurely. The gardener dug into the lawn about a foot below the surface and discovered that the tree was forming new, healthy feeder roots, indicating that last year's fertilization will not be exhibited by the tree's leaves until next season. The oak is such a slow grower that it takes two seasons for the benefits of such work to be demonstrated by the tree's appearance.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS whose soils are too heavy [having a high clay content] or too light [having a high sand content] can take measures this fall to improve their gardens for next season. As mentioned in this space Sept. 15, cow or horse manure provides the ready answer to improving either of these soil conditions, since such material provides fertilizer as well as humis. The humis is needed in light soils to retain moisture and it also is needed in heavy soils to make the plot more friable.

If manure is not available, sand or fine coal ashes can be used to lighten soils which have a heavy clay content. If the gardener intends to spade this fall, the sand or screened ashes should be spread over the garden to a depth of one to two inches before spading. The alternate freezes and thaws of the winter will cause the grit to penetrate into the clay, making it more workable in the spring. Such materials naturally provide no fertilization.

Gardeners whose plots have a heavy clay content can add manure if available, otherwise must turn to mixing some sand or compost material into the ground during spading. Decayed leaves or grass clippings help such soils, and such garden refuse as carrot tops, bean vines, and tomato vines also can be chopped and added to the soil before spading.

WHEN LIGHTS GO ON AGAIN IT IS FUN IN BLACKOUT

Until Then Driving Army Jeep Takes Nerve.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY..
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

With the Second Army in Tennessee, Sept. 24.—On these black moonless nights thousands of army vehicles roar along highways, bypaths, and fields with only pinpoints of lights for guidance.

If you think it's fun to go for a ride under battlefield blackout conditions, come along with Pvt. Ralph Godfrey, 23, 2241 West 69th street, Chicago, one of the drivers working in the maneuver area. Your destination is a field headquarters 28 miles away. You're lucky because 26 of those 28 miles are on asphalt highways. The last two you wind down a back road and cut thru fields.

"Those three blackout headlights don't give much light," says Pvt. Godfrey as he starts down a town street. "But when we get out of town it seems like a lot more."

Drives at 20 Mile Speed.

The driver says blackouts are old stuff to him. He tears along at 20 miles an hour, the blackout limit. Military police at the main intersections prevent crackups.

Out on the highway, a glow moves ahead of the jeep, about like that from a match.

"Scared?" Pvt. Godfrey asks. "This is a bad road. A medic the other night was telling me of all the men who get hurt on it."

No, you aren't scared!

"I see something up ahead," Pvt. Godfrey announces, It is two red lights. The two separate into four, then eight. Pvt. Godfrey jams on the brakes. "When they look like that you're too close," he says. He halts within a couple feet of a slow moving truck. From up close you can see each taillight is made up of four points of light, like this: '' ''. The spaces between the points indicate the distance between them. From about 25 feet, the lights merge into two squares. From about 50 feet, the four blend into one bar.

Warned of Narrow Bridge.

Pvt. Godfrey swings around the truck. "I like to follow somebody, but we'd never get there behind this guy," he says.

A light flashes up ahead. You stop. "Narrow bridge, take it easy," a voice warns. You holler, "Thanks." Pvt. Godfrey negotiates the bridge.

Over the hill come the blinding lights of an oncoming vehicle. Pvt. Godfrey jerks over to the side and stops. The vehicle rushes by. "Ambulance," he says. "Guess somebody missed something."

The night is silent. "Heard about the guy who hit a cow?" the driver asks. You remember the Tennessee hills are full of cows. And hogs. You wonder if either could whip a jeep.

Jeeps Will Turn Over.

The car lurches sideways. "Guess the road turns this way," Pvt. Godfrey apologizes. You say you are glad jeeps are firm on their wheels. The driver disagrees. "You can turn one over if you swerve suddenly," he says. "Did it myself once. I jumped."

Inch by inch the miles roll past. Fog creeps up, frosting the windshield. You have to stick your head out to see the glow ahead.

Another light flashes. "Turn your lights on," a voice says. Pvt. Godfrey does so quickly. "You can keep them on now until you turn off the highway," the voice says.

You forget the final two miles. You forget the return trip. You drink in the welcome light. In it you see the voice comes from a military police sergeant.

As you resume, the highway ablaze, you wonder how many people tonight kissed the military policeman. You feel like doing it, even if he is a sergeant.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Fern Marke, Room 1009, 54 West Randolph street.]

THE QUESTION.

How did you get your start on the stage?

WHERE ASKED.

Rialto theater.

THE ANSWERS.

Sandra Sexton, actress, Rialto—To be on the stage has always been one of my ambitions and I've really worked at it. I studied dancing and music and when I was 17 my parents came to the theater with me to give their permission for me to appear. After two years of it, I've had some nice offers from the movies.

Linnetta Hutson, show girl, Croydon hotel—When I started as a fashion model in Nebraska I had no particular ambition to go on the stage. When I came to Chicago I worked at a few odd jobs. Then one day I answered a newspaper ad that asked for show girls. I was accepted and I consider it a fine start.

Bonnie Robinson, chorus girl, 2119 North Clark street—My father was a professional ballroom dancer so I practically grew up on the stage. At the age of 3 I was toe dancing, and I performed on the dramatic stage at 8. As my ability and talents increased I gave performances on bigger and better stages.

Kathleen Fahey, chorus girl, 6229 Ingleside avenue—For a long time I taught ballroom dancing. Then I teamed up with one of my best students for exhibition dancing at big night clubs. One night a producer looking for new talent gave us our first offer to appear on the legitimate stage.

Maxine Land, show girl, Lorraine hotel—For a long time I worked in a candy store. Many of my customers told me that a tall red headed girl like myself would be a natural on the stage. They gave me the idea, and a friend who formerly was one of the Beef Trust girls and who had her own show gave me my chance.

Irene Stevens, chorus girl, Cedar hotel—My five older sisters were dancers so it seems to run in the family. My sisters took turns teaching me all of the routines and intricate steps. My first job was easy. My sister lined it up for me here at the Rialto and so far I think it's nice work.

U.S. TAKES HAND IN TWO OF LIFE'S UPS AND DOWNS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Lady, does your slip tend to creep up your back? Sir, do you have trouble keeping your shirt tail in?

The government is working on your problem and reported tonight the development of a gadget that will determine a fabric's "creep rating." It's a "friction meter," devised by Edwin C. Dreby, research associate at the bureau of standards.

In addition to telling which slip or shirt is more apt to creep than another, it will, in the words of the commerce department, "evaluate the coefficient of friction of fabrics."

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

E. R. L. writes: "I attempted to join the Seabees but was rejected because of my poor teeth and eyesight below their minimum. I understand, however, that some of the navy yards will accept skilled mechanics like me to repair battle-damaged vessels and equipment and I would appreciate knowing where I could get further information."

ANSWER: As stated in Wednesday's column, we are advised by both navy recruiting at 321 Plymouth court and the United States Civil Service offices, room 1048, 433 West Van Buren street, that there is an urgent need for electricians and outside machinists to be employed in a civilian status at the Puget Sound Navy yards, Bremerton, Wash., repairing and overhauling navy vessels and heavy automotive equipment such as shovels, tractors, bulldozers, tanks, etc. Electricians must have had two years or more of general electrical work and not be just house maintenance men. The outside machinists' work likewise requires two or more years' experience in repairing and overhauling heavy equipment. The men particularly wanted for this work are those over military age or who have been rejected. Sept. 30 is the final date for applications. Further information may be obtained at either of the offices indicated or by writing this department.

L. R. M. asks: "Could you give me any information about the instruction and training the civil air patrol is giving aviation cadets awaiting call, such as whom to see or where to apply? I won't be called until January."

ANSWER: With the assistance of the civil air patrol we have prepared a special data sheet giving all of the information and requirements. We will mail this information to any one sending in a self-addressed stamped envelope.

G. V. writes: "I am a building contractor and at present I am building about 20 defense homes. Is this not classed as an essential industry? I am 40 years old, married after Pearl Harbor, but before marriage, in fact for over 15 years my mother and father have lived in my home. I have been reclassified 1-A [H]. Should this not be 3-A [H]? It would not seem practical to register for a job in some 'essential industry' when I have priorities for the homes which must be completed within a certain time."

ANSWER: It is suggested you write a letter to your board asking for a hearing and do this before your appeal period expires. After the hearing, if the board still holds you in 1-A [H], you will be so notified and then you can file a formal appeal for some other classification.

B. B. writes: "I am the father of a 9 year old son and I am employed by a religious publishing company as a linotype operator. Is it possible to be deferred or exempted when working on religious matter?"

ANSWER: No. Linotype operators are deferable only if employed in the publication of technical, scientific and engineering journals, and their deferment is requested by the employer. The mere fact that you work on religious matter does not entitle you to any special consideration.

THE BATTLE FOR AMERICA.

The Battle for America is on, with the freedom and welfare of this and future generations of Americans at stake. The decision will be reached in the election next year, but already the forces are in the field and the preliminary movements have revealed the strategy of the campaign.

The New Dealers are intent upon repeating the maneuver which served them so well in 1940. They hope to win the fourth term as they won the third term by nominating to oppose Mr. Roosevelt his stooge, Mr. Willkie. He was the man Mr. Roosevelt picked as his opponent then because he knew he could beat him. Mr. Willkie will serve the purpose even better this time. That is the judgment of the New Deal's general staff and it is shared by every other observer whose political judgment is worthy of mention.

The conspiracy has as its immediate goal the depriving of the American people of any real choice in 1944. That suits Mr. Roosevelt because he is confident that if the voters must select between the genuine article and the imitation most of them will take him. It also suits that singular alliance of the rich and the dispossessed, of the top and the bottom of the social ladder, that has been formed in the eastern states and particularly in New York.

The egregiously rich are in it because of a habit of mind acquired over the generations. The family fortunes of many of them were accumulated by acting as brokers between American borrowers and European lenders. It is the habit of such people to regard the lender with humble adoration and to aspire to be accepted in his society. The little American brothers-in-law of European nobility hope to acquire added merit in the eyes of their relatives abroad by placing America's wealth and strength at the disposal of the foreigners. In this campaign the egregiously rich can count as allies a considerable number of Americans who were educated abroad with a view to breaking their attachment to their own country.

These rich and fashionable elements in the population constitute only a small minority but they wield great influence. Their business connections and their private wires reach into every state and city; they have big money; they own newspapers and magazines; they control industries; they have ways of influencing public opinion. They lack numbers, but by a curious chain of circumstances that lack has been filled.

Nowhere has the gap between wealth and poverty been so great as in New York. The pearls and mink coats of Park avenue are worn hardly a block away from the safety pins and rags of Avenue A. Such a contrast was bound to bring discord. The poverty stricken, finding no solace in the only American political institution they knew—Tammany Hall—have turned to the doctrines of Karl Marx, and for leadership, to Russia. Their hope, their purpose, is to overthrow our Republic and succeed it with communism. The military situation in which Communist Russia is fighting Nazi Germany gives them an opportunity to mask their bloody designs under the cloak of patriotism.

Strangely enough, these two social extremes of New York have combined to combat Americanism and with it the people of the social and economic status of most Americans. The idea of both wings of the anti-American party is that after they have deluded and destroyed the Americans they can fight it out for the spoils.

The preliminary maneuvers in the Battle for America have already taken place. Coming fresh from consultation with Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill made his Harvard speech. It can hardly be doubted that his idea of a return of America to a place in the British imperial organization had been communicated to some of the Mackinac delegates before the speech was delivered and that the address was intended to stampede the conference into support of some such proposal. The plot failed, but now the effort is to get Gen. Marshall out of Washington because he thinks as an American. If he is sent abroad he will no longer be in a position to influence major decisions of policy.

The members of the Willkieite conspiracy applaud these moves. They can even applaud the neglect of the war against Japan and the disgraceful treatment of Gen. MacArthur. Despite his brilliant record of achievement against the Japs with a minimum of means at his disposal, he has been given a role subordinate to that of the princeling, Mountbatten, who has yet to show any capacity for important command.

In the Battle for America the success of our army and navy is at stake as well as the preservation of our freedom and independence. A graver responsibility for the future of their country never faced the American people than faces them in the election next year.

SLAVERY.

The Illinois Federation of Labor has adopted a resolution condemning the job freeze law as unconstitutional and calling it a measure which invokes labor slavery in this country. The resolution also contained a heated denunciation by Victor A. Olander, federation secretary, terming the job freeze a fetter to war production.

The federation is right. THE TRIBUNE said when the job freeze was first drafted that Mr. McNutt and his war man power commission were reëstablishing "what was known in English medieval law as the 'unfree man,' who was bound by his overlord to the soil or to the job and did what he was told to do where he was told to do it."

The WMC has enslaved 27,000,000 workers in America and the terms of this involuntary servitude threaten to grow more severe as the New Deal continues on its program of undermining the Republic. It is axiomatic that production should suffer under such slavery, for free men always have produced more than slaves.

When the New Deal arrived in Washington, under the billing of an administration with a social consciousness, labor joined up in a big way. The New Deal offered to pass, and did pass, into law many of union labor's favorite schemes for aggrandizement, and the partnership at first blush appeared to be mutually profitable.

The unions thought they were gaining every time one of these bills was shoved thru congress by New Deal henchmen. What they should have known is that the Roosevelt administration was merely increasing its own power with the unions as its tool. As has been demonstrated, the intent was that the New Deal, and not union labor, should be in the saddle when the program was completed.

THE LAST LAP.

When Irvin L. Porter took over the job of selling three-quarters of a billion dollars' worth of bonds in Cook county he started on the big fellows. He had the bank officers look over the ledger and tell the people and companies with big money to invest a good part of it in war bonds. An impressive business was done among large concerns and wealthy persons who bought bonds at a million dollars a copy.

Then there were some who couldn't make it a million, but could manage a half million and their orders were brought in. In succession the quarter million dollar customers and those on down the line to $5,000 and $10,000 figures were solicited with great success.

All the while, orders of the smaller denominations were being sought and obtained. But when Mr. Porter looked at the bond register last night and found that he had done ⅗ of the required amount of business in only ⅗ of the time he had to do the job, he felt anything but complaisant. He knew that substantially all the big customers were on the books. The rest of the money has to come from sales not at a million or a half million each, but in denominations of $18.75, $37.50, $75, and so on.

The first part of the drive was carried chiefly by the big fellows. From here on it's the little fellows who will have to supply the money. They have the income and the cash to do it. A couple of months ago Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau reported that seven-eighths of the income paid out in this country this year is going to people earning less than $5,000 a year. Last week the federal reserve board issued a study showing that there has been an expansion of 12 billion dollars in currency since the war started. The money, the study said, "was mostly paid out in salaries and wages." It is mostly in the form of $10 and $20 bills with an occasional $50. It is "being held by workers and farmers who have had large increases in income."

That's the money Mr. Porter expects to obtain for the government to put Cook county over. The money as it now stands isn't doing anybody any good. And there is good that needs to be done. The good consists in "backing the attack" with every dollar of spare cash. Remember that this week-end when your neighbor calls to ask for your bond subscription. Remember, too, that the larger the number of bond sales, the quicker we'll be finished with Hitler and Hirohito.

A BAD DECISION.

Seven policemen assigned as instructors at the department's school for rookies were found guilty by the civil service commission of accepting $270 from their pupils. Testimony showed that the men who paid did so in the belief that they would receive a better rating. The men who took the money were not dismissed from the force, but were let off with the loss of pay from the time of their suspension a month ago until they were reassigned to duty immediately after the trial.

That was a mistake. The seven should have been dismissed from the force on the sound principle that a man who has shown himself unworthy of a trust is unfit for the responsibilities of a policeman. The patrolman is under continual temptation to shake down the citizens. A man who will yield to that temptation at the expense of his brothers in the service is no man to be trusted with a star, a club, and a pistol.

The commission's softness toward offenses of this kind can only serve to weaken discipline in the department. The mistake cannot be excused on the ground of the shortage of available men. The department will never need men so badly that it can afford to keep dishonest ones in uniform.

Editorial of the Day

THE BOOK OF BOOKS.
[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

For the first time in the history of the world Bibles are now rationed. This does not mean that the government has rationed them, but the demand is so great the publishing houses which print Bibles are unable to fill their orders. One of them has sent word to the book sellers it can accept no more orders until October. Another has its entire output spoken for six months ahead.

One reason for the immense sale of Bibles is that pious fathers and mothers, when their boys go off to join the armed forces, see that a Bible is packed with their kit. Another reason is that in these trying days people find rest for their souls in reading the Scriptures; indeed, that is the great reason.

There is no better book than the Bible. Since the art of printing was invented it always has been the best seller. It brings rest to the restless heart, peace to the unhappy, and more than that it points the way to heaven. In it God speaks to man; in it the believing heart finds a comfort that the earth cannot give; the sorrowing find the eternal promise—

"He shall wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither mourning, nor crying, nor pain."

MR. PEPYS ROLLS ALONG.

25th Sept.—Celebrated the autumnal equinox by sending material for the Linebook of 1943 to the printer, but that is only half the job, for when it has been put into type I must tell them how to arrange the items so as to make everything fit: Plan to do that a couple of weeks hence after corrections have been made, and expect to have a sticky time pasting up the dummy. Hope this answers the question I am often asked, "When do you finish your work?" The right answer is, "Never."

Have thus far baffled every one who asked. "When are you going to take your vacation?" and am slightly baffled myself, but feel fine except for a few minor ailments such as eyestrain, toothache, and that old Pearl Harbor grouch before breakfast. Have had the latter malady for nearly two years, but it improves every time Gen. MacArthur bowls over a big batch of Japs.

Am thinking of taking up stargazing as a hobby, because I have always envied the fellows who could tell one constellation from another at a glance. Am practicing it while walking my dog around the block at midnight, and find it takes my mind off the global matters about which there is so much shouting. Besides, it is a nice old-fashioned amusement, neglected in this era, and quite inexpensive until you feel you simply must have a telescope.

Maybe I will go to Wrigley field this afternoon to say good-by to the Cubs and applaud them for having lost more games by one run than any baseball club on the records, which shows they were almost good enough to be champions. Then tonight, unless there is a tempest, I will certainly go to Dyche stadium to see the new Wildcats unveil the football season.

THE REJECTED.

I cannot sing of war; I lack the heart
To sit at home and pluck a war-tuned lyre,
When in the foreign lands friends take my part
And brave for me those bloody fields of fire.

They crowd the cold wet decks I'd like to share,
Theirs is the action on disastrous seas,
For me they strike like falcons from the air,
For me they force my foeman to his knees.

So I am not ashamed, if shame it be,
To pray to God, as seems to fit my part,
To spare these friends and send them back to me.
I cannot sing of war. I lack the heart.

The Odd Case of Rossiter McBeowulf.

Rossiter McBeowulf was a "here-to-there-er." He was the man who figured that if all the railroads in America were laid end to end, they would go around the equator six times, with enough left over for a spur line to Oshkosh.

Rossiter McBeowulf was hot stuff.

Then one day, he was called into a certain high government office, and an important official spoke to him.

"McBeowulf," he said tensely, "it is imperative that we know immediately how far all the eggs we have sent to Great Britain would reach if laid end to end."

"Trust me, sir!" replied McBeowulf, quietly.

He locked himself in his laboratory and measured 16,370 eggs to ascertain the average length. Then, after some intricate mathematical computations, he discovered that all the eggs together would reach almost from New York to Los Angeles. They stopped just inside Glendale. McBeowulf was about to turn in his report when his assistant dashed in, waving a newspaper. "Boss!" he gasped. "It says here that a hen in Evanston just laid an egg 5 inches long!" McBeowulf took the blow bravely. He went back to work, and in 36 hours discovered that the eggs now reached from New York to Catalina Island. He was leaving for the government office with the statistics in his hand, when his assistant ran in once more. "Boss!" he sobbed brokenly. "It says here that a hen down in Geo'gia just laid an egg only one inch long!"

McBeowulf was shaken. "She couldn't have been trying!" he muttered, pressing his fingers to his tortured brow as he turned back to the laboratory, to find that with the new measurements his eggs only reach to Denver. And that was with a little cheating on the spaces between eggs. Eluding his assistant, who was at that moment running in with another newspaper, McBeowulf reached the government office.

"Here are your statistics, sir!" he said proudly.

The official read them over and his face fell. "But you didn't use dehydrated eggs!" he shrieked.

WHEN WORDS FAIL.

He asked me if I loved my wife.
That question put me on the spot.
I couldn't answer for my life,
And so, of course, I answered not.
And was I very fond of meat?
I couldn't say, if I should die.
Did I have corns upon my feet?
I simply couldn't make reply.
And was I very fond of prunes?
And e'en to this I said not "nay."
Did I enjoy the new jazz tunes?
And yet not one word could I say.
He asked me questions by the score,
My head was spinning round and round,
I sat and glared down at the floor;
But uttered not a single sound.
Then of a sudden I feel free;
I'm rescued from my oral drouth;
My questioner has taken the Thermometer out of my mouth.

Why does the old frame building on Wentworth avenue immediately north of Root street bear the seal of West Virginia? [Sept. 22.] Because lumber from the West Virginia building at the world's fair of 1893 was used in its construction. My father, who helped to demolish the fair structure, told me about it.

HUMAN BEINGS MAY ACT AS 'CARRIERS.'

SOME of us can remember when we went to all sorts of bother in order to avoid spreading a contagious disease. After a siege, the sickroom was closed and subjected to fumigation with formaldehyde or sulfur candles. The bedding had to be treated with germ-destroying gases. Sheets were soaked in tubs filled with a solution of bichloride of mercury.

After scarlet fever the victim was confined until every sign of peeling had disappeared. In fact, many a physician claimed credit for stopping an epidemic because he saw to it that every particle of dead cuticle had been removed before the invalid was allowed to mingle with others.

But all this has changed. It is true that after a bout with diphtheria, scarlet fever, or any similar illness, the quarters are cleansed thoroly, the walls washed, and the bedding exposed to air and sunlight. But streptococci—for example—may linger in the patient's airways. The nasal passages, as well as the throat, now receive the attention which we formerly lavished upon the furniture.

Such persons, altho ostensibly well, are carriers. This term designates certain individuals who harbor vicious organisms within the mucous-lined chambers of the nose, the sinuses, or about the tonsils. They themselves are in no danger because they have developed an immunity to the particular germs which are growing within their bodies. But they can disseminate them. Sneezing or coughing may pollute the air and microbes can travel with the circulating currents within the home or even a sizable building.

This explains why segregating a victim of measles or whooping cough may be futile, especially if the door of the sickroom opens upon a corridor which is in use. Thus attempts to separate scarlet fever on one floor, measles on another, diphtheria on another in a contagious hospital may be defeated by good ventilation.

Of course, from a practical point of view, if ordinary precautions are employed, we have little reason to fear cross-infection. By means of cubicles, diphtheria and scarlet fever have been placed side by side, neither patient contracting the disease of the other. Success with this type of management is based upon the fact that in coughing, most of the spray will settle out within a distance of 6 or 7 feet. But even walking thru a room will stir up enough bacteria-laden dust to fill the air.

The reason more of us are not ill is because resistance is high. Altho we inhale viruses and bacilli, they are promptly destroyed and discharged. Furthermore, we make an effort to protect our youngsters with vaccines against many of the common maladies—tetanus [lockjaw], diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever, and the like.

We are grateful to our stylists who have lifted women's skirts off the floor. The dust ruffle has vanished along with antediluvian trains. Colds will be fewer in the spic and span household, where a vacuum cleaner removes millions of organisms. If we will only burn the contents of the sack and discontinue shaking mops outside the window, we will carry our sanitary precautions ever further.

BUILD RESISTANCE.

E. B. writes: I had an operation for pleurisy several months ago and I am still draining. Please advise.

REPLY.

You should do everything possible to raise reserve—more rest, fresh air, and four or five small nourishing meals daily.

MORE TREATMENT.

L. B. writes: A year ago I had a mastoid operation. There is still a foul odor behind the ear. What can be done?

REPLY.

Continue treatments until the infection has been subdued. Some one of the sulfonamide drugs may help.

"CATCHING" T. B.

Mrs. B. writes: My husband has tuberculosis and I visit him in the sanitarium. I think it is rather dangerous for me to inhale the air in the ward. Will you advise?

REPLY.

The danger from the air is negligible. Contact, however, should be avoided.

LIKE A PRUNE.

K. D. writes: The roof of my mouth is all wrinkled. What can I do about it?

REPLY.

No occasion for alarm. If it weren't, there might be.

NOT THE HEART.

M. B. writes: Can malaria, or its aftermath, affect the valves of the heart?

REPLY.

Rarely. Even after recovery, however, the spleen may remain enlarged.

This Changing World.

To the symbols of the triumph of science now must be added the blind mendicant of the Hyde Park area who has cast aside his accordion for a personal radio, suspended from his neck and tuned to the dance melodies of the day.

On Bus Boys.

Our scout, Roberta, has been worrying for some time about the advisability of continuing to patronize a loop restaurant where sanitary precautions have diminished to an alarming degree. Her doubt gave way to conviction the other day as she heard a glib bus boy say to a man in search of the manager: "He'll be back in a half hour. He's gone out to lunch."

The same bus boy went about his chores singing lustily and to the obvious annoyance of a waitress who called out, "Pipe down. Who do you think you are?" Assuming a Jimmy Durante-like pose he caroled, "O, don't youse know? Dey calls me Frank Swoonatra."

Neighborhood Coziness Note.

The airplane, the radio, and Mr. Willkie are seeing to it that we are becoming cognizant of, and even chummy with, our distant neighbors, but it remains for the postman to keep the world at home acquainted at home. The suburb of Wilmette boasts such a kindly man, one who is keenly interested in all the families on his route and stops to chat at the slightest pretext. He keeps each householder informed of forthcoming babies and their arrival, reports the whereabouts and activities of all the men in service, and one morning even took time out to see that a small boy got to school on time when he saw that he might be late. One of his clients has a son in the marines and always knows slightly in advance when a letter is coming from him, as the postman begins to whistle the marine hymn as he starts down the block. This is nice for the neighbors, too, as, hearing the whistle, they know the boy is well and reporting and can start right in asking his mother how he is when they next see her. However, his nicest act was last winter when one of his mail clients, Mrs. Howard Craig, was alone in her home with three babies, her husband being in New York. Her fuel oil had run low, and she had frantically telephoned the ration board asking for an extension, as the youngest child then was only a few weeks old. The board promised to send additional coupons in the mail. The following afternoon she rushed out to meet the postman and, being disappointed to find no coupons, confessed her plight to him. He was as disappointed as she. The next morning her telephone rang at 7 a. m. It was the postman. "Mrs. Craig," he said, "your ration coupons are in the mail. Shall I bring them over now, or can you wait until the regular delivery?"

Change of Venue.

Maybe you've heard of the man who lived in a town on the Russian-Polish border which changed hands so rapidly he was never certain of his home address. One day he went downtown to pay his income tax, or some such inconsequentia. "Where are we today?" he asked the tax collector. "Russia or Poland?" "Poland," the official said. "Good," he replied. "It's nice to be out of that Russian winter."

A Tear in Sicily.

How the service men feel about Bob Hope and his shows at camps here and overseas is well known. Less is known of their feeling about Frances Langford, one of his associates. In the morning mail was a letter from a boy in Sicily:

"Bob Hope and his company put on a show for us in a ditch the other night. He was fine, as usual, but Frances Langford really won the heart of every man here. There we were, not too clean, I regret to say, and battered, and haggard, and probably a sight hard on any one's eyes. She looked at us and began to cry. Every man in the crowd wanted to go up, put his arm around her shoulder, and say, 'Look, don't cry. It's not that bad.'"

SQUARE PEG.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 22.—Some news dispatches have mentioned the difficulty that was encountered by the American 5th army in maintaining radio communication with its supporting naval units. It has occurred to me that possibly a rigid naval policy might bear some of that blame. I can cite two typical cases.

A very good friend of mine applied some months ago for a naval commission. He had a college degree, was a very intelligent chap, and had made a noted success for himself in the publishing business. He was assigned to radio and radar work. He does not possess a technical mind, and his present assignment makes him thoroly miserable. He remarked to me a few weeks ago while home on leave, that after eight months study he still didn't know anything about radio, and had doubts of ever being able to learn it. He dreaded having to direct other men in something he could not understand. He is slated for sea duty within two months as a lieutenant.

I have another friend who has never had a formal college education, but radio has been his life's work and hobby. He is at present on leave of absence from one of our largest communications companies and is instructing army officers in the use of radar and electronics. He applied for a commission in the navy but was turned down because he did not have a college education. The highest the navy would offer him was a petty officers rating.

Is it possible the navy is deliberately turning down competent communications men on mere technicalities, and trying to fit others into work for which they are unsuited just because they have a college degree? CURIOUS.

"TIMELY AND SPLENDID."

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Let me compliment you upon publication of Garet Garrett's article, "The Mortification of History." It is so timely and splendid a presentation that it should be reprinted in booklet form and distributed by the millions. Because our legislators would do well to consider this scholarly treatise, it deserves reading into the Congressional Record so that it could be mailed by our interested representatives to their constituents.

JOSEPH M. KRAUS.

FAT STUFF.

Alton, Ill., Sept. 13.—Turn in your waste fats, folks, but while we are all greasy for the duration let's be sure that we turn out the real wasters of the fat of our land. When I think of all the hog-fats that Lard Corn Wallace has deliberately wasted, I get all het up and blow my fuses! Too bad that we can't render the "waist fats" of our overstaffed, overstuffed burocracy into lard, for we may need some extra grease next year for the New Deal skids. JIM MACK.

DIFFERENT ATMOSPHERE.

Beardstown, Ill., Sept. 19.—I want to tell you I appreciate the wonderful work you and your organization are doing in truthfully and as fully as possible reporting the country's as well as Washington's trend. As I came down here from Minneapolis I seemed to feel a different atmosphere when I came into the area influenced by your paper.

A. W. ERICKSON.

LONELY VOICE.

Elmwood, Ill., Sept. 20.—I have been a farmer for over 60 years and would like to mention a few things the New Deal has done for us. Most of us can remember those hectic last days of the Hoover administration when some of us had to chase the sheriff off our farms with a shotgun to prevent foreclosure.

The New Deal has taken care of all this, and how: By Uncle Sam loaning us money on easy terms so that we could pay off our 6 and 7 per cent mortgages and have money to finance our business. They taught us how to farm our rough land and prevent erosion. They gave us good prices for our products, improved our farm machinery, and made farm life more attractive.

We were given rural electrification, with plenty of light and power and all the modern conveniences of the city. Not we alone, but all the people were given a safe place to deposit our earnings.

But in spite of all this we still have a few old crabs who just can't take it. They are still grieving over those poor little innocent pigs that met such an untimely death.

Our soil has been so improved that we are now raising more hogs, cattle, and corn than we or any other country ever produced, and with a little rationing we are now not only feeding our home folks and our vast armies in foreign lands but millions in the old world. H. G. BOWERS.

ANOTHER MOTHER HEARD FROM.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—I read Mrs. Edwin A. Gausselin's letter with great interest. Probably the reason women have not expressed opinions about the draft of fathers is that we are so sick with worry that we don't take time to write to the paper.

Mothers of pre-Pearl Harbor children, whose husbands are in 1-A, as mine is, in spite of the fact that he is in war work, face two alternatives, each equally dreadful. We can get jobs in order to feed, clothe, house, and pay doctor's and dentist's bills for our children, in which case they will have no one to look after them while we are at work. Thus, left to their own devices, they will roam the streets and end up either in a hospital or a reform school.

The other alternative is to stay home with them and try to get along on an allowance that would have been insufficient during the depression. In this case we will have to watch them suffer from malnutrition, freeze in the winter because of insufficient clothes, and get into bad company because of poor housing conditions, which will be all we can afford.

It seems to me that it is the children who will be paying for this war, and thru these children the whole nation will suffer. A WORRIED MOTHER.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A month ago I had a permanent wave for which I paid $12.50. It turned out poorly and the operator offered to touch it up here and there, but the whole wave is weak and in places there is no wave at all. Can I get a refund? M. B.

A BIRD FLIES INTO THE OFFICE OF A HIGHLY ORGANIZED CORPORATION

"The Chimney Crashed"

By Alice Ormond Campbell

Copyright: 1943: by Alice Ormond Campbell

SYNOPSIS: Lady Hyacinth calls at the office of her husband, Peter Gloam, and tries to persuade him to stake her so she can buy more antiques for shipment to America. During the night his office has been bombed. Wren Dancey, his secretary; Sam Molesey, bookkeeper, and Harold, his office boy, realize it is the end of a business that has been operating at a loss for some time. Joanna Fripp and Cyril Brockett, cousins of Lady Hyacinth, accompany her. Ronald, now Capt. Warre, nephew of Peter Gloam, on leave, calls to see his uncle. There is a sound of falling bricks in the inner office. Lady Hyacinth prevents the office force and Ronald from entering. Lady Hyacinth and Peter are quarreling. Presently the clink of small coins is heard. The quarrel continues. Outside they can hear Peter refusing his wife something. Then a loud thump, a thud, and Lady Hyacinth calls them in. Peter has suffered a stroke. Her husband not yet buried and during a violent air raid, Lady Hyacinth arranges for removal of their furniture and household effects, by van, to a Dorset cottage. Parker, the cook, tries to tell Wren of the amazing things she has seen Lady Hyacinth doing. Interrupted, Parker runs to the air raid shelter, and on the way there she is murdered. One of the van drivers, Mike Riley, is found murdered at Bexminster. Mrs. Swayne, a farmer's wife and helper at the Dorset cottage, missing a key, visits the cottage and hears strange noises. When her husband investigates, all is quiet. Wren arrives in Dorset to look after the furniture. A bomb has sent Lady Hyacinth to the hospital with a broken leg.

INSTALMENT VI.
ALONE—AT LAST.

Mrs. Swayne clicked her tongue. "This here Lady Gloam," she said dryly, "must think a heap o' her belongings."

"Lady Hyacinth? O, she does! She wanted to have everything ready that night, because there was a faint chance the poultry van she'd got hold of might be calling to collect it Sunday morning."

"And the packing couldn't be done by day?"

"It was rather a full day," Wren explained. "You see, Lady Hyacinth's husband dropped dead at 11."

There was another sharp, shocked glance in her direction. "Well, well," Mrs. Swayne purred tactfully. "And atop o' that the lady herself got a broken leg. Sent you instead, did she, to give an eye to her furniture?"

"I happened to be the only available person undamaged." Wren's voice flagged. She seemed to be weighing her own statement. "I was supposed to come down Monday, only I—couldn't make it."

"'Tis no matter surely," the soft voice soothed. Lem Gallus, him as drove the van, come to we for key. Being he was single handed, Mr. Swayne helped him shove the things in."

"But there were two men on the van," Wren objected.

Dreamily nodding, Mrs. Swayne informed her that one of the drivers had met with an accident. Just the one night, she added, that the furniture was here on its own. The remark drew Wren's eyes to her face. Only one night! It must surely have been two.

"No telephone," Wren murmured.

"You beant nervous, be you, miss?" A pause. "You never heard nothing last night?"

"Me? Oh, no! I slept like the dead. I was only wondering. Is there a local policeman, just in case?"

"P. C. Podder." Mrs. Swayne swabbed the drainboard with long measured strokes. "Tuesday evening he stopped by. Hearing there was furniture in Foxgloves he promised to have a good poke round."

Wren didn't see the queer shadow hovering over the speaker's face. She had turned back into the hall and was drifting aimlessly into the main front room.

Some man was in the kitchen, exchanging muted remarks with Mrs. Swayne. Crunching steps out back. Mrs. Swayne at the door, saying, "Telegram, Miss. Baker's brought it. There now," in vexation. "Happen there'll be an answer. I'll call him back——"

Wren had torn open the buff envelope. "No answer," she murmured, and as Mrs. Swayne slipped away she read Hyacinth Gloam's message again. Sent from the Maidenhead nursing home, all it said was a curt, "Don't unpack don't arrange leave crates as they are." That was Hyacinth, magnificently indifferent to such matters as blackout or even moderate comfort when they concerned any one but her own autocratic self.

"But who cares?" Wren shrugged. She did have a bed — Hyacinth's splendid one. There was the kitchen table to eat on, and as for curtains, well, daylight lasted till 10. "The great thing is, I'm alone. Gosh," she marveled, "have I just begun to take that in? Alone! From now on I can eat alone, dress alone, sleep alone——"

At the top of the rough slope she drew sobered breath and looked back on the cottage which was for a few weeks to be her solitary abode. Yes, she decided, if Hyacinth's aim was to safeguard curtain antiques till they could be bunged over to America, Foxgloves was a grand spot to choose. Seven long miles from a town, a mere fleabite in rural desolation, it offered no target to enemy planes.

She saw the farmer's wife hurry homeward thru a gap in the hedge. Saw soft, silent-gliding mist roll in from the valley and proceed without fuss to wipe out the house.

Wandering along the rugged cart track into the lane, she saw with astonishment that the sky above was a deep, blue-bell blue.

Who was this heading toward her out of the fog? No country woman. She'd got on a hat. A tired, dark town suit, too, and neat but unsuitable shoes. Her feet must be giving her fits. Stumbling now, catching herself, lagging onward in a vague, blind yet persistent way that was somehow hauntingly familiar. It couldn't be, of course, that was sheer nonsense. Plenty of women must set their feet down in that sloppy fashion.

Damp fingers closed on Wren's heart.

"Joanna!" she groaned. "What in God's name are you doing down here?"

The black blight on the landscape drew near. Peering myopically, Joanna gave no greeting smile, just limped up and hooked ungloved tentacles round Wren's arm.

Wren stood still. "Why aren't you at Farmleigh? It must be a good 20 miles away. Don't tell me you've walked from there."

"Car," Joanna murmured, closing her eyes. "I mistook the house. I've got blisters on every toe."

Red fury seethed in Wren's breast. "Look here, Jo Fripp, are you trying to tell me you let the car drive off before you'd made sure you were at the right place?"

"But it looked like Hidy's cottage," wailed Joanna, sagging where she stood. . . . I think I'm going to faint."

"Don't you dare," Wren began desperately, but just then a tag of adhesive plaster on the high domed forehead caught her outraged eye. That's so, the poor sap had got knocked out rather completely during the raid. "Well, let's get moving," she gritted and steered her incumbrance toward the gate.

By a second illusionist's trick the mist had all washed back where it had come from. There was the cottage again. They made for the back door. In a kitchen almost totally dark, Joanna seemed to be groping for a switch.

"Surely you know there's no electricity," Wren said sternly. "Nothing when it comes to that. Whatever possessed you to move out of luxury to this Godforsaken place?"

"Take this flashlight," she ordered. "It's still light in the other rooms. Oh, you do know your way!"

Not answering, Joanna was moving straight as a die into the room at the right end of the narrow front hall. Of course! She'd been with Hyacinth, too, when this cottage was given the once-over. So had Cyril. He'd been driving the car.

TWO, 16 AND 15, ADMIT BEATING GIRL IN HOLDUP

Two young Negroes confessed to Capt. James Kerr at the Morgan Park police station yesterday that they assaulted Miss Lorraine Schulte, 19, of 10547 Throop street, last July 31, during an attempted robbery. Miss Schulte was struck over the head with a wrench and severely wounded.

How Francis Darey hid knife he carried.

The two under arrest are Francis Darey, 16, of 1300 West 109th place, and David Wimberly, 15, of 1224 West 111th street. Wimberly was arrested in his home on information obtained by the Morgan Park police, and confessed, naming Darey as the one who wielded the wrench. Darey was arrested at 53d and Halsted streets. He was carrying a 10 inch butcher knife in a holster strapped to his leg when seized.

Darey said that they did not rob the girl because her screams attracted neighbors. The prisoners admitted stealing from automobiles. They were questioned about other assaults on the south side.

EIGHT TESTIFY IN GRAND JURY GAMBLING PROBE

Eight witnesses appeared yesterday before the grand jury which is seeking to learn what happened to seven roulette wheels and other costly equipment seized Sept. 8 in a raid on the Dome, 7466 Irving Park road.

Policeman Joseph Healy of the state's attorney's staff was reported to have told the jury he scratched the letters X and H on each piece of the confiscated equipment. Two old roulette wheels which he later saw at the county highway police station near Morton Grove had no such markings, Healy said.

Another witness, Philip Schwartz, a policeman at the Morton Grove station, was suspended Tuesday after he refused to testify before the grand jury. Yesterday he again refused to testify. Schwartz was the chauffeur for Lt. Myles McDonough, who also has been suspended as a result of the disappearance of the gambling outfit.

11 MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN COAL SHAFT

Minersville, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—At least 11 men were killed today in an explosion on the fifth level of the Moffett Schrader coal mine near here.

Rescuers who had been working feverishly to reach men trapped by the blast this afternoon had brought four bodies to the surface late tonight and reported at least seven other men had been killed by concussion or deadly fumes which followed the explosion.

Harry Price, Pottsville, in charge of three rescue crews, said mine motors, tracks, and working places had been ripped asunder. The fifth level is 1,500 feet underground.

Several other men who suffered burns and bruises when the blast swept thru the workings, had been brought out earlier. None was reported in serious condition.

Mrs. F.D.R. Returns Home with Load of Native Grass

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who arrived at the airport here in a Liberator bomber this morning to end a five week, 25,945 mile jaunt thru the South Pacific, did not return empty handed. Besides distributing souvenirs among the plane's crew, she stowed away a dozen other packages in her limousine, among them being reported such objects as maori paddles, mats, and a bunch of native grass which may have been a hula-hula skirt. A 23,000 foot movie was taken of her trip for what she described as "morale building purposes."

AXIS PRISONERS HELP TO RELIEVE LABOR SHORTAGE

Five More Camps Report Captives a Help.

Axis prisoners of war in camps thruout the United States have helped to relieve the man power shortage on farms, in canneries, and laundries, reports received today by THE TRIBUNE from five prison camps, disclose. These reports are in addition to those reviewed recently by THE TRIBUNE in a war prisoner survey.

All work of this kind is done voluntarily by the prisoners under the Geneva convention governing the care of prisoners of war. Altho private employers pay prevailing wages for the services of the men, only 80 cents a day goes to the prisoners. Of this sum 40 cents is in the form of canteen credit. The remainder is held in trust to be paid to the prisoners when they are again nationalized. The rest remains with the government to help pay for their maintenance.

Five Camps Report.

Following are the reports covering five prison camps not previously reviewed:

CAMP BRECKINRIDGE, KY.—Axis prisoners at this camp started their farm work this summer by planting crops over several acres in their own compound. Cabbage for use in sauerkraut was the principal crop. Later hundreds were taken out daily under guard to harvest corn, melons, and orchard fruit. Prisoners not engaged elsewhere were employed in "labor gangs" repairing roads, digging drainage ditches and cleaning the camp lumber yards. About 1,500 prisoners went to Austin and Elwood, Ind., to harvest and process the tomato crop.

Work in Army Laundry.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Prisoners of war here are helping to operate the quartermaster laundry of nearby Camp Carson. Approximately 150 of them work on the day shift from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., with one hour for lunch. Eighty worked for a time on a four hour night shift. Similar hours are observed on other jobs, which include warehouse work, repairing of bed clothing, painting, carpentering, shoe repairing, clerking, and landscaping.

Praise Italian Prisoners.

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, MD.—Italian prisoners of war at this army post are described as "alert and well disciplined civilian soldiers" by Lt. Col. Joel D. Pomerene, commander of the camp. Working under the direction of their own noncommissioned officers, they operate their own mess halls and keep their own company areas in order. Orders have been issued to army mess sergeants to let the Italians prepare their food as they wish.

A group of prisoners started work recently in the post laundry. Soon others will be clearing land, sawing firewood and grading. As the Geneva convention stipulates that military courtesies shall be exchanged between prisoners and their captors, the Italians snap to attention and salute with precision when American officers approach.

Help Carry Labor Burden.

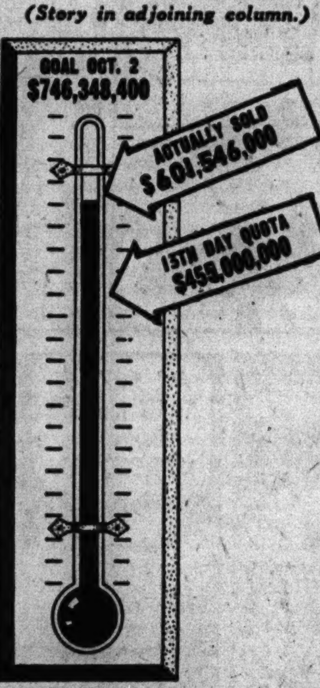
COLUMBUS, IND.—Italian soldiers interned at nearby Camp Atterbury as military prisoners are relieving a critical labor shortage in the fields and canneries in this area. Employers have found them satisfactory workers with happy dispositions. Approximately 50 per cent of the Italians at Camp Atterbury are working outside the camp. One-third of the rest work on farms and the others in canneries. Inside the camp the men are used on road maintenance, general repair and in handling coal supplies.

Aid in Landscaping.

STRINGTOWN, OKLA.—In addition to farm work, prisoners at this camp have been used in constructing and beautifying state parks. Farm work consists of harvesting hay for cattle, picking cotton, and husking corn. In some instances they are also used at cutting timber.

Bond Sales

(Story in adjoining column.)



Progress of the third war loan drive in Chicago.

STATE, MADISON SITE OF TODAY'S BOND SALE SHOW

"Women's Day" Planned to Boost 'E' Bonds.

State street once more will echo with the songs and patter of radio and stage entertainers today to attract attention to the third war loan drive. The outdoor vaudeville show will be staged from 11:45 a. m. to 1 p. m. at State and Madison streets, the center of the State street display of fighting equipment.

Color for the program will be supplied by Princess Whitecloud, billed as the "singing sweetheart of the Sioux," who will appear in Indian costume. Others on the program will be Skeets Gallagher and Stuart Erwin, comedians, who will try to duplicate last Tuesday's performance as bond salesmen; Jack Gardner, boogie-woogie pianist; Olga Dolores Schaller, opera singer; Ethel Weider, soprano, and James R. Collins, the "treasury tenor."

Plan "Women's Day."

Plans were going forward yesterday to make Monday "women's day" in the war bond drive and thereby boost the lagging sale of E bonds.

"The American women own almost three-fourths of the wealth of the nation," said Mrs. W. M. Rennie, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Each of 30,000 members of the women's division of the Cook county war finance committee has pledged herself to call 10 of her friends and relatives to promote extra bond purchases and to ask each of these in turn to call on at least 10 of their friends and relatives for the same purpose.

Fashion Show Slated.

To climax "women's day" a patriotic fashion show will be staged at 7:30 p. m. Monday at State and Adams streets to show what is being worn by WACs, WAVES, SPARS, women marines, army and navy nurses, and feminine war workers.

A total of $601,546,000 in bond sales was reported up to midnight Thursday, it was revealed yesterday by Irvin L. Porter, chairman of the county war finance committee.

DARLAK CALLED IN TOUHY TRIAL; SILENT ON STAND

Edward Darlak, a convict at Stateville prison, refused to testify yesterday when he was called as a court's witness in the trial of Roger Touhy, Matthew Nelson, and William Stewart, fellow convicts, who are charged with helping Darlak escape last Oct. 9. The trial is being held before Judge Roscoe C. South in Joliet.

Darlak, who is serving a sentence of 199 years, balked when asked whether he had furnished the guns with which Touhy, Basil Banghart, and several others engineered the prison break. Judge South soon afterward adjourned the trial to Monday.

During the day Samuel Johnson, a guard, and Herman Kross, a former guard, testified. Kross, who was dazed by a shot that grazed his head, said he could not remember the final details of the escape. Johnson testified that he was forced to lead the way up a ladder over the prison walls ahead of Touhy.

"Touhy pointed a gun at me, and said, 'You go up first,'" said Johnson. "I went up."

SOLDIER KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 24 [AP].—Corp. Oris G. Collins of Johnston City, Ill., was killed today when a truck he was driving collided with a Pere Marquette passenger train on the outskirts of Detroit.

Man in Uniform Robs and Rapes Young Mother

A young mother, 25 years old, was raped and robbed yesterday in the vestibule of a rooming house at 2623 Hampden court by a man in a soldier's uniform, she reported to Sheffield avenue police. The mother told police that she left her work at 2 o'clock in the morning and took a Clark street car to Deming place. There she noticed that she was being followed. As she neared the rooming house, she said, the soldier seized her.

DENY SHUTDOWN OF ARMOR PLATE MILL AT GARY

Officers of the Chicago ordnance district issued a statement last night saying that no shutdown is contemplated at the Gary armor plate plant, which is operated for the government by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company. The plant will continue to produce armor plate on its present basis to meet ordnance requirements which have not been changed, ordnance spokesmen said.

The statement was issued to refute a published story that the 900 workers had been notified that the mill would shut down next week, leaving vacant a plant that cost more than $40,000,000 and has been operated less than a year. The story was credited to Mary Lucas, a crane operator and member of the grievance committee of the United Steel Workers of America [CIO] at the plant.

Spokesmen for both the steel company and the union added their denials of the story last night. Company spokesmen said flatly that no notice of lay-off had been given. Joe Goin, Gary district head of the union, said the Lucas woman was not authorized to announce any lay-off and declared it was meaningless.

UNIFIED TRANSIT TRANSFER PLAN ALMOST READY

Dime to Buy Ride on Any Two Systems.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

The detailed plan for the inauguration Oct. 1 of a unified city-wide transfer system was brought near to completion yesterday in the offices of the Illinois commerce commission.

Merrill B. Knox, staff engineer for the commission, placed on record his recommendations for transfer rules and the establishment of transfer points on the lines of the three large local transportation companies—elevated, motor coach, and surface lines. These suggestions were in most instances agreed on by engineers representing the companies, and the city of Chicago; in disputed matters Knox expressed his own opinion as the agent of the regulatory body.

Intercompany Fare 10 Cents.

Among the important features of the unified plan are:

1. The number of points at which a passenger may transfer from one company's facilities to another [including some duplication] is 354.

2. The intercompany transfer fare will be 10 cents; this fare now prevails on the L and the bus lines; intracompany surface lines rides remain at 8 cents and the intercompany transfer rider must pay an additional 2 cents.

3. Every place at which the lines of any two of the three companies cross, intersect, converge upon or diverge from each other is a transfer point.

4. A passenger may board a vehicle of any of the three lines anywhere in Chicago and ride to any place in the city [in one general direction] served by the transfer issuing company and one other.

5. Use of all three company facilities is not permitted on one trip, with one exception for a particular neighborhood.

Commission's O. K. Expected.

It is expected that the commission, which on its own volition ordered the unified transfers, regarded as the most important advance in local transportation in many years, will adopt the Knox report with slight changes. Knox is to meet the other engineers on Monday to discuss such changes and the matter will reach the commission Tuesday.

He said that the companies had coöperated splendidly in working out the details.

The transfer points between the L and surface lines are increased from 57 to 123 and between the L and the bus lines from 25 to 45. Bus-surface lines transfers, entirely new, will be good at 186 intersections. Duplications occur at points, particularly in the loop, where all three facilities have service.

Transfers to or from the surface lines or buses will be permitted at a'. L stations in the loop, a change from the present practice. The Sacramento boulevard station on the Garfield park L branch, the Sacramento station on the Lake street L, and the Marquette road station on the Normal park L also are to become transfer points for the first time.

Transfers Good on Subway.

Chicago's new State street subway, operated as part of the elevated system beginning on Oct. 17, will give and receive intercompany transfers at all stations. These transfers will be good on west side street cars on Dearborn street, to which the passengers may walk underground.

Elevated riders who wish to do so may transfer to the subway at State and Van Buren streets or at State and Lake streets; this applies to 25 cent round trip suburban passengers as well as to 10 cent one way riders. The intercompany transfers are for 10 cent payers only.

Passengers from Oak Park, Berwyn, and Cicero will get intercompany transfers issued by the elevated, a new departure. Atty. John F. Tyrrell, representing Oak Park, referred to this provision as "like heaven." He told the commission the suburbs stood ready to enact ordinances to prevent fraud in the use of the transfers.

Time Limits on Transfers.

The only three company transfer will be for passengers riding west on the L to Austin boulevard. They will be permitted to use the motor coach and then the surface bus line, if the recommendations are followed by the commission.

All transfers will have time limits. The elevated lines will use hand stamping or other crude methods to indicate time until enough electric stamps can be had. The other companies will punch time limits.

Grant Bill Johnson More Time to Answer U. S. Plea

The Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday granted an extension until Sept. 30 for the attorneys representing William R. [Big Bill] Johnson, former gambling boss who was found guilty of income tax evasion, to answer the government's reply to Johnson's petition for a new trial. Johnson charges that he was convicted on the perjured testimony of Atty. William Goldstein.

CHICAGO WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD BESIDE TRACKS

The body of a woman believed to be Mrs. Patricia Livingston, 36 years old, wife of the night auditor at the Hotel Sherman, was found on a railroad right of way near Kalamazoo, Mich., the detective bureau was notified yesterday. Hugh J. Livingston, 60, her husband, expressed in Kalamazoo yesterday that she had leaped from a train deliberately. He had reported her disappearance from their home at 6233 North Sayre avenue Thursday.

The body was discovered five miles north of Kalamazoo, on the Michigan Central railroad right of way, by a searching party sent out after a porter told of seeing a woman suddenly disappear from the vestibule of the train. VASSER KILLING NOT ACCIDENT, CASHIN FINDING

James B. Cashin, Negro member of the civil service commission, yesterday filed a dissenting opinion in the case of Policemen Patrick J. Rynne and Charles Schwertfeger of the Morgan park station who were tried last month in connection with the fatal shooting of Elmo Vasser, 16 year old Negro. The majority opinion, altho reprimanding Rynne, held the shooting was an accident.

Cashin wrote that the accident defense was an afterthought and did not appear until 19 days after the shooting. He charged that the other members of the commission had ignored a charge of unlawful use of a weapon that had been placed against Rynne.

Vasser was shot after he had allegedly thrown rocks at the policemen when they went to 113th and South Morgan streets to investigate a report that a man was lying on the railroad tracks at that point. The boy lived at 11347 South Carpenter street.

IFL CONVENTION INDORSES F. D. R. FOR A 4TH TERM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt was indorsed as a fourth term candidate and given a cheer on the floor of the convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor today.

The indorsement was contained in a resolution of praise framed by the Chicago local No. 753 of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union.

Hailing him as the champion of labor, the milk wagon drivers supported a view that Mr. Roosevelt is needed "to carry to a successful conclusion the victory march of our armed forces who have been led by his ingenious leadership and ability."

Five resolutions condemning John L. Lewis as a renegade responsible for dissension in the ranks of labor thruout the nation and bloodshed in the past in Illinois and opposing readmission of his United Mine Workers' union to the AFL were sidetracked by the resolutions committee.

AWARDED $200 IN $4.80 JOLIET OPA RENT SUIT

Joseph Montgomery of Joliet, who claimed his landlord had overcharged him 40 cents a month for 12 months, was awarded $200 yesterday in a Joliet Justice court in settlement of his suit for $500 under an office of price administration rent control regulation. He rents a cottage at 2313 North Broadway, Joliet, for $12 a month from Joseph Shirtino, and had been paying $1 extra for water. When Montgomery complained to Levon Seron, Joliet rent administrator, that Shirtino had shut off the water because Mrs. Montgomery bought a washing machine, he learned the former tenant had been paying 60 cents a month for water. He sued Shirtino for $500 under the OPA rule that a tenant can ask for three times the amount over the rent ceiling, or $50 for each month an overcharge is collected. He could not sue for more than $500 before a justice of the peace.

Stella Jannotta Is Betrothed to Lt. W. P. Kelly

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT A TEA at home in Kenilworth this afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwin Jannotta will celebrate the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Stella Skiff, to Lt. William P. Kelly, son of Mrs. William P. Kelly and the late Mr. Kelly of Highland Park. The announcement will not come as a surprise to the friends of the young couple as Lt. Kelly has been a devoted beau of Miss Jannotta for some time.

Miss Jannotta attended Pine Manor Junior college and Northwestern university. She has two younger brothers, Joseph Jr. and Ned. They are grandchildren of Mrs. Stella Skiff Jannotta and of the late Alfredo A. Jannotta. Lt. Kelly was educated at the Abbey school in Scotland, where he was born, and at Northwestern university and the University of Notre Dame. He is stationed in Wilmington, Del., with the army ferry command. Lt. Kelly has three sisters, the Misses Frances, Patricia, and Christina Kelly.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Robinson and Miss Lucia Rogers Sellers, who have grown up together, soon will be related by marriage. Miss Robinson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Livingston Robinson, have announced her engagement to Lt. Tilton Davis Jr. of the army air forces, who is a cousin of Miss Sellers. At the same time Dr. and Mrs. Ovid Rogers Sellers revealed that their daughter is the fiancée of Warwick Woods Butler of the merchant marine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Butler of Santiago, Chile.

Miss Robinson is staying with the Sellers family in their Chalmers place home while her parents are in San Antonio, Tex., where Dr. Robinson is a visiting member of the faculty this year at Trinity university. She and Lt. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Lexington, Mo., plan to be married about the first of December. Dr. Robinson is retired from the faculty of the Presbyterian Thelogical seminary, of which Dr. Sellers is dean.

Wedding News.

Mrs. William H. Koch, who is in Arcadia, Fla., for the marriage today of the Kochs' son, Lorenz Koch, and Miss Marion Doherty, will plunge into preparations for the marriage of his sister, Miss Elizabeth Koch, and Lt. Jack Cramer, on Oct. 9, as soon as she returns. The Cramer-Koch wedding will take place at 7 p. m. in the Lake Shore drive apartment of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat, with a reception following. The ceremony is taking place there so that the bride's grandmother, 82 year old Mrs. Emilie Muther, may be present.

Lt. Cramer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Cramer of Austin, where Mr. and Mrs. Koch also live. Lt. Cramer's sister, Miss Bette Cramer, will attend the bride, and William Koch Jr. will be best man. Lt. Cramer will take his bride to his army post at Harrisburg, Pa. Miss Koch is a graduate of Lake Forest college. Her brother, who is just 19, attended Northwestern before entering the army air forces. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Fowler of Chicago. Young Mr. Koch will complete his aviation training soon.

On the Calendar.

The Lake Geneva Harvest Home dinner-dance tonight will be the last club affair over which Mrs. May G. Hatch, the club's stewardess, will preside, as she is retiring because of ill health. Mrs. Hatch has been with the club practically since it was founded in 1897 and has seen many generations of Chicagoans grow up there. The property now occupied by the club was formerly the lake shore section tract of the Hatch farm estate and Mrs. Hatch still owns a large farm and big old house near the club entrance. She is nationally known as the founder of the first 4-H club and has been treasurer of Linn township for many years. Tonight's party will mark the close of the club year.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Cleveland are entertaining at cocktails from 5 to 7 p. m. tomorrow for Wythe Williams of New York, dean of foreign correspondents in the first World war. He came to Chicago to address the Executives' club on Friday.

The racing season of 1943 ended for the Chicago Yacht club last Sunday with the Sheldon Clark regatta, but dinghy sailors will be out in full force beginning next week. A pirate party, planned for tonight, has been postponed indefinitely. Dining room service except on race days will be discontinued after today. The club's Red Cross unit will continue to meet on Tuesdays at the Belmont club lounge. Richard W. Simmons is among the new members admitted to the club.

The first of a series of Sunday musicals will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Town school. Mona Bradford, a member of the Chicago Opera company, will sing.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Nonrationed.

Let's suppose you are a patriotic white collar girl doing your part. You live in Chicago or close to it and have ample opportunity for war service. But now you feel the need of some new interest, something to pick you up.

Go to the Art institute. If you can afford it, become a member, for which you are entitled to attend, among other things, the amateur sketch class conducted by George Buehr. If you can't stretch your war-taxed purse, go to the free Sunday afternoon Art institute lectures beginning at 3 p. m. tomorrow, when Prof. Chang Shu-chi will demonstrate his remarkable technique of painting . . . or take a free gallery tour every Sunday at 2:30 . . . or enjoy the free half hours in the gallery conducted by Helen Parker and her staff, from 12:30 to 1, beginning Sept. 27 . . . or attend the free Adventures in the Arts series every Thursday at 6:30 p. m.—a survey of art under the direction of Helen Parker, an authority and a darling. You won't be sorry!

Try the Library.

Go to the main Chicago public library. The weekly noon hour book talks will be resumed beginning Oct. 7 from 12:15 to 12:45 p. m. Louis Zara will be the first speaker; other noon hours will be devoted to historical novels, thrillers, and "escape" reading. Or watch for the weekly free informative movies from 12:15 to 12:45 beginning Oct. 1, or listen to the recorded concert series on Saturday from 1:30 to 3, beginning Oct. 2. The last Saturday of each month is a live rather than a recorded concert.

Visit the Chicago Historical society. There will be weekly Sunday lectures at 3 p. m., with a 25 cent admission charge [free to service men]. The series begins Oct. 10 with an illustrated lecture on the world's fair of 1893. The Century of Progress is still in your mind, so wouldn't that be fun?

Don't overlook the Museum of Science and Industry and its fascinating "Yesterday's Main Street," or overlook the special lectures and kitchen demonstrations every day at 2 p. m., Saturday and Sunday included, or the four home settings, of 1886, 1898, 1912, and 1927, exhibited in a modern living room.

Chance to Learn.

Join the Eleanor association and take advantage of some of the classes in Spanish or public speaking or bowling. Or take yourself over to the Y. W. C. A. at 203 North Wabash avenue and inquire about the dozens of things offered to white collar girls from "slym-gymn" to kitchenette cookery . . . from millinery to psychology.

And don't forget the Catholic Youth organization on east Congress street, sponsored by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil. Everything there is free and offered to all creeds. There's something going on every evening—classes in Spanish, French, German; classes in creative writing, a book and authors' clinic, lectures on philosophy, lectures on timely economic problems, studies of the classics, and not the least, an amateur theater with instruction in acting and directing. And there, too, you may find yourself drawn into discussion in the library, where white haired Miss O'Neil—of the soft voice and rapier wit—presides.

These are only a few of the nonrationed things you can do at nominal or no cost in a great city. Then when you write to that certain soldier or sailor, you'll have something fresh and new to tell him.

AWVS Group Will Give Penthouse Party Tonight

The public speaking bureau of the American Women's Voluntary Services, Chicago metropolitan unit, will give a "penthouse fiesta" at 8 o'clock tonight for officers and chairmen of AWVS. The party will be held in the apartment atop the building in which the unit has its headquarters, 160 North La Salle street. Mrs. Beulah Christian Mayher, instructor of AWVS public speaking classes, is in charge of arrangements.

Illinois Opens WAC Recruit Drive Monday

BY DOROTHY JOHNSON.

The 70 day, all-states WAC recruiting campaign will get under way Monday thruout Illinois with the coöperation of city mayors and village presidents.

Gov. Dwight H. Green yesterday issued an appeal to all young women in Illinois, as well as to public officials and civic leaders, to recruit as many as possible of the 70,000 women needed by the army. At the same time he appointed Ferre C. Watkins as executive officer of the campaign in Illinois.

In letters to both Gov. Green and Mr. Watkins, Mayor Edward J. Kelly has pledged full coöperation of Chicago thru the army council, which is composed of civic leaders and army officers of the 6th service command.

The all-states campaign was organized this month at the request of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, who asked governors to direct recruiting within their states and to obtain for the army, by Dec. 7, the full quota of women to fill the more than 150 jobs in army posts and installations.

Gov. Green said last week, when accepting the Illinois recruitment chairmanship, that women of Illinois who answer the call of the WAC will be serving their country in just as important work as their brothers in the services, and will perform tasks which they have demonstrated they can do better than men.

Women recruited in the all-states drive will be formed into state companies or units for training together at a WAC center. Upon completion of basic training, they will be assigned individually in accordance with their qualifications.

The women's army corps has been a component part of the army of the United States since Sept. 1, extending to the WAC the right to army ratings, grades, privileges, responsibilities, and benefits.

PTA Told Need to Stop Growth of Delinquency

Juvenile delinquency among girls under 21 years of age has risen 64 per cent in the first half of 1943, Inspector Rolf T. Harbo of the federal bureau of investigation told national officers, chairmen, and state presidents of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers last night during a keynote address of the group's four day session.

"This increase comes on top of an increase of 55 per cent for the year 1942 and is in contrast to a general decrease in juvenile delinquency for boys under 21," Inspector Harbo continued. "Almost one-fifth of all the persons arrested and finger printed in the country are under 21 years of age, and a large percentage of them are convicted of serious crimes."

Sampling the opinions of police officers, juvenile court judges, and probation officers, Inspector Harbo found that they blame the rise of youthful crimes on the breakdown of family ties; the irregular working hours of adults because of the war with the resultant lack of supervision; the increase in juveniles who are working and obtaining more money to spend; the gangs of juveniles formed for unwholesome acts, and a general laxity on the part of adults.

Youth interviewed by Inspector Harbo blamed the delinquency increase on the lack of adequate and wholesome recreational facilities and on the nonenforcement and observance by adults of established laws.

Basing his prediction on past performances, Inspector Harbo prophesied to the PTA officers that several hundred thousand children now attending school will, in a few years, be enlisted in the army of crime, unless substantial improvements are speedily made.

"You must make a study of local delinquency problems," he recommended, "and coördinate the programs of your various agencies dealing with youth programs. Ascertain whether your police personnel has increased with your population, and see that specially trained officers deal with delinquency cases. Ascertain your juvenile delinquency areas and study the recreational facilities. Strengthen and expand the recreational programs of your schools and churches. Survey the part-time jobs held by youth in your communities to see whether the work is suitable, and encourage thrift among the youngsters. Check the truancy problem since the migration of war workers. Encourage church groups to try to bring more boys and girls into their Sunday schools and young people's leagues, particularly those most in need of the help offered.

"Impress on parents," he stressed, "that they must improve their home guidance and the control of youth. We must furnish firm, and if necessary stern, discipline if the circumstances call for it. We need to set high standards for youth and encourage them to make good scholastic records. And we must see that high standards are maintained in our local law enforcement agencies and courts."

Presiding at the meetings to determine parent-teacher policies for the coming year is Mrs. William Hastings of Madison, Wis., national president of the organization. The convention closes tomorrow.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Letty S., Chicago — Am a housewife and this summer I've been paring vegetables, shelling peas for canning, etc. My thumb got rough and "cut up," as I was awkward. I discovered some of those rubber thumb stalls, or "fingers," I used when I worked in an office. They've been big "thumb savers." My thumbs are looking human again.

Mrs. Lillian B., Sparta, Ill.—Sheets that are thin or split thru the middle can be salvaged for many months of wear by tearing out the worn part the full length of the sheet and then stitching edges together on the machine. These restored sheets are fine for under sheets, or single beds.

Mrs. Bertha G., Evanston—I place citrus fruits which I am preparing for salads in hot water for two or three minutes before peeling. This makes outside and under skin of fruit come off quite easily and the segments separate more easily.

Jehol Pavilion, Exhibit at Chicago Exposition, Presented to Oberlin

The golden pavilion of Jehol, which stood on the grounds of the Century of Progress exposition in 1933 and 1934, has been presented to Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., by the archeological trust of Chicago. It will be transported to Oberlin and reërected there for use as an oriental museum.

Dr. Ernest H. Wilkins, president of Oberlin, said that acceptance of the gift was intended as friendly gesture toward China. Oberlin long has had an intense interest in China, he said, and maintains a school in free China which was moved from Shansi province after the Japanese invasion.

Wise Relatives Help Stepchild Adjust Himself

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I have written about the sometimes unhappy life of the older child when a new baby is born, what the mother and father should do about it, and also how friends and relatives can help by not losing their heads completely over the newcomer. Today I want to apply this same idea to another family situation.

Perhaps I can best convey what I have in mind by quoting from a letter which gives a vivid example.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I was always able to manage my little stepson very well without any friction between us or my husband until my first baby, a boy, was born about two years later. At first there was no appreciable change in the older boy. But several times I overheard remarks made to the child by my husband's sisters and by the child's maternal aunts regarding his standing with his father and 'mother,' now that the baby had arrived.

"To me this seemed a foolish attitude to take, and especially to express in front of a child of 7 years. But my feeble remonstrances fell on deaf ears, and the teasing continued until both his father and I received such answers as 'you don't love me now. You're always picking on me since the baby came,' and so forth, for every little remonstrance made to him.

"I have tried my best to explain to him that he has his rightful place in our home and in our affections, but the constant jibes of his relations about being only a stepchild and stepbrother seems to have won out."

The letter goes on to describe the child's jealousy of the baby, defiance and signs of actual hatred that are evinced by this young stepson who now is a number of years older than when the baby was born.

I cannot speak too strongly in censure of such cruelly thoughtless behavior on the part of people old enough to know better.

After all, both a stepmother and a stepchild need every bit of help they can get to adjust themselves to a radically new and extremely intimate relationship. The uncles and aunts and grownup friends of the stepson or stepdaughter should do everything within their power to foster in a child the assurance of love and security in his home as it is newly made up.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

After its Chicago premiere—which took place and continued all night last night, one performance starting at 10 o'clock and one at 1 a. m.—"Behind the Rising Sun" settles down at the Palace today for steady routine business.

The picture is a version of the book by James R. Young, who spent 61 days in a Tokio prison and essays to be an exposé of life in Japan prior to Pearl Harbor. The story material is sensational but presents nothing particularly new. . . . We know the Japanese to be cruel, crafty, untrustworthy; that their fighting youths are fanatics and that youth and age alike are obsessed with the delusion that Nipponese and Nipponese alone are Sons of Heaven,

Outstanding episodes are the one featuring RKO's handsome new leading man, Robert Ryan—and he is SWELL!—as an American baseball coach in Tokio who finds himself engaged in a battle with a Jap judo expert and several that depict Tom Neal as an America-schooled Japanese reverting to type when he joins the Jap forces as an airman. . . . To be admired is J. Carrol Naish as Taro's publisher father—a thoughtful man NOT in sympathy with the new order. . . .

Otherwise I was not impressed. The film shows evidence of being a "quickie" both as to makeup and "prop" sets and scenery.

See you tomorrow.

Indian Achievement Medal Presented to Sioux Anthropologist

Miss Ella Deloria, Yankton Sioux, outstanding anthropologist in the field of her own people, last night was awarded the 1943 Indian Achievement medal by the Indian Council Fire of Chicago. The presentation was made by Paul L. Fickinger, associate administrative chief of the office of Indian affairs, department of the interior, to Mrs. Ruth Bronson, guidance placement counselor of the office of Indian affairs, in the absence of Miss Deloria at a dinner in the Top of the Town restaurant celebrating Indian day.

Miss Deloria is the third Sioux Indian and the third woman to receive the medal since it was established 11 years ago at the Century of Progress. The medal is given annually to an American Indian whose accomplishments are considered worthy of national recognition. Mrs. Bronson, Cherokee Indian, received the award in 1937.

Since 1929, Miss Deloria has been associated with the department of anthropology of Columbia university and worked closely with the late Dr. Franz Boas on two monographs, "Notes on the Teton Dialects of the Sioux" and "Dakota Grammar."

Fall Millinery Flattering; It's Makers' Genius

BY REA SEEGER.

Nothing daunts the creative urges of the country's hat makers. Global controversy, skimpy arrays of material, decidedly restricted assortments of the luxury fabrics of former years mean nothing. For hats this year of the jitters really are keeping the best headlines gay and feminine and composed. Even the lads who formerly razzed our hats are applauding the very provocative creations topping the varying hairdos around the town. There's plenty of airy stuff left for hats without cutting in on anything headed for the boys.

Expert needlewomen are deftly sewing sequins, beads, bangles, bits of gay colored velvet, and ribbon into eye-catching little toppers for wear with dark clothes. It's inspired needlework, seldom seen since grandmama's hey-day, but it's certainly going over. One of the season's most effective hats is composed entirely of petaled flowers of bright colored velvet lavishly sewed with twinklers of rhinestones, beads, sequins, and bangles. The tiny hat itself, literally snowed under by all this shiny stuff, is made of velvet.

Another trick is one of making birds or simulated feathered wings out of such trifling material as tulle or net, so cleverly fashioned as to look like wings and feathers in outline . . . then embroidered with flashing sequins. Evening headdress confections like these are lilting accents for dress costumes—long or of high fashion short lengths.

Other clever ideas in headdress are the very festive crocheted models. Yarn or bands of satin or silk are crocheted and then spangled with glittering sequins or colored tiny shells, making a handsome oriental headdress to be worn in any number of different slants and positions on the head. The very opposite of these evening headdresses are the smart wool and knitted head coverings, suave and sophisticated, and ready to be tied front or back, on top of the coiffure or under the chin. No enterprising amateur can make these deceptively simple headpieces; only a genius could so devise and cut and fit them as to assure that sophistication such a simple arrangement must assure if it is to be a success.

Prayers to Be Said Here Tomorrow for Children of Poland

Prayers for Poland's children will be offered tomorrow in the Polish churches of the archdiocese on the occasion of the fourth annual Polish Children's day, the Polish consulate general announced yesterday. One purpose of Polish Children's day is to call world attention to the plight of the boys and girls who have endured four years of German occupation of their homeland. They have been denied adequate food and proper schooling and have been put to hard labor under frightful conditions, according to information collected by Polish government agencies and released yesterday by the Polish Telegraph agency. Many Polish children, the report says, have been executed on trumped up charges.

Thru the Looking Glass

Face powder is probably the very first cosmetic a woman uses . . . she starts dipping into her mother's box when she's in her early teens. And when she's a dowager, the touch of powder is still dear to her sense of fastidiousness. It's strange, then, that this beauty aid which we all use regularly, automatically, is one about which a great many of us don't know enough.

The powdered look is fatally unattractive. There is one way to avoid it. Pick your shade with care, and err on the side of a tint that is too dark rather than too light—if err you must. One test for powder is to spread a little bit on the inside of your arm above the wrist. If the few grains blend right in with the skin tone so that your eye can't even find them, the shade is right. And remember, too, that the skin tint of most of us is not as fair as we might like to think it.

Then there is the method of powdering. It's wrong to rub powder into the skin. Press your powder on, using a clean puff, and press it on generously, across the forehead, the nose, cheeks and chin. Press it onto the skin of the neck, too, so that there is no sharp difference between the finish of face and neck.

Then, when you've powdered thus, generously, brush off the surplus, with a powder brush or a piece of cotton or tissue. Brush your brows, and fluff off any pools of powder that may lie in the nose or mouth corners. This done, you're powdered smoothly, correctly—and most flatteringly.

Powder is a familiar friend, but don't let familiarity with it make you careless in your choice or use of it. The way you powder and the shade you use can be what determines whether your face always looks fresh or frowzy.

Infants' Accessories

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Infants require a variety of accessories, the most serviceable being crocheted bootees, shoes, and caps. This group is one of the easiest possible to create and requires little time. The bonnet is done in a simple stitch, then finished with a narrow scalloped edge. The shoes and bootees are done in a single crochet at small cost.

For instructions in crocheting the infants' accessories, No. X191, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Edward G. Robinson.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 24.—Edward G. Robinson plays a professor of psychology in "Once Off Guard," Nunnally Johnson's first for International Pictures. Fritz Lang, who'll direct, is having himself a time with the J. Edgar Hoover gang and the homicide squad in New York. They'd like to borrow little Ida Lupino for the top female. Erich Remarque's new book is laid in Paris two years before the war. When he gets that out of the way, he'll write a play for Gloria Swanson. . . . Dorothy McGuire [Mrs. John Swope] returns to the screen to do Gwen in "So Little Time." . . . With added scenes for "Cry Havoc" out of the way, Margaret Sullavan and Leland Hayward are off to New York. . . . Veronica Lake's postponed her eastern trek. Goes to Seattle, Wash., instead for first action of her divorce from Maj. John Detlie, which was postponed on account of the death of her baby. She'll try to get her car away from him and expects quite a struggle. It's in his name.

Paging Maude Adams.

Joan Fontaine has David Selznick's permission to do a play on Broadway. She wants to tackle only the most difficult—"Peter Pan." You must admit, that takes courage. . . . Lucky Ray Milland appears opposite Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady In the Dark" on her first air show Sept. 30. . . . Pvt. Bill Morrow plans a welding to Starlet Iris Bynum soon. . . . Kay Aldridge tells me she and Johnny McClain definitely will marry on his next leave. . . . Our boys in Africa asked Frances Langford who was the hit of Broadway when she left. They thought she was kidding when she said Frank Sinatra. They'd never heard of him. . . . Little Margaret O'Brien, Elsa Maxwell's favorite actress, received a medal of honor from Hon. Don Henshaw, of Ottawa, for helping the Canadian war bond drive. She made a short with Robert Young.

Nothing Like Success.

Sonny Tufts, Paramount's new baby, set himself a new high for hell raisin' on his New York visit. He thought it amusing to sign names of Paramount's executives to some of his better bills, and they're plenty happy that he's now safely home. But he was so good in "So Proudly We Hail," he got away with it. . . . Ona Munson back east huddling with Theresa Helburn, of the Theater Guild. . . . Lt. Al Wright received his second decoration for heroism in the Pacific. He's married to Rita Hunt, the luscious gal who poses for the official WAVE posters. That's doing a job for the navy. . . . James McKinley Bryan, before joining the army, made a screen test for Twentieth Century which the studio thought sensational. . . . Dorothy Gish swears Diana Lynn is so much like she was at that age that Buddy De Sylva stopped to listen on "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." He's taken off their shelf "Peppy Polly" which Dorothy made in 1919. If it can be brought up to date, the Lynn girl will star in it.

Well, Wouldn't You?

Joan Davis so excited about getting top Crossley rating that she went around the house screaming, "I'm No. 1—I'm No. 1!" Became so hoarse she couldn't go to rehearsal. . . . Leon Henderson, since he doesn't have to worry about politics, is streamlined. So is his air material. He's boasting that he hasn't run into a snag yet. Don't worry, Leon, you will. . . . Among our Atlantic travelers are Niles Trammel and John Royal. . . . Ann Sothern and sister Bonnie got their heads together to write a song. They've got the title—"I Want V-mail From My Female." Ann, with Mary Livingstone, Doris Leroy and the Myrt Blums, off to New York to greet Jack Benny.

Style Setters.

Irene, of Metro, has introduced a new shade of blue in "Two Sisters and a Sailor" called Allyson Blue, in honor of June, one of the sisters. It's a cross between delphinium and periwinkle, and looks like that first bluebird of spring in technicolor. . . . Travis Banton's canteen dresses, which he designed for Bette Davis, Helen Hayes, Claudette Colbert, Pat Morison, Beulah Bondi, Billie Burke, and Rosemary Lane, can be had in shops thruout the country at popular prices. . . . Edith Head spent three days in the Kaiser shipyards looking at workers' clothes. And was quite impressed by their champion welder, Cora Clonts. She's cute, young, and when asked if she'd like a screen career, said, "Huh-uh. Welding's too exciting."

Romberg Gives His Audience a Tuneful Night

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

It shouldn't be news to any one that Sigmund Romberg loves a melody and that he has a persuasive way of getting an audience to share his delight in a lush tune pouring richly from full throated strings. Last night he packed Orchestra hall in the first of three concerts [the others are this afternoon and tonight], which found him a benign Humpty Dumpty of a conductor who beat time with his hands as he indicated the rhythm with his hips. He stood at the far right of the stage, facing an orchestra of about 45 pieces, and presenting to the audience a friendly profile instead of the usual formidable back. He and all four of his soloists formed a kind of parade across the stage all evening, their coming solemnly heralded by a small page who hung up signs indicating what in a musical way was about to happen.

It was a long concert, and for the most part a good one. When Mr. Romberg stuck to his musical last he gave the audience exactly what it came to hear—a festival of waltzes and those operetta tunes so drenched in melody no one seems able to forget them. Except for an agreeable intermezzo from his new operetta, "Faithfully Yours," and a visit with the lovely score of "The Student Prince," he saved all his own music until the end of the concert. In the first part he lavished his best attention on Lehar melodies, on Sousa's crackling "U. S. Field Artillery March," and on the sultry charm of Lecuona's music, culminating in "Siboney."

Altho Martha Errolle had not stepped onto the stage when my watch warned me to leave, I feel safe in classing her with Eric Mattson as the most effective of the soloists. For one thing, I saw her hurry in the stage door, clutching a tulle dress in hand and, for another, I have heard her sing many a Romberg operetta. She is a handsome girl with a voice worth the name that came from her father, the tenor, Ralph Errolle. Mr. Mattson is himself a good tenor, a tall one with a lyric voice that has quality and range. They are a good team for the tunes from "Blossom Time" to "Maytime."

When the concert went astray it was because Mr. Romberg was seduced by music he was not equipped to handle. It was a mistake, for instance, to let Mary Becker tackle even a part of the Tschaikowsky Violin Concerto, or to attempt a Gershwin interlude without the brilliance of brass and tautness of temperament to make it glitter. Nor was Esther Borja's singing of Latin songs in the class with the music that accompanied her.

But these were minor flaws in a warm hearted evening of music that had an unprecedented prelude at Orchestra hall. Just before curtain time a navy chaplain married a seaman and his girl in the manager's office. Every one was too hurried and excited to get any names so they remain unidentified. And they missed a good wedding march. Mr. Romberg was pretty disappointed not to have been there in time to officiate.

300 U. of C. Students Enjoy Square Dancing

Three hundred students of the University of Chicago donned their blue jeans, flannel shirts and gingham gowns last night to attend a barn dance in the International house theater on the Midway campus. The dance was sponsored by the Chapel union as part of the freshman orientation program. The students danced a program of square dances and waltzes and sipped soft drinks thru a straw. The square dances were called by Joe Minsky, 5228 Woodlawn avenue.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	2 clubs	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the heart king and declarer won. Declarer's first [and only] thought was that if the diamonds broke 2-2 he could cash two rounds, then cash the club jack, then lead a low diamond to dummy, after which he would rattle off the club suit and finally use dummy's remaining diamond as the means of entry to his own hand, for the cashing of a fifth diamond. This was a pretty picture, but it did not materialize. East showed out on the second lead of diamonds. Thoroly disgusted, declarer cashed his remaining diamonds, then overtook the club jack. If the club suit had broken 3-3 [an unlikely event] three overtricks still would have been brought in, but East's club stopper held the declarer to his contract. Later, South was highly disgruntled to find that he was almost "bottom" on the board.

The kindest thing to say about declarer's play is that he was the victim of an optical illusion. After the diamond suit was found to break 3-1, declarer should have abandoned his fond hope of bringing home all the clubs and all the diamonds. He should have drawn West's last diamond in order to establish dummy's diamond eight as an entry, then cashed the club jack, and finally led a low diamond to the eight. Now the club suit would have an excellent, instead of a bad, chance to produce six tricks! True, declarer would be left with an uncashed good diamond in his hand, but he would have picked up three club tricks by this sacrifice. At no time would the suggested plan jeopardize the contract, since a 5-1 club break—certainly not to be expected—would still permit declarer to win one heart, four clubs, and four diamonds.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 24.—Among the element that gets its sporting thrills from intercollegiate football there can be no doubt that the players from Notre Dame are first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of their countrymen.

The stadium in which the Fighting Irish will inaugurate their season against Pittsburgh tomorrow seats 60,000. There will be more than that number banked around the gridiron at the kickoff, according to Jimmy Hagan, the Panthers' athletic director who tonight was planning to sell standing room tickets. Tomorrow's turnout will exceed the total figure for home games here a year ago.

Gas restrictions limit attendance to fans from the immediate territory. Baseball isn't yet out of the way. Headlines in Pittsburgh papers tonight were not about football. Nevertheless, a crowd that would have been considered extraordinary for an opening game in peace time waits the clash of two old rivals.

Last Contest in 1937.

Notre Dame and Pittsburgh have met intermittently on the gridiron since 1909. The Irish have won five times, the Panthers five, and there has been one tie. Their last contest was in 1937. None remains of the personnel involved on that occasion. Jock Sutherland, who then coached the Pitt eleven, is now a lieutenant commander in the navy and the Panthers are operating under a brand new leader, Clark Shaughnessy, who after escaping from Chicago established himself as one of the nation's front flight coaches at Stanford and more recently at Maryland. Elmer Layden, who commanded the Notre Dame forces the last time they faced Pitt, has been succeeded by Frank Leahy, whose teams have been beaten only twice in their 20 starts in his regime at South Bend.

The civilian members of the Notre Dame squad arrived this morning under the supervision of Coaches Ed McKeever and Jake Kline. The rest of the group, which includes the entire starting lineup, will come in tomorrow with Leahy.

Lujack a Pennsylvanian.

Notre Dame always has been a big attraction in Pittsburgh, but there is added interest in tomorrow's game because of the presence of John Lujack in the Irish back field. Lujack was a high school phenom at near-by Connellsville, Pa. He will play his first varsity game for Notre Dame tomorrow. Leahy has been using him both at quarter back and left half back, but it is likely he will be used at the latter position at the kickoff tomorrow. Angelo Bertelli, forward pass marksman, is scheduled to start at quarter back, but Leahy is anxious to give Lujack experience at that spot because Bertelli probably will be transferred to the marine base at Parris Island in midseason. Every man listed as a starter for Notre Dame is in a navy or marine unit.

In addition to Lujack there will be two first year men in the South Benders' opening battle front, Julius Rykovich at right half back and Joe Signiago at right guard. Rykovich spent his freshman year at Illinois after a brilliant prep career in Gary and was assigned to the Navy V-12 school at Notre Dame several weeks

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Iowa football team opens its season this afternoon against the Bluejackets on Ross field at the naval training station. Twenty-two thousand navy recruits will see the game, the third successive home contest for the navy squad. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

Iowa's squad is composed almost entirely of inexperienced players, many of whom are freshmen. The group, coached by Edward [Slip] Madigan, who has replaced Maj. Edward Anderson, may be compared with Illinois, for instance, in that there is no nucleus of transfer students in navy units. This apparent weakness does not detract, however, from the interest in the game for, while the Hawkeyes cannot expect to meet the more experienced Bluejackets on even terms, it is occasion for appraisal of Iowa hopes against conference teams.

Sailors Shaping Up.

Great Lakes gradually is rounding into a formidable football team. Defensive weaknesses against a forward pass attack have largely accounted for the six touchdowns scored by Fort Riley and Purdue in the previous games. Several of these scoring opportunities were the result of shoddy ball handling by the sailor backfield.

Great Lakes has been seeking to bolster the center of its line and several players have been used at the positions from tackle to tackle. Graham Martin of Indiana university is the latest lineman to get a chance at a starting assignment. He will be the navy's right tackle this afternoon. The left half back spot is another which has caused Lt. Paul Hinkle and his assistants considerable worry.

Iowa to Start 5 Frosh.

Ray Jones of Texas, Ray Polczynski of Marquette, and Art Murakowski, former East Chicago, Ind., high school back, probably will be used at left half. There also is a possibility that Steve Lach, former Duke university and Chicago Cardinal star, will make his debut for the Bluejackets.

Iowa will start a team which includes five freshmen. Only two players received varsity letters last year. They are the co-captains, Bill Barbour, right end, and Bob Liddy, right guard. John Stewart, a sophomore from St. Petersburg, Fla., and three freshmen form the Hawkeye back field. The first year players are Bill Sangster, quarter back; Paul Glasener, left half, and Bill Gallagher, full back.

NEW WAKE BOOK

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 24.—Joe Norris, captain and sparkplug of the Detroit Strohs, national match game bowling champions, probably will be forced to sit out the impending winter season. . . . Joe suffered a fracture of the left elbow in July and it failed to heal properly. . . . He has entered St. Mary's hospital, where the arm will be rebroken and reset. . . . Roy Dickerson, new president of New Orleans' Fairgrounds, is taking stall applications for the meeting which opens Thanksgiving Day. . . . He predicts a banner year for the track. . . . Coach Ed Krause of the Notre Dame basketball team is toying with the idea of two quintets, one made up of civilians and the other of naval trainees. . . . The Irish have a Saturday night date in Buffalo and a Monday assignment in New York City. The cadets, who are allowed only 48 consecutive hours away from base, obviously cannot appear in both contests. . . . P. T. Green, his wife, son, and daughter make up a southpaw foursome at the Westmoreland Country club. . . . As a base runner, Moose Solters of the White Sox leaves much to be desired, but he had a flock of bystanders cheering his dash for a south side trolley the other day. . . . He left a trail of loose change which dropped thru a hole in his pocket. . . . The ensuing scramble was terrific.

Coach Steve Owen of the New York football Giants has a favorite story to support his stand against gambling. . . . When Steve was playing for Phillips university [Enid, Okla.], the members of the team made up a pool of $450 to wager on a game with a weak opponent. . . . A scholarly member of the Phillips faculty was asked to place the dough and the team took the field intent on a prosperous afternoon. . . . At the half, Phillips had scored seven touchdowns but was trailing by 7 to 0. . . . It seemed that on every scoring play it had broken a rule or two and was severely penalized. . . . Rising in their wrath, Steve and his teammates turned the second half into a free-for-all, with every man in the lineup picking out a foe to flatten. . . . The fans joined in and the visitors were forced to run for their lives. . . . When their bus was safely out of town, Steve asked the prof where he had placed the $450 bet. . . . "It's a funny thing," was the reply, "but the man who covered it turned out to be the referee of today's game." . . . The Packers and Bears, who will meet in their 49th game Sunday in Green Bay, have been constant rivals since 1921, except for one year. . . . They did not collide in 1922. . . . The Bears have won 25, lost 19, and tied 4 in the series. . . . The Bears are ahead in total points, too, 590 to 471. . . . Teams in the National Football league in 1921 were the Bears, then known as the Staleys, Buffalo, Akron, Green Bay, Canton, Dayton, Rock Island, Chicago Cards, Cleveland, Rochester, Detroit, Columbus, and Cincinnati. . . . Only the two Chicago teams and the Packers have been active each year since then.

Unsung Heroes.

We heap applause upon the men in blue
Who risk their lives to guard our ocean lanes;
We praise our brave marines and soldiers, too,
And eulogize the men who fly our planes.
But who make possible, if I may ask,
The deeds of bravery we loudly cheer?
Who are the men on whose important task
Depends the future of our hemisphere?
They are the men whose courage will not yield
To bitter cold or sun that burns like fire
As they construct a road or landing field
From shell-pocked earth or slimy muck and mire.
And so may I propose that you and I
Give out the lustiest of lusty cheers
For those on whom our fighting men rely—
The Seabees and the army engineers!

So now we wear the bottled kind

Columbus, O., Sept. 24. — Ohio State's Buckeyes tomorrow afternoon will inaugurate their 1943 campaign before an anticipated assemblage of 20,000 in Ohio stadium against the Seahawks of the Iowa Pre-flight Naval Training school.

Beaten only twice in the first two years' tenure of slim Paul Brown, the local lads have been projected in several quarters into the roles of victims for a Seahawk squad which is glutted with several former collegiate and professional lights and which has had an advantage of one game, that a 32 to 18 decision over Illinois last Saturday.

Citizens Have Other Ideas.

The football wise citizens of this state capital, however, are more than somewhat adamant against the casting of their lads as sheep. They grant that none down here has seen this year's Scarlet and Gray ensemble under fire, but there's a suspicion along High street tonight the Buckeyes will prove annoying to their more experienced naval rivals come sundown tomorrow. There are, of course, no delusions these newcomers can bring off such a 41 to 12 triumph over the Seahawks as that with which they concluded last year's chore, a job that included nine victories and one defeat by Wisconsin.

Buckeyes Count on Willis.

Against a Seahawk team that boasts such proved players as Frank Maznicki, late of the Chicago Bears; Dick Todd, a veteran of the Washington Redskins, and Bus Mertes, the Chicago lad who shone for the University of Iowa before going into the Pre-Flight school, Ohio State can submit only one member of last year's championship group—Bill Willis, local East High Negro boy, who was one of the game's outstanding tackles in 1942.

As an example of the complexion of this year's Buckeye team Coach Paul Brown will send out a 162 pound youth named Glenn Oliver, who, altho he never played on a winning team in his prep career at University High here, is touted as one of the fastest full backs ever to come to Ohio State.

RED BIRDS DROP BREWERS FROM PLAY-OFFS, 7-0

Columbus, O., Sept. 24 (AP).—The Columbus Red Birds tonight shut out Milwaukee, 7 to 0, to enter the finals of the American association playoff. The victory gave them a 3 to 1 margin and eliminated the Brewers from the semi-finals.

Toledo, O., Sept. 24 (AP).—A line single to center in the last of the ninth inning by Outfielder Tony Criscola provided the Toledo Mudhens with an 8 to 7 triumph over the Indianapolis Indians to square the semi-final American association Shaughnessy playoff series at two games each.

MARQUETTE TO GET TEST FROM PURDUE TONIGHT

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—Milwaukee fans—and there will be some 20,000 of them on hand tomorrow night in the Hilltop stadium—are gleefully anticipating the football feast that Marquette university and the industrialists of the city will set before them in the shape of one of the nation's outstanding games.

The piece de resistance will be the clash of two of the country's higher powered navy-loaded elevens, Marquette and the Boilermakers of Purdue university, and, while the Hilltop squad is rated a bit below the Indianans in reserve strength, there's little if any difference in the ability of the lineups that will start.

Purdue Liked by "Foreigners."

Purdue, however, is the favorite, tho that's a matter of opinion—and Milwaukee fandom has a mind of its own which doesn't quite agree with what might be termed foreign prejudice. Hilltop followers realize that the Boilermakers did a neat job in disposing of the formidable Great Lakes Bluejackets last Saturday by a 23 to 12 score, but there's no mistaking their pride in the 33 to 7 victory Coach Tom Stidham's squad turned in at the same time over the Wisconsin Badgers.

The Marquette line is tough, too, with Bill Combs, former Purdue and Philadelphia Eagle star and Chuck Benkendorf, an Army reservist, at the ends among the starters.

Formidable Purdue Team.

More formidable so far as reputations are concerned, however, is the team that Head Coach Elmer Burnham will use to open the battle. For instance, the Boilermaker back field includes Tony Butkovich, powerful 1942 Illini star, at full back; Stan Dubicki from Shurtleff college of Alton, Ill.

Those names mean a lot in midwestern football, but get a load of this—Purdue has in its line Frank Bauman and Joe Buscemi, Illinois frosh stars in 1942, at the ends; Alex Agase, Illini standout last season, and Dick Barwegen, Purdue veteran, guards; John Genis and Mike Kasap, Illini regulars in 1942, tackles; and Lou DeFilippo, the Fordham powerhouse, at center.

Tomorrow night's game will be the Hilltoppers' first meeting with Purdue in the long history of the schools.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 24.—A hefty Camp Grant team, recruited from a roster of college and professional athletes, will engage a comparatively light and inexperienced squad of Wisconsin football players tomorrow in the 15th avenue stadium.

Camp Grant will outweigh the visiting eleven an average of 21 pounds to the man. The Badgers, however, are expected to throw themselves into the enterprise with so much spirit that they'll make an interesting battle of it.

Bachman Foresees Improvement.

For a number of reasons, the Camp Grant players have fully recovered from any damage their morale might have suffered in last Saturday's 26 to 0 defeat by Michigan. In the first place, this is the first game for which Coach Charles Bachman has had any appreciable time to prepare. He took command only four days before the Michigan engagement, facing that terrific aggregation with players who were unfamiliar to him.

"If we played Michigan six weeks from now instead of last Saturday we could make a real game of it," Bachman remarked yesterday. "I don't say we could beat them, but we could make it mighty close. As we get used to working together, we're going to improve tremendously every Saturday from now until the end of the season."

Warrior Line Looks Tough.

Another circumstance which makes the Camp Grant outlook better this week is the fact Roman Betz has joined the team directly from a warmup of six early season games as a member of the Washington Redskins. Right away this 6 foot 1 inch 230 pounder clinched the left tackle starting assignment.

The Camp Grant forward wall is expected to be a difficult barrier for the Wisconsin lads to attempt to crack. The army team's line will average 216 pounds, topped by gigantic Joe Coomer, 6 feet 5 inches tall and 280 pounds in weight. The Badgers' line will average only 191 pounds.

BADGERS TAKE 37.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24 [Special].—Coach Harry Stuhldreher and 37 Badgers will leave here early Saturday morning for their game with the Camp Grant Warriors at Rockford.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Northwestern's Wildcats, reported to be a more vicious species than the pack that succumbed to victory starvation last fall, will swing into the Big Nine's 1943 football parade tonight at Dyche stadium. Escorted by Indiana's delegation, which will be fitted in white pants and black shirts, the Wildcats will be revealed as wearers of all-white clothes when the lamps are turned on at 8 o'clock.

With Indiana a war baby team—eight of the tentative starters are freshies—and the Wildcats figuratively dripping with collegiate experience, the expectation is that the latter, if so inclined, might catch up on some of the touchdowns that got away last season. However, the Wildcats profess to regret they haven't had more time for shining up their pet tricks.

Nine Letter Men to Start.

After due consideration, or whatever it is a football coach does when he's arguing with himself about a lineup, Lynn Waldorf of the Wildcats reached a conclusion last evening that he might as well get underway with the same lineup he had in mind a week ago. That means six monogrammed Wildcats in the line, plus Herb Hein, ex-Gopher end on lease from the navy. Three of the starting backs are letter men, the exception being Vic Schwall, the plebe full back from Schurz High.

The Wildcat starters may not be treated to much more than a limited rehearsal unless the Hoosiers kick up a whale of a fuss. Waldorf has that secondary pack of Wildcats to unleash, the anxiety about their value under fire being easily understood. A week hence, the Wildcats play a team called Michigan and that affair, to Waldorf's way of doping, may require a lot of man power.

Otto Graham Ready.

Of course, Otto Graham is going to be in there at the start unless the boss has a change of heart, and Otto presumably isn't ragged for the lack of practice. He was pretty slick in the All-Star battle with the professionals and that was a month ago. Otto will try to entertain the Hoosier freshmen with bits of his pitching and running. The Waukegan hustler pitched himself to a conference forward pass record last season so might attempt a flying start toward improvement on his own mark.

The Indiana line that faces whatever wildness the Wildcats may develop, is anchored around two 1942 letter men—Pete Pihos at end and Capt. John Tavener at center. Pihos rated among the better Big Nine wingmen last season. The only other starter not in the freshman class is Guard J. C. Coffee, a survivor of last season's reserve squad.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—The New York Yankees' clinching of the American league pennant was delayed at least another day as Paul Trout pitched and batted the Detroit Tigers to a 2 to 1 triumph today. Pafko Bats In 4 Runs as Cubs Beat Phils, 7-4

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Andy Pafko, 1943 batting champion of the Pacific Coast league, yesterday made a spectacular, albeit very damp, Cub debut in Chicago's 7 to 4, 4 5-6 inning victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. The Boyceville, Wis., rookie drove in two runs in the first inning to cut a 4 to 0 Philly lead, and in the fifth and final inning he drove home two more runs to break a 4 to 4 tie.

Andy Scores, Too.

Andy's production in the first was a single, following a single by Stan Hack and a double by Bill Nicholson. In the final inning he doubled to send home Eddie Stanky and Phil Cavarretta, who had walked. Andy scored himself after the double in the fifth, on a triple by another Angeleno, Johnny Ostrowski. The game was halted later in the inning after Bill Schuster had popped out and Billy Holm had walked. Schuster and Holm also are freshly arrived Angels.

The game was started under tough weather conditions which never eased during the one hour and three minutes it took to reel off the legal 4 5-6 innings.

Sox and A's Play 3-3 Tie in 16 Innings

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 24 [Special].—The Athletics and White Sox battled thru 16 bristling innings to a 3 to 3 tie in Shibe Park today before darkness halted the fray and made it necessary to play a double header tomorrow.

The game was one of the finest pitching duels of the season. Little Jesse Flores went all the way for the A's while Bill Dietrich and Gordon Maltzberger divided the burden for the Sox.

While Flores earned major share honors because he went the entire 16 innings, Maltzberger gained a big edge on him in the limelight when he permitted only one hit in the final six innings.

Manager Jimmy Dykes watched the last 11 innings in civilian clothes after being chased for an argument with Umpire Bill McGowan over a decision at third base in the third inning.

ago. Signiago is a 200 pound sophomore from Memphis. He was on the freshman squad last season. Rykovich is the only transfer student who will answer the referee's opening whistle.

Four Frosh to Start for Pitt.

Pittsburgh will start four freshmen and two sophomores. Shaughnessy plans to use three 1942 letter men, Francis Mattioli, left guard, who has been named team captain for the Notre Dame game; Marty Rosepink, who has been shifted from end to tackle, and Lou Chelko, 126 pound senior right half back. The rest of the lineup is composed of 17 year olds and 4-F's.

Both teams use the T formation with a man in motion. Shaughnessy, who was toying with the new style offense at Chicago, established it as an effective collegiate system in Stanford's Rose bowl victory over Nebraska. Leahy, who had used it in modified form at Boston college, adopted it for Notre Dame a year ago.

HUTSON TO PLAY IN TOMORROW'S BEAR CONTEST

25,000 to See Packers Open Home Season.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 24.—The biggest news in Green Bay today was that Don Hutson will play with the Packers Sunday when they launch a campaign to wrest the western professional superiority from the Bears.

"It looks like our biggest football crowd of all time—25,000," said Curly today between presiding at a strategy meeting with his players. "And Hutson definitely will play."

There had been some doubt concerning Hutson's participation because of the death of his father yesterday in Pine Bluff, Ark. Don's mother told him over long distance telephone that his father expressed the wish that his son would play. Hutson learned yesterday of the reported death of his brother in recent action in the Pacific war theater. This news is believed responsible for the death of the elder Hutson.

Duck Hunters in Action at Dawn Today

BY BOB BECKER.

Duck hunters in all the northern states were out long before daylight this morning to enjoy their first shoot of the 1943 season, for the waterfowl hunting laws permit the taking of ducks and geese in the northern zone only starting at 30 minutes before sunrise. Altho a large majority of hunters do not have many shotgun shells advance reservations for accommodations near the marshes indicated that Wisconsin hunters were able to scrape together enough 12, 16, and 20 gauge ammunition to give the ducks a pretty good bombardment.

Not only Wisconsin but also Michigan, Minnesota, and South Dakota sportsmen were after ducks today. Many Illinois hunters left Thursday for South Dakota where they could get a duck hunt early this morning and then at noon open the pheasant season. The duck season continues for 70 days in the northern tier of states, which is 10 more days of hunting than was allowed last year. Illinois also will get 70 days of waterfowl hunting starting Oct. 15. The bag limit is 10 per day or 20 in possession.

In every state where hunting started this morning the hunter's lot was an unhappy one. He is faced with two big worries—ammunition and gas rationing.

MICHIGAN PLAYS BREATHER WITH BRONCOS TODAY

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 24 [Special].—The home folks get their first look at Michigan's highly rated 1943 football team tomorrow when the Wolverines meet Western Michigan's assortment of navy and marine stars in the stadium, and it is expected that in the neighborhood of 20,000 of them will be on hand.

What chance Coach John Gill's Western squad is given against the Wolverines is based on the passing of Quarter Back Dick Bowman and the running of Half Back Bob Mellen, Bronco captain.

LAYDEN CONFERS WITH SPENCER ON MAN POWER

Elmer Layden, president of the National Football league, and Dean William H. Spencer of the University of Chicago, who is regional war man power commission director, yesterday discussed alleged irregularities in the assembling of the Chicago Bears' team. Mr. Spencer had been asked to investigate the circumstances by which some members of the Bears left war jobs to play football this season. At the conclusion of the meeting, Layden issued the following statement:

"Dean Spencer authorized me to say we discussed at a private luncheon today the forthcoming job transfer rules of the war man power commission as they pertain to workers, who have as their regular occupation, sports participation during the football season. We agreed to meet again as soon as information requested of the Chicago Bears' management has been gathered and made available to him for study."

The championship of the Hawthorne 2 year olds will be decided this afternoon in the $5,000 Juvenile handicap. Sirius, Durazna, Zacapet, Harriet Sue, and other speedy performers are included in the list of 18 overnight entries for this six furlong dash.

Charles Krutckoff, president of Hawthorne, and Charles Bidwill, chairman of the board of directors, have announced all proceeds of the day will be turned over to local charities and war relief organizations.

Durazna and Sirius both have delivered brilliant performances during the Hawthorne meeting to show they're in very sharp form at present. Durazna beat Harriet Sue by four lengths and Sirius scored by eight lengths over Zacapet in recent allowance events.

Subsequently, Harriet Sue came back to win in the fastest six furlongs run by any juvenile on Chicago tracks this season — 1:11 3-5. This doesn't mean quite as much as it might, however, for both the Arlington and Washington Park Futurities were decided over soft tracks.

HANDICAPS TO AID BEGINNERS IN BIKE RACE

Any of the 60 riders who will take part tomorrow afternoon in the 17th annual Elgin to Chicago bicycle road race sponsored by the George F. Barrett Athletic club has a chance to win. As it is a handicap race, every entrant has been given time allowances according to his past performances. Thus the beginners will leave the starting line at North State street and Highland avenue in Elgin 22 minutes before the 10 national, state, and sectional champions do. Other groups have been allowed 6, 10, and 16 minutes on the stars.

CONGRESS GETS UNIFORM RAIL RATE REQUEST

Fight 'Political' Rates

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Representatives of commercial organizations in 13 eastern, midwestern, and New England states met here today to organize a national freight rate conference with representation thruout the country to combat "political rate making." Among those named to an organization committee were A. H. Schwietert, traffic director, Chicago Association of Commerce, and Clarence A. Jackson, executive vice president, Indiana State Chamber of Commerce.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Congressional action to put the markets of the south and west on a freight rate basis equal with the rest of the country was recommended today by a board of investigation and research created by the 1940 transportation act.

The board concluded its analysis of freight rate differences which for years have been criticized in the south and west with this opinion:

"The differences are not justified by costs or other transportation conditions. Equality of rate levels, particularly the rates on manufactured articles, would create conditions more favorable than have existed in the past for the development of particular industries in the south and west, because present rate disadvantages would be removed."

Wide Differences Found.

Average first class rate levels in the south are 39 per cent higher than in the east, the report said, and in the west are 28 to 34 per cent higher.

"It should be recognized that high rates within the south and west on manufactured articles, coupled with high interterritorial rates, altho tending to discourage manufacture in the south and west for official [eastern] territory markets would naturally encourage the development of local industries in the south and west for local markets," the report said.

"Taking out rate level differences would permit manufactured products from the south and west to move more freely into eastern territory markets," it said. "Unless rates were equalized on the highest regional levels it would also permit products of eastern manufacture to move more easily into southern and western markets.

"The net result would be the creation of a situation in which each part of the country could develop the particular lines of manufacturing for which its resources were best fitted."

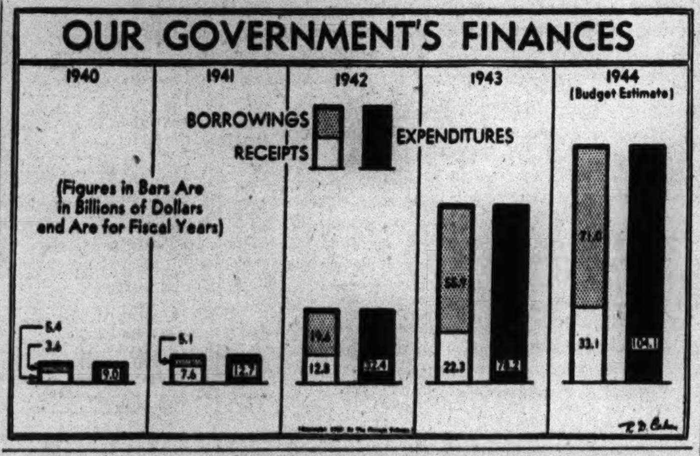
Complaint Termed Valid.

"When transportation conditions do not justify differences in rate level," the report added, "producers in the higher rated areas who are trying to compete with those in lower rated areas have a valid complaint against the rate structure.

"They are entitled to relief even if there are other factors affecting their costs of production which are more favorable than those of their competitors in the lower rated territory since rates should not be made to offset natural advantages of location."

The board suggested it would be simpler for the interstate commerce commission to revise the entire rate structure if it had a mandate from congress "to bring about uniformity to the extent it is practicable."

One of the three board members—Nelson Lee Smith of New Hampshire—did not concur with the others, Robert E. Webb of Kentucky and C. E. Childe of Nebraska, in the recommendation for congressional action.



Only Free U.S. Can Lead, Says Trade Official

BY AL CHASE.

America will play a major role in the world post-war development only if it is industrially and economically free, Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, cautioned members of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America yesterday in the Drake hotel. Speaking at the association's 30th annual business meeting, he told the bankers that America faced the danger of becoming totalitarian and declared that too much power should never be put in the hands of government.

Herold G. Woodruff.

"Whether we like it or not, we will play a leading part in post-war world development," Johnston said. "But we can't do so if we become weakened and flabby at home. I am suspicious of people who have great plans for post-war development abroad while neglecting plans at home. It is like the social worker who is out helping others while neglecting her own home.

Dictator Possible, He Says.

"We should tell the whole world that we will not preside at the liquidation of the American way of life. There is some danger of America becoming totalitarian. Of course, it would come under a form other than we understand it now. Unless that danger is averted, the peace of the world is endangered. Too much power should never be placed in the hands of government and especially of our own government. America must be kept economically free."

Johnston asserted that politically the United States and Great Britain should join in attempts to "establish stability" in the governments of the world, while economically they should work together in building up the "backward countries."

Predicts New Markets.

"Thru the industrialization of these nations, purchasing power will be increased and markets developed," he said. "Better and better customers all over the world—that is the objective of the coöperation I should like to see between the United States and Great Britain.

"We have more capital than they. But they have investments thruout the world in need of new capital. Why not pool our assets and marry American capital to British investments? In this intermingling should be included an intermingling of whatever capital may volunteer itself in the regions of new investments."

Budd Reports on Committee.

Charles T. Stewart, Washington, D. C., director of the Urban Land institute, said that drastic devaluation of land in blighted areas is the only hope to rebuild American cities along modern lines and in accordance with new neighborhood development corporation laws already enacted by eight states.

Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad and chairman of the 7th federal reserve district of the committee for economic development, told what the committee was doing to safeguard the country's post-war economy.

'E' NOT FOR 'CROOKS,' ELECTRIC FIRM SAYS; TURNS DOWN PENNANT

Cleveland, O., Sept. 24 (AP).—James F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company, disclosed today he had turned down an army-navy "E" award offered to his firm for outstanding war production. The head of the Cleveland plant, which produces welding equipment, said the award was offered in June, 1942, a few days after he had appeared before the house naval affairs committee which was investigating the bonus system at Lincoln Electric.

"I thought it was better to turn down the award because the committee had called me all kinds of a crook," he said. "I was dragged to Washington at that time and told that we were very bad people. When I got back a few days later I was told we were good people and they offered us the pennant. I told them to take their pennant and give it to one of the boys who were good all the time."

Expect Peace Use of Wage Incentive Plan

Some of the wage incentive plans put in effect to stimulate production of war goods have proved so successful that they probably will be retained when plants return to normal operations, J. W. Nickerson, director of the war production board's management consultant division, asserted yesterday.

Another two years of experience with the plans will further demonstrate their beneficial effects on war and nonwar production, he told the war problems school of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer House. He did not explain his selection of a two year period.

All Plans Are Scrutinized.

The government is scrutinizing all the plans submitted, Nickerson said, to be sure they are not merely disguised efforts to obtain pay increases for plant employes in violation of federal wage stabilization regulations.

The plans, being filed in increasing numbers by employers seeking full utilization of limited man power and anxious to raise wages and prevent loss of employes to higher paying plants, must be approved by the war labor board. Generally, plans are not approved if they would increase materially the cost of production. Of about 800 incentive programs filed so far, most of them involving a bonus for increased output, 450 have been approved, Nickerson said.

No Overall Formula Devised.

Employers attending the meeting sought to learn the conditions under which the plans could be effected without violation of wage stabilization rules. Nickerson said most plans must be "tailor made" to the individual plant because of the "impossibility" of setting up an overall guiding formula.

He cautioned employers to obtain union approval before starting plans in unionized plants. He said employes in nonunion establishments must be entirely familiar with a proposed plan before government approval is sought.

Nickerson admitted that not all incentive plans had worked well, but asserted that their principle is sound and that they merit the attention of top corporation executives.

PACKERS' GIFTS TO COMMUNITY FUND ARE LARGE

W. A. Patterson, chairman of the Community and War Fund special gifts division, yesterday announced contributions of $145,000 from Swift & Co. and $120,000 from Armour & Co. Both represent large increases over amounts given last year to the Community Fund alone.

George A. Eastwood, president of Armour, and John Holmes, president of Swift & Co., said the contributions were exclusive of employes' donations.

State and City Financing Expected to Rise in Week

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—With the third war loan drive more than two-thirds completed, new state and municipal financing is expected to show a moderate pickup next week. During the drive new offerings have been kept at a minimum, giving the government a free hand in the money market. As compiled by the Daily Bond Buyer, new business next week amounts to $5,741,000, compared with only $853,000 in the current week.

War Cuts Tin Flow, but U.S. Is 'Getting By'

America's tin position, altho serious, is by no means desperate, leading tin authorities said yesterday. Reasons for the fairly favorable situation as compared with other critical war materials include the following:

1. Existence of many substitutes which, altho not as satisfactory as the original, do a good war job.
2. Conservation of tin supplies thru rigid economies and the development of methods for doing "more with less."
3. Fair sized stock piles which are being replenished moderately by shipments from abroad.

Sources Held by Enemy.

As in the case of rubber, America has been forced to depend on foreign sources—principally Malaya, now held by the Japs—for its tin. And as in the case of rubber, it has suffered great inconvenience from that dependence.

For many years American tin consumers have been aware of the dependency on foreign tin and studies have been carried on in research laboratories to develop self-sufficiency. Many substitutes and makeshifts have been found but none to date that completely fills the bill.

Natural tin possesses many advantages which make 100 per cent satisfactory substitutes difficult to find. Among these are: Comparative cheapness, convenience, workability, and a high degree of protection against food contamination. A can containing veal and gravy put up in 1824 was opened in England recently and the food found to be in excellent condition.

Cite Tin Can Example.

As an example of the difficulty in finding completely satisfactory substitutes, can company officials cite the lowly "tin can," which, after all, isn't made of tin, but is steel coated with tin. It is obvious, they say, that food can be packed in glass containers and bottles as safely as in tin cans.

They explain it is much more difficult to preserve food thru heat treatment in glass containers than in cans, however. Breakage, increased weight, greater difficulty in handling, and the requirement of more storage space are among the disadvantages. Tin cans make possible strong and light containers, which may be stored in a minimum of space.

New Sources Found.

In 1939 the United States consumed about 82,000 tons of tin—more than average consumption—and obtained approximately 80 per cent of the supply from British Malaya, about 12 per cent from the Netherlands East Indies, 4 per cent from the Belgian Congo, and 4 per cent from Britain. With some 66 per cent of the world's tin now under enemy control, the United States is getting most of its new tin from Bolivia and the Belgian Congo.

Based on averages for the years 1936, 1937, and 1938, the major uses of tin in the United States are as follows: Tinplate and terneplate [in which lead is used with tin in the coating], 43 per cent; solder, 22 per cent; bearings, 7½ per cent; collapsible tubes and foil, 8 per cent; bronze, 7 per cent, and all others, 12½ per cent.

Indicating the extremely wide use of containers employing tin, the United States in normal times produced more than 11 billion packer type cans annually, 5 billion general cans, and more than 1½ billion collapsible tubes of the type used for tooth paste.

Seek Freedom from Cartel.

The can makers, as the principal consumers of tin, for years have been leaders in research and have worked in coöperation with the steel companies to improve methods or find substitutes. They say they wish to free themselves of dependence on an international cartel for their tin, altho admitting that the recent average price of about 50 cents a pound has not been excessive.

The war has brought the use of many substitutes for tin containers. Beer cans have been abolished in favor of glass bottles. Coffee now comes in glass or paper containers. Plastic and fiber containers are used for paints, oils, and other products. Various metals have been studied for possible use as a tin substitute. Included are silver, nickel, chromium, and aluminum, but all are too expensive for general use or too scarce for war time use.

Two Ways to Save Tin.

Production of cans to be used as food containers has been helped greatly by two methods which conserve tin. One is the electrolytic plating of thin sheet steel with tin, a method that requires only a quarter to a third as much tin as is used in the hot dipping method. The electrolytic method requires only about 1 pound of tin for each 1,000 standard size [No. 2] cans, compared with 4 pounds for the old hot dipping practice.

The other tin saver is the bonderizing of the steel sheets. Under this process the steel is treated chemically to keep it from corroding. Most can companies use lacquer or enamel interior coatings on cans

PART OF STATE SMALL LOANS ACT NULLIFIED

Unfairness to Trust Companies Found.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 24 (AP).—Holding that a part of it discriminates against trust companies, the Illinois Supreme court today invalidated an entire section of the Illinois small loans act.

Section 12 was nullified in an opinion upholding an attack on a part which prohibits a licensee under the act from pledging any note or security given by a borrower except with a bank authorized to do business in the state and under agreement to permit the state director of insurance to examine the bank's records.

Offices of the attorney general and director of insurance withheld comment or interpretation of its significance pending a study of the opinion.

Affirms Cook County Ruling.

The opinion affirmed a Cook county Superior court decree enjoining enforcement of the section against the Metropolitan Trust company of Chicago, which brought the complaint. State Insurance Director Paul Jones appealed to the high court.

"Invalidity of the provision complained of strikes down the entire section," the Supreme court ruled.

Officials of the insurance department said banks furnished the best facilities for keeping records and safeguarding the interests of borrowers, but added that trust companies were "borderline cases."

If notes or securities could be pledged without restriction, they said, the department would have difficulty checking them because private lenders, finance companies, and persons or firms outside the state might not be subject to proper scrutiny.

Permit to Lloyd's Upheld.

The section invalidated also provided against misleading small loan advertising, operating a loan business in conjunction with other businesses except when authorized by the insurance department, conducting a small loan business under a name other than that in the license, and taking of security for a loan, a lien on real estate, or collateral secured by such a lien.

In another opinion, the court upheld the right of Jones to renew a permit to Lloyd's of London to do business in Illinois. It affirmed a Sangamon county Circuit court judgment against a contention by the American Surety company and 16 other insurance companies that Jones assumed judicial powers in granting Lloyd's a certificate. They alleged Lloyd's failed to comply with the state insurance code.

PERMITS REDISCOUNTS.

Invalidation of section 12 of the Illinois small loans act by the state Supreme court yesterday will permit any trust company to rediscount notes of small loans companies, Edward Rothbart, attorney for the Metropolitan Trust company, said last night. He said the provision of the act restricting such transactions to banks licensed in Illinois had been challenged as unconstitutional.

U. S. TO PAY TAX ON SEIZED LAND UNDER NEW BILL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Sen. W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.] today introduced a bill to require federal reimbursement of local governmental units for taxes lost thru acquisition of property for war purposes. Annual compensation would be paid in an amount equal to the local taxes on the property in the year of acquisition.

Included would be all real property taken over by the federal government since Sept. 8, 1939, for military purposes such as camps, cantonments, air fields, coast defense areas and proving grounds. Barbour said in his state alone "many millions of dollars worth of property has been exempt from taxation during the last four years."

Dunlop Building 10,000 Synthetic Tires a Week

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 24 (AP).—Truck and passenger car tires made of buna-S synthetic rubber are being produced at the rate of 10,000 weekly by the Dunlop Tire and Rubber corporation's Tonawanda plant, the company disclosed today. Most of the tires are for civilian use.

American Output Tops Axis Total by 50 Pct., Says Nelson

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson, United States war production board chairman, told the British tonight that American war production this year would be at least one and one half times the combined output of Germany and Japan and next year probably would be twice as great.

Speaking at a dinner given for him by the British government, Nelson said he believed his figures might interest the Germans as well as his audience.

Near 12 Planes an Hour.

He said the United States alone had produced 110,000 military planes since Jan. 1, 1942, "and the production curve is still rising."

"Very soon we will be turning out a completed plane every five minutes around the clock, every day of the month," Nelson said.

Also since Jan. 1, 1942, Nelson said America produced 60,000 tanks and tank chassis, 53,000 scout cars and carriers, and 1,100,000 trucks and trailers.

"More than 21 million deadweight tons of merchant vessels and nearly 3 million displacement tons of naval vessels have come from our shipyards during this time," Nelson added.

2,000 Shots for Each Enemy.

As for artillery and ammunition, he said enough had been manufactured "to let us fire nearly 2,000 shots at every soldier in the axis armies."

Emphasizing that he was speaking only of American production exclusive of the other allied nations, Nelson said:

"Let the German people exercise their imagination on the total of our combined war production. Let them understand how hopeless is the struggle they are waging in a war where mechanical production is the foundation of every military campaign."

Open Hearing on New War Taxes Oct. 4

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Congressional tax machinery was geared today to begin Oct. 4 the hard grind of finding additional billions to finance the war, but some lawmakers were skeptical of the ability of taxpayers to bear an appreciably larger burden.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], after a two hour meeting of the house and ways committee, announced plans to open hearings then on a new general revenue measure.

"It is extremely important that the revenue bill be passed before the end of this year to avoid retroactive taxation," he said. "The hearings will be given over to the problems of raising additional revenue needed to finance the war."

Doubt 12 Billion Is Possible.

The administration has suggested that 12 billion is needed, in addition to the 38 billion now being collected annually.

However, Representatives Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] and Frank Carlson [R., Kas.], both ways and means members, expressed doubt that anything like 12 billion more can be raised without undue hardship.

"I am frank to say that I do not see how we can hope to increase taxes much nore," said Knutson, and Carlson agreed: "I don't think taxes can be much higher."

What paths the search for new revenue may take remained a mystery, officially. Both the treasury and the tax staff employed by congress declined to give any hint. Thus, no observer could speculate with any certainty on how the individual taxpayer will be affected.

Postpone Technical Changes.

Doughton said his tax framing committee would brush aside, in the interest of speed, all consideration of technical and administrative changes in the tax laws, saying, "It will be necessary to postpone these to next year when it is contemplated that full tax revision will be undertaken."

Before public hearings begin, the committee is expected to decide whether to sidetrack consideration of a federal retail sales tax, or open this controversial topic to long debate.

Altho tax law technicalities and administrative considerations will be skipped for the time being, Doughton said careful consideration would be given to the "simplification of making tax returns."

Transportation of civilian and military passengers in sleeping cars broke all records in the first seven months of the year, exceeding the volume of travel in the corresponding period of 1942 by more than 52 per cent, figures compiled by the Pullman company showed yesterday.

The July total was 2 billion 192 million passenger miles, the highest monthly figure in the company's history. The total for the first seven months was 14.5 billion. Company officials expect the 1943 total to exceed 25 billion.

NATION TO FACE SHIP SURPLUS AT END OF WAR

Land Calls Disposal World Problem.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Fifty million deadweight tons of merchant shipping will have been completed by the maritime commission by the end of 1944, Rear Adm. Emory S. Land, chairman of the commission, predicted at a press conference today. Deadweight tonnage is the carrying capacity of a vessel.

Land said the total will be equal to two-thirds of all merchant shipping in the world before the war and greater than the pre-war merchant fleets of the five largest maritime nations, the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Japan, and Norway.

Presents Post-War Problem.

He admitted the surplus shipping after the war would amount to several million tons and that its disposal would be an international post-war problem. He said the surplus ships could be given away, chartered, sold, scrapped, or held in reserve, but parried questions of the nations or individuals to which ships might be given, chartered, or sold.

Since the first Liberty ship slid down the ways two years ago, American yards have produced approximately 1,400 of that type of cargo vessel. Another 440 are scheduled to be completed this year and 820 are planned for 1944.

The Liberty ship, which costs an average of $1,850,000, basically is similar to the small, oceangoing freighter of 50 years ago, powered with steam engines. Shipping men believe the development of the steam turbine and diesel powered craft, making for faster and more efficient operation, will make Liberty ships old fashioned after the war.

Liberty Ships Unprofitable.

Consequently, it is expected, the Liberty ship will not be in demand by other maritime nations after the war and will not be a money-making vessel for American companies operating with larger and higher paid crews than those on ships under other flags.

Land said present and projected building of fast cargo ships, including the Victory ship propelled by steam turbines at speeds from 15 to 18 knots, will give this country an active merchant fleet of 15 or 20 million deadweight tons of fast ships after the war. He said the size of the surplus, including Liberty ships and other vessels not adapted to peace time use, cannot be predicted because of the fortunes of war.

COURT PERMITS SALE OF BONDS OF ROCK ISLAND

Ruling that reorganization of the Rock Island railroad had progressed far enough to permit security holders to dispose of their holdings, Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday dissolved an injunction issued Nov. 22, 1933, forbidding the New York Trust company from selling bonds with a book value of $1,810,000 held as collateral for a $500,000 loan.

Attorneys for the trust company agreed that no claim would be filed against the railroad for a deficiency because the market value of the securities is $496,287. The unpaid interest plus principal of the loan total $769,913.

Chicago Pay Rolls Rise

Industrial pay rolls in Chicago during August were 30.6 per cent larger than a year earlier and thus maintained the rate of gain in the first seven months of this year over the corresponding period of 1942, the business survey department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reported yesterday. Industrial employment for the month was 10 per cent higher than in August last year and the gain for the first eight months was 10.7 per cent.

Most other business indices showed gains for the month and eight months, compared with last year. Department store sales were 3.2 per cent higher for August, and the gain in the first eight months was 12.8 per cent. Building permits in August were 96.4 per cent above those of August last year, totaling $3,397,682 against $1,729,109. Permits fell off 64.3 per cent in the first eight months.

STOCK MARKET ENDS IRREGULAR IN QUIET TRADE

Mail Order Issues Drop Another Point.

Continued optimistic war news was a mild stimulant, but many customers remained aloof pending more important developments. Some bidding was attributed to the belief the list was stronger technically as a result of the three session decline.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 51. Transfers of 641,840 shares compared with 667,330 Thursday.

Among favorites, Allegheny preferreds and Engineers Public Service common edged to new high levels for 1943. Senior stocks in front also were those of Electric Power and Light and United corporation.

Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck dropped another point or more after the latter had caused a fortnight's disappointing first half year earnings report.

RAILS LEAD BONDS.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Spirited bidding for a number of reorganization and other rail issues helped the bond market keep its balance today. Loans of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific took top honors, with gains of ⅝ to 3¼ points. The 4½s of 1989 series E and C, the 3½s and general 4s went to new 1943 peaks.

Colorado and Southern 4½s moved up 4¼ points to 56¾, a new top. Several loans of the Rio Grande Western advanced about a point and six Missouri Pacific bonds closed up fractions to more than a point.

CHICAGO STOCKS UNEVEN.

Fractional gains and losses, almost evenly divided, marked the closing prices yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Transactions totaled 29,000 shares. Most active stocks included Chicago corporation, down ¼ at the close; Libby, McNeill & Libby, down ⅛; North American Car, up 1⅜, and Middle West corporation, up ⅛. Lincoln Printing $3.50 preference reached a new 1943 peak of 20, but closed at 19½, down ¼.

GRAIN MARKETS EDGE HIGHER AS DISTILLERS BUY

Buying of wheat futures, attributed to distillers, aided the grain markets yesterday. Wheat finished ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher. Oats closed ⅜ to ¾ cent higher, with December at a new seasonal high. Rye was ⅝ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

In addition to an active shipping demand, the cash oats market was strengthened by reports that the northwest had ceased to offer either oats or barley for shipment to Chicago, and it was believed that an enlarged eastern demand was responsible for this condition. Both oats and barley have been advancing steadily for several months, the shortage in the supply of cash corn having forced feed manufacturers to use a larger percentage of other grains in their mixtures.

DPC Authorizes Phelps Dodge 13 Million Plant

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—The Defense Plant corporation announced today authorization for construction of a 13 million dollar plant in Indiana, to be operated by Phelps Dodge Copper Products corporation, New York.

WURLITZER.

I understand manufacturing facilities of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company have been converted to war production. What products are being made currently? A financial review would be appreciated.—J. B. W.

Answer: Peace time manufacturer of pianos and piano accordions, pipe organs, and coin operated phonographs, Wurlitzer in 1942 converted both its plants to war work. Component parts for wooden aircraft are being made in the company's De Kalb, Ill., plant, and parts for the aircraft industry, including anti-icers, de-icers, and compasses, are produced in the North Tonawanda, N. Y., plant. The company sells a complete line of musical instruments thru its retail stores.

Net income in the quarter ended June 30, 1943, amounted to $196,745, equal to 42 cents a common share, against $58,280, or 9 cents a share in the corresponding 1942 quarter. Dividends in 1942 totaled 70 cents a common share and thus far in 1943, 45 cents has been paid. Net profit and earnings per common share in recent fiscal years follow:

1943	$ 755,545	$1.63
1942	704,311	1.50
1941	1,107,310	2.48
1940	1,050,132	2.39
1939	802,821	1.79

The company last June called its 7 per cent preferred stock for redemption Oct. 1, 1943, at $120 a share and accrued dividends of $1.75 a share. Retirement of the preferred will leave capitalization consisting of a $200,000 real estate mortgage and 409,573 shares of $10 par common, exclusive of 90,427 shares held in the treasury.

WAR BLOCKS TIN FLOW, BUT U. S. BEATS SHORTAGE

There is some possibility that aluminum may be used to make cans for the packing of certain food items after the war, provided costs are reduced sufficiently. The big war time expansion of the aluminum industry provides a promise that costs will be reduced. In this event, Chicago will be in a fortunate position because of large aluminum production facilities here. It already possesses enormous facilities for the production of tinplate.

It has been especially difficult to find substitutes for the tin used in collapsible tubes of the toothpaste type. Shortages exist among the waxes and lacquers which might be used to serve as coatings for lead. Plastics are said not to have been satisfactory, and the same holds for paper. Aluminum tubes have been used, but aluminum is not as flexible as tin and aluminum is also a critical material.

However, it has been found possible to reduce the amount of tin required in tubes. The requirement that a person must hand in the old tube before getting a new one has made possible the recovery of large amounts of tin.

Solder Proportion Cut.

Silver is being used as a substitute for tin in solder. Silver solder has been found satisfactory in soldering food can ends. Tin-lead solder before the war averaged about 40 per cent tin and 60 per cent lead. Now it is 20 per cent tin and 80 per cent lead.

When this country went to war at the end of 1941 it was estimated to have about 115,700 long tons available. Time, of course, has eaten heavily into this stock pile. But adoption of the conservation regulations have extended the national stockpile, it is said, to a size sufficiently large to last for some years.

Meantime, an increasing amount of tin is being refined at the Langhorn smelter at Corpus Christi, Tex. Originally planned to have an annual 52,000 ton capacity the capacity is being stepped up to 90,000 tons annually. The quality of the tin produced at the Langhorn smelter is said to be improving steadily as experience is gained.

SUPPLY OF HOGS UP, BUT PRICES DECLINE LITTLE

Farmers moved larger supplies of hogs to all markets yesterday, but prices weakened only slightly from the highest levels since last spring, attained Thursday. The market was 5 to 10 cents lower in Chicago, but well above the $14.75 a hundred pounds the office of price administration has set as a ceiling on live hogs effective Oct. 4.

Buyers paid a $15.35 top for selected 210 to 240 pound spring pigs, within 5 cents of the highest price since April 9. The average was off 5 cents at $15.05, only 5 cents under its peak since April 12. All good hogs over 160 pounds in weight and most sows sold above the $14.75 line.

A few of the best steers sold steady, but others were weak. Lambs were steady to 25 cents lower.

PROFITS, SALES OF QUAKER OATS CLIMB IN YEAR

Earnings Before Taxes Reach New Peak.

Sales and earnings before taxes of the Quaker Oats company, Chicago, and wholly owned domestic and Canadian subsidiaries, were the largest in the company's history in the fiscal year ended June 30, stockholders were informed yesterday. John Stuart, chairman of the board, said that the war was responsible for much of the gain, but that the company believed it had strengthened its position in its competitive field.

Net income after taxes and the tax effect of past service retirement annuities was $4,689,564 or $5.17 a share, compared with $4,335,812, or $4.64 a share, in the preceding year. The company's situation from an earnings standpoint is a difficult one, Stuart said, because it operates under ceilings that have taken the profit out of many of its volume items.

Sales Exceed 122 Million.

Net sales last year were $122,178,665, compared with $90,140,229 a year earlier. The volume of business at present is satisfactory, and should continue to be so, said Stuart.

"Our immediate problem is to find people to make and ship the product," he said. "We also expect to have difficulty during the year in getting the grain and supplies we need."

Current assets on June 30, including $11,609,387 cash and marketable securities, amounted to $36,459,654. Current liabilities were $12,054,609. At the end of the preceding year cash and marketable securities were $11,292,908, current assets were $29,569,298, and current liabilities were $5,257,481.

CONSIDER WAYS OF ALLOCATING SCARCER GOODS

Many Stores Found Cut from Suppply.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—The department of commerce made public tonight a report asserting that "some governmental action may become necessary to solve the problem of allocating scarce goods among retail stores.

Altho asserting most manufacturers and wholesalers are attempting to be fair, the report said a survey disclosed new customers, boom areas, and firms cut off from normal supply have not received adequate consideration.

1. Sponsorship of joint agreements for voluntary coöperation.

Price Control, Rationing.

2. Extension of consumer rationing.

3. Greater utilization of price control machinery.

4. Implementation of existing governmental policy on allocation [recommending, in general, that allocations be made in proportion to 1942 purchases, with adjustments for population moves and dealers abandoned by other suppliers].

5. Regulation of allocation in selected trades, with voluntary participation by retailers, or

6. A general mandatory allocation order.

Present Methods Listed.

The report said most manufacturers and wholesalers reported an allocation problem and the need of some plan to solve it. Of present methods, it said the most common were allocation direct to customers in proportion to past purchases, apportionment of scarce items to salesmen on the basis of past sales, favoring old customers, and selling all buyers an equal amount of individual items.

Only two manufacturers and four wholesalers reported a primary principle of favoring larger customers. The department said the survey grew out of a request to the office of price administration by Sen. James E. Murray [D., Mont.], chairman of the senate small business committee.

TWO CHICAGOANS ARE INDICTED ON FRAUD CHARGES

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 24 (AP).—Indictment of two Chicagoans and one man from Butte, Mont., on federal charges of securities fraud, mail fraud, and conspiracy in connection with a Butte gold mine was disclosed today.

Charged with obtaining $125,000 since 1938 to operate the gold mine, the men are Ansgarius H. Johnson, 59 years old, and Ernest F. Johnson, 57, both of Chicago, and Albert C. Fisher, 45, Butte. None has been arrested.

The indictment charged that they leased the Anna Butte gold mine claim in 1938, promoted it under the name of Condor Fisher's Gold Mine, Inc., and sold stock to 50 persons in Illinois, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. Victor Anderson, United States district attorney, said mine operations ceased in December, 1941, after only $400 of a reported $500,000 in gold had been mined.

WPB TO HANDLE MUCH BUSINESS DETAIL IN FIELD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Thousands of application forms which business men formerly had to route to WPB in Washington now will be handled in the field, H. G. Batcheller, WPB vice chairman, announced today in explaining the agency's new decentralization policy. Field offices now will handle ordinary priority applications [PD-1A] up to a value of $1,000, compared with $500 previously. After 90 days the field offices will be empowered to handle applications of a value of $2,500.

On Oct. 15, the field offices will begin processing applications on industrial projects up to $10,000 in value and on Jan. 15, 1944, this authority will be stepped up to $25,000.

Meet Mr. A....

He is an Accountant in the Loop from 9 to 5. He dropped into Wards one noon and applied for some "hard manual work EVENINGS."

Our Interviewer was surprised. "But surely," he said, "with all your training and experience, you'd rather be working in one of our offices."

Said Mr. A.: "I push a pencil around all day ... I want to push around something heavy evenings. I NEED A WORKOUT."

So at WARDS Mr. A is having his workout ... handling stock ... a job that rests his brain and tires his body in a healthy fashion. And, best of all, HE'S GETTING PAID WELL FOR IT.

Besides, he's buying new furniture for his home, clothes for himself and family ... and his CHRISTMAS GIFTS ... all at a LIBERAL DISCOUNT FROM WARDS REGULAR LOW PRICES.
